Only when I meet up with dumb redneck racists like you who call African-American NIGGERS, Jewish-Americans KIKES, threaten to beat up people whom they disagree with on Usenet, want to eliminate Theory because they can't learn it themselves, nor pass the licensing exam for

Yes I did. You're too stupid to comprehend. Go tie a large rope around your neck, tie it to a large upper branch of the oak tree, and then jump. You are a racist and a pedophile.

Nothing is wrong with it, but it is not needed to the depth or extent that is tested for. I can tune and operate any transceiver without knowing how to build it or repair it. I can build an antenna from a drawing use basic math and mechanical skills.

Any knowledge more in depth than that would come from my needs and desires. In the meantime I would operate in full compliance and as cleanly as any amateur would be expected to operate.

Now look at it from the point of someone that has no trouble copying code but stumbles on theory.

The Morse code requirements have been dumbed down a lot over the years. When I was WN6MKE in 1967 or so I think I had to copy 13 WPM to get that license. I never did advance it for a variety of reasons.

I can do Morse code. I can copy 15-20 wpm any day, for 20 odd years I did as much as 35-40 (down on paper and formatted), and 60-90 WPM in short mental "snapshots". That was when I was at my prime. I operated transmitters and receivers and was very good at it. I did not work on them, it was not my job. I was not even allowed to open the cases!

But I have had lifelong poor mathematical/electronic theory skills.
It just does not soak in. I am now a relatively new and not active yet Technician with code (K1JHE). I would like to have a general license but have not passed the theory test yet (in only two tries).

When I look around, I see a lot of people with General licenses that easily passed the theory test and ground out a pass on the dumbed down 5 WPM code test. I don't feel good about them.

They have a General license because it is easier to pass a dumbed down Morse code test than it is to pass a theory test that has not been dumbed down accordingly. I begrudge them that.

What was the code requirement for a General class license in 1967? Why can't I get a dumbed down theory test that is commensurate with the dumbed down, 5 WPM, code requirement?

Yes its true but look on the bright side. Sparky outed Twistydave, we got GW on our team, Medina Mopo has put Steveo in his place, and N8 has helped bust Pacetronics. 2004 is going to be a great year for the AKC.

He has intimated the use of firearms, citing his ownership of a magnum

Other posters have accused this individual of pedophilia, not me. I have merely reproduced their posts, in reply to his reproducing my posts on legitimate questions concerning medications. This individual has also posted replies using the terms "NIGGERS" in reference to African-Americans, and "SLIMEY KIKES" in reference to Jewish-Americans.
What he neglects to tell you here, is that when he ask me to meet him, he also threatened to do me bodily harm in the same lines. Also, I have not changed names. I have used this name throughout this latest harrassment of me by him. There are others who have added posts, but they are not me. They are probably his buddies.

> He's nothing more than a mentally ill Usenet troll.

This individual is dangerous. I am reporting him to my local authorities.

Denied. Even it true, it does not excuse HIS most recent menacing threats to do me bodily harm.

It sounds like it'll wobble, but it should hold the antenna. For best performance, however you'll need to get the base of the antenna a minimum of one wavelength (about 36 feet) off the ground, and I don't recommend you use 10 foot mast sections for that.

I'd use an 8 foot Ground rod installed close to the bottom of the mast, then connect them with the largest wire (or braid) you can find.
Assuming decent connections between the mast sections you should make the connection at the bottom of the mast. In most locations (unless you live in a swamp) you need to go down five feet before you make a good Ground connection anyhow.

No comparison. One act includes physical violence and forced physical impositio against another's will.

> yet you vehemently attempt to justify your >decision to ignore federal law.

Post it. Ahh,,that's right,,you can't,,as I have never "justified" my decision to selectively ignore the law regarding to DX and freeband...on the contrary,,,lids like yourself constantly look to me for validation, seeking "justification' for what I do,,,that I fail to provide a satisfactory answer for yourself is paramount to your communication deficit and hypocitical behavior. As it has always been, I need not offer any explanation or 'justify" my behavior to you or anyone else present, but the fact that you need some type validation from myself has you hallucinating that I offer some sort of explanation to yourself,,,,,LOL.

As long as it doesn't get taken to the extreme level
The courts determined long ago this "level" you speak of, and they have distinguished such behavior as illegal and in violation of the law for good reason. Forcibly intruding and imposing your will against an unconsenting individual IS taking it to the "extreme level." Try that on an educated adult and see where it lands you,,,,,,in the most fortunate scenario, one may need a physician. In an unfortunate scenario, one may require an undertaker.
Then again, most educated adults know better than to forcibly place their unwanted hands on another's person.

>Most educated adults realize the importance >of R.F. spectrum management and the >importance of following the federal rules which >govern them.

Again,,no comparison. The fact that you condone the breaking of a law including physical violence against another while you stand there and fondle yourself sheepishly and cry about another breaking a law is entertainment money can't buy.

No comparison to rape, either. The court recognizes such, which is why the laws and sentencing guidelines differ between the examples you offer. The acts can not be compared.
  They broke the law with their acts, despite you disagreeing with the law. Many times in the past, condoning the breaking of selective laws has been vehemently attacked by yourself.

>I find it ironic that you would be so quick to >uphold the letter of the law in this case, yet so

Oh, I'm not upholding any law, as I'm no leo and am not status-starved like yourself. See Dave, your hypocrisy has you blinded and flailing, looking to me (self-validation) for something to deflect your blatant hypocrisy regarding your behavior,,,not mine. The thread wasn't about me or radio beahvior,,,,in fact, it was clearly marked "OT",,,,yet, the magic I worlk has you misinterpretating, failing to remain on subject, and failing in your commmunication attempts.

>In case you were wondering, yes, you took the >bait and sprung the trap.....

>"Sandbagger"

LOL..it was my post you responded to, not the ohter way around,,of course, with a deficit as massive as yours, I wouldn't expect anything else.,,,,,,shore up that deficit,,,fix that and you may gain some respect for yourself and not need look to others for validation of yourself.

Why Doc? Why would he owe Doc an apology when he does the exact same thing to everyone else? Why do YOU feel Doc is owed an apology anymore than anyone else wa3moj harasses? Dig yourself.

You're right,,Doc is a behind-the-scenes, lowlife, sneaky troll, as opposed to a foaming-at-the-mouth troll like Frank or Hall or Nad or Geo *(Team Voob). Doc doesn't wear his heart on his sleeve,,I had to rip it out so some of our slower residents could see what some of the more astute ones already knew about Doc...if you doubt me, just say the word,,,,nice thing about usenet,,you can't take it back..

The best way to have ham is to get Boars Head Honey Maple Ham, slice really thin, with Jarlsberg swiss, all on a nice fresh italian bread. Hellmans mayo on the bottom, and ceasar salad dressing on the top. Nothing else (no lettuce, tomato, etc.).

The code speed was 13WPM. Sent for 5 solid minutes. You had to copy 1 minute of 100percent copy to have passed. After you demonstrated your ability to send. This was in front of a FCC examiner, of course.

The reason you can't get a dumbed down theory test as you indicated, is that the tests now are already dumbed down. So if you took the 1967 test, it would be harder.

You dont rip out anything except your moronic vacuous mind, you are nothing but an owned puppet of the AKC, jumping on command in fruitless attempts to defend your molested gayboy ways. You are Chukkeesukke's secret wife, you gay hoe.

If you'd just taper off some, like dont let the truckers slam your head down all the way to their nuts, just work about 1/2 way down the shaft, that would be a start. Slowly, with each weener ya blow, you will then ease off of being a full time faggot. Following this course you will then see the day arrive when you only have mild surface contact with trucker's dicks. The very next day you will have tapered off to the point where you no longer eat penises.

Granted, you will have to find another job, but as your vocal cords heal from the overdose of male hormone, and the chancre sores disappear from your lips and tongue, someone will hire you as a night parking lot attendant or something.

My name is Onno de Vries and i'm living in the Netherland and building big amps is my hobby.
I just bought a 4CX 5000A on a radio market here for a good price (180 Euro) including socket.
Becourse the price was so good i took the challenge to build a 88-108 Mhz final from it.
After some experimenting i found out that the anode resonator is a bit of a problem course of the high cappacity of the tube.
I try to do it with a double output coil (together Almost a half wave) wich you see in manny designs for 144 Mhz amateur amps using for example the russian tube GU84.
This works but it has a terrible efficiency,about 25% with the 4CX5000a tube.

I hope somebody can give me some advice about how to design tank circuit with a high efficiecy.

Greetings.....Onno.

You wish, assjuice guzzler. AKC Supreme HQ doesnt get the new member report until next week so friendly fire casualties are to be expected.
Now go back to sucking off goats.

I call your IMPOTENT bluff. In fact, I have been threatened for years on this group by cowards such as yourself,,,and guess what? You will continue to lose access providers to the group, continue to have no backbone or self-esteem, yet, I'll still be pointing out your feminine-like obsessions. Funny how good always triumphs over evil.

Wiggle wiggle. Not my post. That's one of your buddies. And you can't prove otherwise.

I have sent (not fired off) (notice the language similarity to "firing involves your use of hateful racial slurs, and well as menacing threats to do me bodily harm, all motivated by your inability to tolerate my

Well, if you think I'm a fool, I suggest you apply some filters. But I'm not going away, nor am I changing. I'm here to stay. Also,
I suggest you examine your own behavior very closely, with the idea of determining who's really being schooled. Now go curl up in the corner, in a fetal postion, and start sucking your thumb. After an hour of that, have your low-IQ wife bring you a plate of warm noodles.

No thank you.
But I suggest you take it with you to Iraq, where it really counts.
It's easy to threaten it's use on a keyboard, against those with whom you disagree.
Let's see if you can do it where it counts, protecting good against evil, in Iraq, supporting those troops you claim to never forget.

I'm sorry, Steveo, if you don't think complaining to my NSP was a good idea. But that's what my ISP told me to do. I also sent a copy to my local prosecuting attorney, who is a friend of mine. I also sent a copy to a person at Newsreader.com . I'm working day and night on bringing you justice. And I won't quit until I am successful.

And that's the way I took it. At the Federal Building in San Diego.

Damn! If I almost passed the '67 test and then had a near miss on the current test, that means I'm getting older and dumber, not older and smarter. That hurts.

Thanks Dan, I guess I'll just have to do it the old fashioned way and keep boning up until I can pass the General test. I suck at theory and math but I am pretty good at deducing and/or memorizing answers for multiple choice questions. I can do it.

Now I have to get a radio that works. I recently got a Yaesu 757-GX that has turned out to be DOA. But it was free to this point so I'll probably get it fixed if it is not too expensive. I might get on the air yet.

In the mean time I'm enjoying reading some of the HAM news groups.

if you intend to use a ground rod try and keep it at least 4' away from the foundation of the house as many times contractors will back fill around it with all sorts of stuff when the house is going up. i dug a 3 foot pit and put 4 rods at 90d intervals (for stability) with a 5' pole in the middle as a base and filled it with cement.

Stupid too:
The saga of sweaty stan and his ex-wife

Sweaty Stan came home one day from work, hung up his coat, took off his hat and walked into his bedroom shouting "honey I am home!" What should he see but his friend in bed with his wife. Infuriated, he rushed to the cupboard, pulled out his gun and put it to his head. His wife started laughing. "Don't laugh!" he screams. "You're next!

That's good. You'll get immediate updates when we discover who you are and your address.

There won't be any emails, so pull your tongue back in and order you wife to clean up the resulting drool drip with the roll of Charmin.

However, you may dangle the tongue out again after she wipes up after you the first time. Now drool again. We're working on the gathering of evidence and filing a criminal complaint. I know you'll drool extra long and hard thinking about that today. Make it a good one.

As for big pussy, you might want to practice spreading your cheeks, as in that cute little drawing you posted a night or two ago, the one where your balls where exposed hanging down and your asshole is opened wide. Where you may be going soon, that is the perfect nightly position for the pig pussy you'll soon become. Bubba is waiting for you!

p.s. - When you're convicted, count on saying good bye to the magnum and browning. They'll be confiscated. And you won't be allowed to purchase or own another firearm thereafter without penalty of law.

He's in denial. What he thinks is not fat is 325 pounds on a 5'10" frame. His wife hates it when he's on top. His daily treat may not be twinkies, but it does include Debbie cakes and barbecue chips.

You're just so entertaining sweaty constipated Stanley. You've threatened countless people with this same sort of rhetoric.

Every time you get exposed as the over-medicated loser freak that you really are, you pull out this legal tripe. If you're so bothered by me, why do you follow me around Usenet humping my leg?

Look, your idle threats of legal action are stale already. I don't give a ratz azz what you type on your sweat soaked keyboard, you're nothing more than a manic depressive blowhard who craves my attention.

In other words, blow it out your wide constipated ass, suicide boy.

I'm 5'10 195 lbs of solid steel oh sweaty one. From what I've read about you, your mind erasers make -you- gain lots of weight and just want to lay on the couch and graze on pork rinds, fatboy. No wonder

Have you heard about the new bumper sticker selling like crazy in NY?

It says simply "Run Hillary Run"
Democrats are putrting it on their back bumper, Republicans are putting it on their Front bumber.

You are one stupid manfucker who has no fucking clue what war is about. If you weren't such a sissy punk ass bitch boy in the first place you would have some degree of comprehension. The fact that those young men and women go to places like that and risk their lives is the reason you are able to spew your ignorant faggot ass drivel in the first place. You protected ass coward dick sucking faggots make any decent person want to puke. You are a god damned disgrace to the country, you queerbait dick eating piece of stinking wormy dog shit.

Your momma has to be ashamed or as ignorant as you just to be living on the same planet with such an ignorant asswipe cum eater.

You know Doug, the LAST time you printed this, my friend N8ECN wanted to come to toledo and kick the crap out of you. and now your starting it up again. keep your crap up Douglas. and somebody, (like Joe N8ECN) might end up cleaning your clock...

He does attend ALL the local hamfests in the area. and he is quite ticked at you.

and unlike me, He will hurt you. Bank on it, moron.

P.S. If Mark N8EC is reading this newsgroup, it seems that Douglas Adair N8WWM or one of his cohorts (or gay buddies...you decide) is back to printing slams about me and this does contain stuff about Joe N8ECN, again... and before you accuse me, Mark, of doing it. It ain't... if you don't believe me, do a trace route on the IP address in the headers. (if you even know how to do that...) and do a trace route on this message too.. you'll see the difference. Tell Joe if he wants to call me, I'll be around...

Hey for once I agree with you dogie. A a debt of gratitude for taking it to them big time is owed. The only thing is, we missed the real target, Saudi Arabia. Those bugs got away with the murder of 3,000 of us. Thank God for the rock hard gonads of GWB, Tony Blair, and our very good friends down under.

Mopar, unless you live in the same town, the district attorney allegedly contacted is meaningless. Don't sweat the small stuff. They have no jurisdiction in another state, and they most certainly are not going to become involved over an internet squabble such as the one presented. Only one recourse, and that is to employ an attorney. Ask the 'ol ex-FCC lawyer-hammie that funs around the hammie groups...he'll tell ya' the same thing.

.....and here we have yet another warped interpretation of logic from TwistyDave.....

What you are trying to distort is the definition of an inductive argument, which goes something like: "The probability of a statement being true increases with each failed attempt to prove it is not true." But that doesn't apply to you since an inductive argument is only valid as long as nobody succeeds in proving the statement false. Don't be discouraged, Dave, since inductive logic -does- apply to you, in the same manner that it applies to everyone else whose statements has been proven false time and time again -- there is a high probability that anything you say will be false. So your definition would have been more correctly stated, "The likelihood of one individual being correct decreases in direct proportion to the frequency with which others succeed in proving him wrong."

THIS IS MY STORY- THERE ARE MANY MORE, JUST SEARCH THE INTERNET GROUPS!!!!!

The following is a copy of a product return report I sent to copper.

To who it may concern,
This amp was delivered to me on Jan. 9 2004, cod by ups. I hooked it up properly to my Cobra 142gtl base and let it set at room temp to allow it to warm up some as it came off the truck very cold. I used it on AM for approx 15 min with no problems. I switched both amp and radio to sb and spoke to a friend for a short time,no problems. I keyed the mic again and before speaking the amp made a pop noise and I noticed smoke comming out of the top vent. I shut unit off and put it right back in the box that it arrived in. My radio was bought new by me, and has never had any mods or so called golden screw drivers in it. I believe the radio comes from the factory in good working order and does not require any "fixing to operate properly, thus longer life radio parts from undue stress. This radio does 4-5 watts on am and a max of 12(with screem in mic) on sb. I use a stock cobra mic and a solarcon antenna. These facts I have stated I swear to. I believe the proper thing to do is exchange this unit for a new working one as I believe the unit sent was defective. This would be the proper thing to do rather than have the customer wait on repairs, parts or ect. If I must wait then so be it. Thanks you, William D-n-v-n

Mr. D-n-v-n,
We received your amp back from our repair shop and they said that you overdrove the unit and blew it up. The repair bill will be $102.00. Let me know what you want to do.
Thanks
Suzanne

YOU BE THE JUDGE OF ALL THIS_

before you bought the amp did you do any research to find out what coppers warranty was?

THIS IS HOW THEY DID ME- YUP, IM A DUMB ASS, BUT LEARN FROM THIS

The following is a copy of a product return report I sent to copper.

To who it may concern,
This amp was delivered to me on Jan. 9 2004, cod by ups. I hooked it up properly to my Cobra 142gtl base and let it set at room temp to allow it to warm up some as it came off the truck very cold. I used it on AM for approx 15 min with no problems. I switched both amp and radio to sb and spoke to a friend for a short time,no problems. I keyed the mic again and before speaking the amp made a pop noise and I noticed smoke comming out of the top vent. I shut unit off and put it right back in the box that it arrived in. My radio was bought new by me, and has never had any mods or so called golden screw drivers in it. I believe the radio comes from the factory in good working order and does not require any "fixing to operate properly, thus longer life radio parts from undue stress. This radio does 4-5 watts on am and a max of 12(with screem in mic) on sb. I use a stock cobra mic and a solarcon antenna. These facts I have stated I swear to. I believe the proper thing to do is exchange this unit for a new working one as I believe the unit sent was defective. This would be the proper thing to do rather than have the customer wait on repairs, parts or ect. If I must wait then so be it. Thanks you, William Dnvan

THERE REPLY AFTER # WEEKS OF HELL-EMAILED PRESIDENT OF COMPANY
TWICE-NO REPLY

Mr. Dnvan,

We received your amp back from our repair shop and they said that you overdrove the unit and blew it up. The repair bill will be $102.00. Let me know what you want to do.
Thanks
Suzanne

I've blasted transistors in mobile amps and only paid the shipping for the repair.
Like you said Jim, read the label.

have to ask the guy what the amp manufacturer is.
i have dealt with copper years ago and never had a problem though their catalog at the time was cheesy.

I hate to repost the last time Stanley was gonna be man enough to say his spew to my face. Long story-short, Stanley decided he was afraid of what I might do to him if he talked to me in person, like he typed to me.

Now he's gonna get his wannabe prosecutor to bust me.

That shit is side splittin' funny. (fuck you Stanley) buyer beware obviously but driving an amp with 4 watts stock and it fries? if that is true then copper should make the caveat that only low power is needed which brings up another scenario where the operator has to turn it down. what a mess that would bring...

Yes, "mrtimnebo" is confused on this one. The first three sets of my address block never changes. But, I have wondered why "gw" is using a San Antonio RR address. Oh well.

What sympathy? Call 1-800-BOO-HOOO. Need legal advice? Don't buy illegal amps. How about a technical opinion? Most "linear" amps are rated for peak power (PEP) for both input and output. That means if it's rated for 4 watts input, don't feed it any more than 1 watt RMS on AM or 4 watts PEP on SSB. If it's rated for 100 watts PEP output, that means you shouldn't run it any higher than 25 watts out on AM. If that's the case then you probably did overdrive it. You could also have some grounding issues, or a mismatch between the radio and the amp. And here's some more advice: Learn what you are doing so you don't get burned in the future.

Actually no not ever.
What is their goal besides pushing homo sexual behavior?
I mean the insults are so childish and for what goal?
People using export radios and linears???
Sheesh!
If that is their goal it might be easier to stop prostitution!

Due to the popularity of the Survivor shows, several southern tv stations are joining together and are planning to do their own, entitled "Survivor: Southern Style."

The contestants will start in Alabama, travel over to Georgia, then to Florida and on to South Carolina. From there they will head up to North Carolina and over to Tennessee. They will then proceed down to Mississippi and Louisiana. Finally ending up back over in Alabama.

Each will be driving a pink Volvo with New Jersey license plates and large bumper stickers that read:
I'm Gay, I'm a Vegetarian, NASCAR Sucks, Go Yankees! Smoking is for Idiots, No drinking allowed, Hillary in 2004, Deer Hunting is Murder ,and I'm Here to Confiscate Your Guns!

The first one that makes it back to Montgomery alive, wins.

Nope,

Stanley would be disowned if in my Listen up you limp wristed keyqueenz GW has been accepted by AKC and given a field commission. News of his recruitement did not reach N8WWM because frankly N8 is too busy to keep up with shit in this newsgroup.

Do you think he sits around all day reading crap in here like you do? No he is busy with major projects like the Pacetronics bust and survellance at keyclown events as well as advising eBay and Yahoo auctions about leyclown gear. He leaves the day to day policing of you keyqueenz to us. Naturally news of GWs defection hasnt reached him yet but I would not be surprised if N8 reminded us that all ex-keyclowns must be on a probationary period of at least 6 weeks Prozac went through it and he can tell you it was for security reasons as well as the safety of AKC. As you all know GW made the right choice because recently Frank outed TwistyDave and N8 helped bust Pacetronics plus Steveo is being brought down by forces from other newsgroups so 2004 is going to be a great year for the AKC!

I'm not interested in what entertains you. The number of "countless" people amount to only one, your sidekick Browns Town, who also engaged in online behavior which injured me and who also threatened to do me bodily harm. Unlike you, BT had the wisdom to stop.

You have threatened to do me bodily harm, with your fists as well as with a firearm. You have also defamed and otherwise injured me.
Your online behavior has not been been limited to me alone.

> Look, your idle threats of legal action are stale already.

The wheels of justice turn slowly. If you care to accelerate them, as well as spare Curt some trouble, kindly email me your name and address.

You are worried, and rightly so, otherwise you would not continue to reply. You are conscious of your guilt. I continue to prepare for a remedy at law. You would be wise to apologize, and cease your continued offensive and injurious behavior immediately.

Gee,,,that "call" leads to Randy.....(ho-hum)! Again, the need for him to be another person, any other person, is forefront and in the spotlight. Never seen so many in one spot with self-esteem so low they want to be someone else..it merely illustrates how dissatisfied they are with their self.

Many amps say "X-amount of watts out with 3 or 4 watts in." Additional watts, even one, = user error, NOT more power. You need admit, the majority of repairs on many fiddled with radios and amps arrive that state via user error and/or ignorance. The radio and amp need "married" to each other in a most perect union. This obviously was not done. In many, many cases of such amp use, a lower dead key on the radio (necessitating an adjustment to the output) is not only desirable, but necessary. Chances are he overdrove it.

Those Wi-Fi's are out of hand here. You can inadvertantly land on another's lan and the signals can be overwhelming because of overcrowdedness,,at times, there are some six to nine networks available, some will drop out, and at other times, none are available. Reliability sucks because of the overabundance and interference with each other's signals here. Infancy stage......

Perhaps the one I heard coming out of Galveston last week was using a Mt. Nebo (There is such a place) Amplifier. He sounded loud and had a good signal, but it was all he could do to listen to the 'pile..I really wish I could say it was me,,but it was all momma nature,,,,,it was one of those days where everyone in Texas said the pile was 30 db all the live long day. The radio seems to handle the bleed-over pretty well, but not as well as I

I'll probably be doing some of the many "tricks" that are posted on the net

Illegal faggot keyclowns are not allowed to post illegal faggot keyclown items on ebay. This is ebay's rule, it is an FCC regulation, and it is an order from your Owners and Masters, the AKC. Here's hoping one of you faggots got your auction ratted out.

Have a nice day.

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1382 – February 6, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1382 with a release date of Friday, February 6, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. A major problem for Amsat Oscar 40, a surprise BPL rollout in Pennsylvania, UPS says that illegal 10 meter radios will be ordered out of company trucks and another view of the ARRL's restructuring proposal. Find out the details on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1382 coming your way right now.

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: AO-40 SUFFERS CATASTROPHIC POWER FAILURE

The main battery pack on board the AMSAT Oscar 40 satellite has failed and controllers are unsure if the bird can be brought back to life on the reserve power system. Amateur Radio Newsline's Norm Seeley, KI7UP, tells us what happened on-orbit:

According to AMSAT Executive Vice President Rick Hambly, W2GPS, AO-40 began its tumble to obscurity on Sunday, January 25th. That's when the satellites battery voltage momentarily dropped to 24 point 5 volts. This triggered a fail-safe that shut down the satellites passbands. Then, at the beginning of the eclipse on orbit 1486 the battery voltage rapidly dropped just below the cutoff voltage of 24.0 volts and this shut down the transmitters to protect the battery and other on board equipment.

AMSAT controllers kept a close eye on the bird and on Tuesday the 27th the battery voltage suddenly dropped from to 14V. Mission commanders currently believe that more battery cells short circuited. Control stations immediately began transmitting blind commands to the spacecraft in an attempt to switch over to the auxiliary battery. Eventually, the auxiliary battery pack came on line, but in parallel with the main pack. This means that the shorted main Ni-Cad battery is loading down the back-up Nickel Metal Hydride cells are clamping the voltage low and keeping the auxiliary battery from fully powering the spacecraft.

AMSAT is hopeful that one of the cells in the main battery will eventually fail open circuit. This would effectively remove the damaged battery from service and permit the back up battery to assume the full load of AO-40. In the meantime its a waiting game with fingers crossed that no other catastrophic failures to other parts of the satellite take place.

A set of spare A0-40 back-up batteries were found at the AMSAT lab in Orlando Florida. Using them Stan Wood, WA4NFY and Lou Mc Fadin, W5DID performed a series of tests that showed the auxiliary battery pack on board the satellite should work well if they are otherwise undamaged. Unfortunately, than will only happen if the main battery pack can be pulled off line.

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: MIKE FOALE TALKS HOME

Still with ham radio in space, Wednesday, January 28th was a very special day on board the International Space Station for Astronaut Mike Foale. That’s because the space traveler got the chance to speak to students at the school he used to attend and he did so using Amateur Radio. Take a listen:

--

The contact between Foale on board the I-S-S and the kids at The King’s School, Canterbury, England began at 17:42 UTC when the I-S-S answered the call of G-B-4-F-U-N. That station was operated by G-Zero-A-K-I and the audience kept its breath as Foale answered 12 questions.

Contact Audio - No print transcript

Media coverage of this contact was impressive. Meridian TV, BBC TV, BBC Radio Kent, Invicta Radio and the Kent Gazette interviewed the students and put reports in the main newscasts. The BBC World Service and the Press Association asked for information and contact transcripts. (ARISS, ON4WF)

THE BPL FIGHT: PA HAMS ORGANIZE TO FIGHT ALLENTOWN ROLLOUT

Hams in Northampton County in eastern Pennsylvania, just outside of Allentown, are organizing a campaign to protest announced plans by PP&L to offer Broadband Internet Service over power lines in a development in Hanover Township. The Allentown-based utility has been doing field tests of the technology in nearby Emmaus, Pa.

The ARRL's Eastern Pennsylvania Section Manager Eric Olena, WB3FPL says PP&L sent out 2,000 letters to residents in a section of Hanover Township and already has received replies from 200 people interested in subscribing to the service.

Olena says an ARRL District Emergency Coordinator and other hams met with township officials to warn them about the massive inteference Broadband over Power Lines brings to the radio spectrum, including fire and emergency frequencies. But, he says, the officials apparently were swayed by the utility's assurances no such interference exists.

An interview with Olena and others involved in the battle, coming in next week's Newsline. (ARNewsline(tm), NT3V)

ENFORCEMENT: EVEN MORE COOPERATION COMBATTING 10 METER PIRATES FROM UPS

A follow-up to our recent story concerning the use of unlicensed 10 meter radio gear on-board United Parcel Service Trucks. As reported, back on January 7th the FCC notified the U-P-S offices in Elkhart Indinana and Middleburg Heights Ohio of its findings. The company offered its full cooperation to end the problem.

Now comes word from the FCC that they have been contacted by UPS national corporate headquarters has contacted the regulatory agency and the company did not mince any words. It told the FCC that the agency has its full cooperation in removing any unlicensed radio gear and any non-certified two-way gear from their delivery fleet, nation wide.

According to UPS, the only personally owned radio gear permitted in their trucks under a collective bargaining agreement with their union drivers are commercially built unmodified C-B sets, and that only on a regional as-needed basis. No other radios are allowed. (FCC, UPS, others)

ENFORCEMENT: THE FCC ACTIVE IN A NUMBER OF CASES

Meantime, the FCC has been active in a number of other enforcement issues involving ham radio operators. The agency’s Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, has more:

Duckworth: “An Extra class license was downgraded to Technician class due to a failure to appear for a retest in Solidad California. Also, cancellation of an Extra class license in Medera California for the same reason.

A notice for retesting was sent to a General class licensee in Hialeah Florida. The deadline for that one is March 1st.

A letter requesting additional information pursuant to Section 308(b) of the Communications Act -- in order to make a decision on a General class renewal went out to Newton Square PA..

A letter settling enforcement action with a General class licensee in Bart VT. has resulted in voice operation prohibited for three years on 20 meters.

Daryl Duckworth, NN0W, reporting.

Even though its still not naming names of alleged violators the FCC is making sure that those thinking about breaking its rules know its still around. (FCC, RAIN)

RESTRUCTURING: ANOTHER LOOK AT THE ARRL PROPOSAL

Even though there are more than a dozen restructuring proposals before the FCC, its the American Radio Relay Leagues recent filing that really has the world of Amateur Radio talking. The obvious question is why, and thats what we asked correspondant Mark Abramovich, NT3V, to find out:

As more amateurs find out what the ARRL has to say, they're starting to pay attention.

When the ARRL speaks, the FCC generally listens. In the past, the FCC has used the organization's proposals as a foundation for decisions.

To understand where the ARRL is coming from, you might want to get some perspective from the past. Who better to offer it than Harry Dannals W2HD - elected ARRL president in 1972 and re-elected to five consecutive terms. Now retired and living in Charlottesville, Va., Dannals is on top of the debate.

"It's a long cry from the days of incentive licensing when we did have people who resigned their membership, withdrew their membership, or did not renew their membership, just to show their disappointment and utter dissatisfaction with the incentive licensing proposal as it was named," Dannals recalls. "Because that was indeed (what it was), in the minds of the ARRL board headed at that time by President Herb Hoover.

He believed that in order for us to show that we were improving ourselves and becoming better at what we do that we should upgrade our license structure."

Dannals says the claim the ARRL proposal for a "no code" HF license "dumbs down" the hobby is off the mark.

"I think the new proposal, despite the criticism by those who say: 'I had to do it and therfore, you have to do it,' I think the new proposal will bring more people into amateur radio than the 'no code' proposal ever did," Dannals says.

Dannals says the Novice concept will go a long way in revitalizing interest.

"The introductory grade of license will give them some of the things that will make amateur radio mean more, the long-distance communication, the long friendships that develop over the many thousands of miles," Dannals says. "And I do believe we need this."

Dannals laughs at the fears that we'll need hundreds of FCC types to police the new hams.

"I think if the amateurs themselves who have experience, the older timers - and they don't have to be white-haired and grizzly old-timers - they can be relatively newcomers, maybe 5-10 years," Dannals says. "They can take care of tutoring the newcomers more than adequately."

Dannals says local radio clubs are the key to success for any license restructuring.

"Put out a handshake and say: 'Come on board. We'll help you, we'll teach the courses that you can use to get your license and we'll help you once you've got your license.' The old Elmering still is working."

Keep an ear open for more on this from both Harry Dannals and Mark Abramovich as all of the restructuring petitions wind their way through the FCC rules making process over the next several months. ARNewsline(tm))

REGULATORY: CROSS BORDER RADIO DISPUTE BETWEEN US AND MEXICO BROADCASTERS

A cross border radio war may be brewing between the United States and Mexico. This as complaints of massive interference to United States broadcast operations from a new station on 560 kHz in Tecate Tijuana Mexico lead to a high level telephone call between the FCC and the Mexico’s SCT on Thursday, January 29th. A call that many hoped will defuse the situation before it escalates any further.

According to the CGC Communicator, the SCT which is Mexico's telecommunications regulator is said to have promised swift action in eliminating the interference that XEKTT is currently causing to U.S. stations. But the story does not end here. Concern for Mexico's planned operations as XESS on 780 kHz and XEDD 920 kHz, also in the vicinity of Tijuana continues to mount. A printed copy the authorization for 780 kHz has surfaced. It confirms that operation with 20 kilowatts dayside and 10 kilowatts night with non-directional facilities both times and a quarter-wave tall broadcast tower is in fact sanctioned by the SCT.

The CGC Communicator says that this confirms the power figures it published a few weeks ago and establishes what it terms as more blow torch situations. Meanwhile, additional broadcasters are joining the list of companies concerned with the current 560 kHz interference. (CGC)

ENFORCEMENT: THE FCC VS. THE SUPERBOWL HALFTIME SHOW

FCC Chairman Michael Powell has ordered an investigation of the telecast of last weeks Superbowl half-time show in which rock performer Justin Timberlake ripped part Janet Jackson costume on-camera. The stunt brought a massive number of complaints to the regulatory agency from viewers of the game.

In a press release obtained by the Amateur Radio Newsline, Powell states: “I am outraged at what I saw during the halftime show of the Super Bowl. Like millions of Americans, my family and I gathered around the television for a celebration. Instead, that celebration was tainted by a classless, crass and deplorable stunt. Our nation’s children, parents and citizens deserve better.”

CBS which aired the game denied that the incident was preplanned. None-the-less, Powell instructed the Commission to open an investigation into the broadcast. He also stated that the inquiry will be thorough and swift.

At least in theory, each station that permitted the video to be aired could be fined or have its license designated for as hearing if the investigation finds that the material was either indecent or obscene. (FCC release)

RESCUE RADIO: AGENCY WARNS OF BIG FIRE SEASON IN THE SOUTHWEST

Hams involved in emergency communications in the Western United States should get ready for a rather busy fire season. At least that’s what a recently released preliminary outlook for 2004 seems to imply. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, has the retails:

According to Jay Miller, W-A-5-W-H-N and Raleigh Stout A-C-5-J-W, the Southwest Area Coordination Center in Albuquerque, issued the report. The center is a multiagency hub for the region's wildfire operations and it says that persistent drought and millions of dead or dying trees have set the stage for a fire season as bad or worse than 2002. That’s when millions of acres burned across the region.

In southeastern Arizona and southern New Mexico, field surveys reveal that the snow pack holds less than 20% of the average moisture of a normal mid-winter. Coupled with the 2003 monsoon season being one of the driest in a century, the center says that tinderbox conditions are manifest.

And its going to get worse. With little relief in sight, the fire season, which usually begins in April, could start a month or more earlier. Public land managers are being urged to complete training and preparations sooner than usual and to put more firefighters on duty. It also means that hams involved in support of firefighting efforts will need to hone their skills a lot earlier this year in order to be prepared.

For the Amateur Radio Nerwsline, I’m Bill Passternak, WA6ITF

Its beginning to look as if firefighters and the ham radio operators who support them may have a tough fire season ahead. (ARNewslin(tm), WA5WHN)

News reports say that Maria Chaidez Karam processed the calls for help - including several emergencies - during the 41-minute glitch. In fact, she relayed details via her own cellular telephone to the police dispatch center's seven-digit non-emergency number.

RADIO LAW: ABRAMS VS. RPV - ANOTHER WIN

An update on the case of radio site owner Mark Abrams WA6DPB versus the city of Rancho Palos Verdes California. Abrams has been embroiled in litigation against the city for several years and has won every round, This is no different. The 9th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled on Thursday, January 15th, that Abrams is entitled to damages, attorneys fees and court costs from the city, but there is a catch. Abrams says that the decision only entitles him to a trial to determine the amount of money involved. It does not set an award amount. (WA6DPB)

THE WAR ON TERROR: SECURITY ALERT FOR CELL PHONE GUNS

Don't be surprised if you're asked to make a call on your cellphone the next time you go through airport security. Time Magazine quotes sources as saying handguns disguised as regular cellular telephones have been seized in several drug raids across Europe.

The potentially deadly devices look exactly like a normal cellular handset but are capable of rapidly firing four .22-caliber rounds of ammunition. They are manufactured in Croatia and are fired by punching buttons on the keypad

So far, none of the phony cellphones are known to have surfaced in the United States. Aviation security experts say screening equipment now in use can detect these cellphone guns as well as all other improvised explosive devices.. POSTAL PROBLEMS: CQ INVESTIGATES DAMAGED MAGAZINES

If you are wondering why your ham radio and other magazines have been showing up with torn covers or their insides missing, you are not alone. So were the folks at CQ who were receiving complaints from their readers. So they launched their own probe and what they found that its likely a problem at the United States Postal Service.

According to CQ Publisher Dick Ross, K2MGA, the postal system has installed new equipment that’s designed to speed up the processing of mail through automated sorting. Ross says that it usually works quite well but unofficial information coming to him says that the units can cause problems if they are even slightly out of adjustment. As Ross says, it sounds as if the new technology demands maintenance far beyond having a service crew fix it when it breaks.

Ross says that his magazines have already taken steps to get around the problem until the postal service finds a permanent fix. This includes new imported paper for the magazine covers.

What Dick Ross found out about the foibles of the postal services automated sorting system makes good reading. You can find it on page 4 of the February issue of CQ Magazine. (CQ)

NAMES IN THE NEWS: FCC ENGINEER MICHAEL J. MARCUS HONORED BY IEEE

A word of congratulations to Dr. Michael J. Marcus, N3JMM, of the FCC’s Office of Engineering and Technology. This, after recently being conferred as a Fellow by the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers based on his extraordinary record of accomplishment.

The IEEE chosen to honor Marcus’ contributions in the field of radio technologies with specific recognition to his creative technological vision that significantly advanced policies. This helped to lead to the deployment of spread spectrum and Wi- Fi technologies.

Dr. Marcus joined Office of Engineering and Technology in 1979 and currently serves as its Associate Chief for Technology. He received his bachelor's and doctorate degrees in electrical engineering from Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Before joining the FCC, Dr. Marcus worked for Bell Laboratories, the U. S. Air Force, and the Institute for Defense Analyses. (FCC release)

THAT FINAL ITEM: BROADBAND OVER POWERLINES - AUSTRALIA SHOULD WAIT AND SEE

And finally this week, the pitfalls of broadband over powerlines technology have been highlighted down-under by a group calling itself The Spectrum Issues Group Australia or S-I-G-A. This, in a letter published in the Sydney Morning Herald and The Age news papers. Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB has the details.

While BPL holds out the promise of always-on internet availability from every household power point, overseas experience with this new technology shows Australia should not rush into adopting it.

BPL/PLC systems installed here would cause significant interference to high frequency communications users across Australia which include emergency services, aircraft, police, rural and remote services, maritime, government agencies and private users such as we Radio Amateurs.

Roger Harrison, VK2ZRH, speaking for the group says they are an informal alliance of organisations and individuals across Australia with interests in RF communications and technologies. Alliance members come from broadcasting, community service bodies, consultancies, emergency services, equipment manufacturers and suppliers, government, industry bodies, the radio amateur community and other radiocommunications users.

Graham Kemp, VK4BB.

ENFORCEMENT: EVEN MORE COOPERATION COMBATTING 10 METER PIRATES FROM UPS

A follow-up to our recent story concerning the use of unlicensed 10 meter radio gear on-board United Parcel Service Trucks. As reported, back on January 7th the FCC notified the U-P-S offices in Elkhart Indinana and Middleburg Heights
Ohio of its findings. The company offered its full cooperation to end the problem.

Now comes word from the FCC that they have been contacted by UPS national corporate headquarters has contacted the regulatory agency and the company did not mince any words. It told the FCC that the agency has its full cooperation in removing any unlicensed radio gear and any non-certified two-way gear from their delivery fleet, nation wide.

According to UPS, the only personally owned radio gear permitted in their trucks
under a collective bargaining agreement with their union drivers are commercially built unmodified C-B sets, and that only on a regional as-needed basis. No other radios are allowed. (FCC, UPS, others)

No matter who did it, it is what was promised a year or two ago. It's coming TRUE!! HooooRAY!!

A self named "great ham", ChukkeeDIKKIESukkee, sides with the faggot pirates, ay?

Figures...you can't post on QRZ anymore, Fred rammed it down your cum encrusted mouth....hehehe...

We know how you have a need to join something, so you will "belong".

Hey when I was at the L'anse Creuse fest guys were there talking about what a whippo weird shithunk you are. I made sure to include the fact that you threaten people with guns on the internet. They had quite a hoot about your faggot ass. So did we.

You eat the shit out of a putrefied and maggoty dead dog's ass, ChukkeeSukkee. There aint shit you can do about what I or anyone else does, because you are a faggotboy who makes empty threats over the internet. That is all you are. Well, not all. I forgot to add a lying piece of shit.

Now go visit your web page, faggot.

It won't be any of your doing. It will be mine and mine alone. I will also send them a postcard and post it on the web as well...faggots.

Yes, all of the illegal radio sellers are going dow...no shit Dick Tracy. Just a matter of time. Anytime I need something amusing to keep my day from being just more work at the salt mines I spend the lunch hour collecting JPG's and HTML. Fun Fun Fun...and Daddy IS gonna take 2685. The updated "Whole Story"...much more accurate

The whole story, up to now….

Doug: Hi Sparky! How are you!

Sparky: I'm good Doug. Is dinner ready?

Doug: Almost. In the meantime, you can snack on me, but we need to hurry before George gets here.

Sparky:(screaming) Doug! Will you shut up with the advances! I already told you I've started to like women now! Now leave me alone!

Doug: OK, OK! I just thought we could be like the old days again.

Sparky: No, I'm really going to stick it out this time.

Doug: (sniffling) Ok Sparky, have it your way. I'll respect your wishes.

Sparky: Where's George? Do we have to wait for him to eat?

Doug: Yes, he's bringing the salad.

Sparky: OK. Got any snacks?

Doug: I think so, let me check.

(knock at the door) Doug answers the door.

Doug:(exclaiming) George! My God! What happened to you?

George:(crying) I was just out minding my own business, following this little girl, and all the sudden, wham! Her Dad must have seen me and punched me. I had just asked if she wanted some candy too. I think I could have had her. Then the Dad pulled out of the window of my Pacer, and beat me some more. I think he dislocated my shoulder too.

Sparky: Can we eat now?

Doug: Sparky, can't you see George is hurt? Go get one of the steaks for George's black eyes. And while you're in the kitchen Sparky, get some ice for his broken nose and busted lip too.

Sparky: OK, but I ain't eating the steak that you use on George's eyes!

Doug: OK, whatever!

(Sparky spends fully 5 minutes trying to figure out which steak is the smallest, so he can have the biggest…then finally he returns)

Doug: God Sparky! Why did you take a bite out of it? It's raw, for Christ's sake!

Sparky:(unintelligible mumbling caused by mouthful of raw steak)

Doug:(grabs steak from Sparky and applies it to George's eyes) There now George. Is that better? Dougy knows how to make you feel better, doesn't he?

George: Yes Doug, it's much better now. Thanks, you know I bruise easily.

Doug: Hey Sparky, light the grill.

Sparky: Hey, those steaks ain't half bad raw! Do we really need to cook them?

Doug: My God Sparky! Sometimes you act like a Neanderthal! Light the damn grill!

(Sparky goes out back, turns on the gas, clicks the igniter repeatedly, nothing happens. Goes back inside for matches and returns)

Doug:(just as Sparky lights the match) NO! STOP!

(loud explosion)

Sparky: (screaming) I'm on fire! Somebody help me!

(Sparky runs back through the house with his beard on fire, screaming for help. Doug and George race behind him with teacups filled with water)

Finally, Doug and George manage to catch Sparky and beat out the fire in Sparky's beard with the teacups.

Sparky: Thanks guys! That was close! I saw my life flash before my eyes.

Doug: No prob Sparky. You know we love you.

George: Speak for yourself, Doug! Faggot!

Sparky: Can we eat now?

George: Well, we could if you hadn't blown up the grill!

Doug: It's OK Sparky. We'll just grill the steaks on the stove.

Sparky: I don't wanna wait! I'm getting dizzy. My cholesterol must have dropped below 300.

George: Here, drink this.

Sparky: What is it?

George: Bacon drippings. It will bring the cholesterol level back up in your blood.

Sparky:(drinks greedily) Burp! Thanks George.

George: No problem. Hey Doug, you still have that "Little Boys Gone Wild in Toledo" video?

Doug: I think so…check over there in the gay porn by the VCR.

George: Faggot! (looks for the tape)

Sparky: I'm hungry! Let's eat.

Doug: Just hang on a minute. Let me get these damn steaks cooked. (throws the steaks in the pan)

George: (tearing his eyes off the video) Sparky, get the salad and dressing ready, will ya? I'm busy now.

Sparky: OK, George. (Sparky sets the table)

Doug: How do you guys like your steaks?

Sparky: Raw is fine with me.

George: (rubbing his crotch while watching the little girl video) I don't care. Yeah, raw is fine with me too.

Doug: (mumbles) Damn weirdo's…

Doug: (grease splatters on Doug's hairless chest) Ouch!

George: Doug, do you mind if I take this video home with me?

Doug: Sure, take it. You know I don't like females.

George: (under his breath) Faggot!

Sparky: Can we eat now?

Doug: Yep! Steaks are done. (Doug places them on the table)

Sparky: I'm first George! That's my steak!

George: Whatever Sparky! Hell, I'm just gonna leave now. (grabs the video and heads for the door)

Doug: Where you going, George?

George: Um…uh…I'm not really hungry now. I think I'll just watch this tape at home.

Sparky: Good! Gimme his steak.

Doug: OK George, see ya later.

George: Bye

Scene: Much later in the evening after George has gone home to watch his kiddy porn, we return to find Doug and Sparky enmeshed in each other's arms.

Doug: Sparky, I knew you would come around.

Sparky: Well Doug, I kind of feel guilty…almost as if I'm slipping back into my old self. I've really tried to kick this man habit, but I can't seem to stop having feelings for you.

Doug: Well Sparky, I always knew we were meant for each other.

Sparky: I only ask one thing of you, Doug.

Doug: What might that be, Sparky?

Sparky: All I ask is that you don't breath a word of this encounter to George.

Doug: Fair enough. I know he's a bit of a bigot.

Sparky: Yes he is, but he's still my only real friend. You know, I can't count the times that he's tried to save me when I've gotten in over my head on the newsgroup.

Doug: I know Sparky, and he's done the same for me. I really love him, but I can't let him know that.

Sparky: So, we're sworn to secrecy, right Doug?

Doug: Absolutely! Remember, we did take the AKC pledge.

Sparky:(chuckles quietly)

Sparky: (tentatively) OK Doug, I'm all yours.

Scene: Fade to black…

Lancer, please be nice to GW. You know, you being me and all, I don't want the AKC after me. They really intimidate me.

The Internal Revenue sends their auditor to a audit a synagogue. The auditor is doing all the checks, and then turns to the Rabbi and says, "I noticed that you buy a lot of candles."

"Yes," answered the Rabbi.

"Well, Rabbi, what do you do with the candle drippings?" he asked.

"A good question," noted the Rabbi. "We actually save them up and when we have enough, we send them back to the candle maker and every now and then, they send us a free box of candles."

"Oh," replied the auditor somewhat disappointed that his unusual question actually had a practical answer. So he thought he'd go on, in his obnoxious way..."Rabbi, what about all these matzo purchases? What do you do with the crumbs from the matzo?"

"Ah, yes," replied the Rabbi calmly, "we actually collect up all the crumbs from the matzo and when we have enough, we send them in a box back to the manufacturer and every now and then, they send a box of matzo balls."

"Oh," replied the auditor, thinking hard how to fluster the Rabbi.

"Well, Rabbi," he went on, "what do you do with all the foreskins from the circumcisions?"

"Yes, here too, we do not waste," answered the Rabbi. "What we do is save up all the foreskins, and when we have enough we actually send them to the Internal Revenue."

"Internal Revenue!?," questioned the auditor in disbelief.

"Ah, yes," replied the Rabbi, "Internal Revenue. And about once a year, they send us a little prick like you."

Sorry, but amplifiers are not illegal. Only certain uses of amplifiers are illegal. Don't you know anything? You been around DouGay and Georgie-girl too long!

No, we don't believe you.

Copper deserves whatever happens to them. They have always been rip-off artists (who else would hold a Postal money order for three weeks to clear the bank?). But it has nothing to do with selling amplifiers. I'm sure there are some dumb amateurs that buy from Copper, so why shouldn't Copper offer amps for them?

No matter what, Copper won't be shut down. They may be fines, but that's it. Wake up and smell the coffee.

Hey Georgie-girl: N8 couldn't bust a nut if he had to, let alone Pacetronics. Neither could you, you French-posting coward!

All DouGay ever does is sit on his blubber-butt and spam the newsagroup. Just like you, Georgie-girl. You both should grow up.

Frank didn't "out" anything but his own stupidity. Where's the proof that Twist is "Dave"? Hasn't been posted yet.

2004 is going to be a great year, but not for the AKC. What a bunch of losers.

The issue is not who followed whom, nor who started what.
The issue is your criminal and otherwise injurious online behavior.

Whatever I did in the radio group does not excuse nor justify your earlier criminal and otherwise injurious behavior.

I could take that as a compliment if you were capable of understanding anything I said beyond the sarcasm. You can't, so I won't.

>The likelihood of one individual being correct increases in a direct >proportion to the intensity with which others try to prove him wrong

Does that include proof like "...they both use Supernews so therefore they must be the same person..."? Or how about, "...because I said so..."? Should the similarity between the handle 'Sparky' and the surname 'Sparks' be considered "proof"? Oh, that's right, you don't answer questions because that would compromise your warped interpretation of the 'Golden Rule' -- do unto others then avoid the consequences by any means possible.

Carry on, Dave.

You don't comprehend.
He complained of staleness. I suggested he accelerate things by emailing me his. Or he can ignore what he views as stale.
That's his choice.
I didn't ask him to post is online.
He'll learn mine soon enough when process is commenced.
With or without his cooperation, I will discover his name and address and proceed accordingly.
The suggestion to ask him directly for his name and address came from his friend Curt at Newsreader.com, who obviously wants to avoid the hassle.

You are right - I don't. You want his addy/phone - then give him yours.
If he calls you, you have his number anyway. But the bottom line is that you keep attacking him endlessly in a bizarre stalking ritual, and the right thing to do would be for you to go to his house and confront him in person. Face to face. Mano y mano. Gumby and Pokey. Scratch and sniff.

Irrelevant? Not hardly Stanley. What is relevant is that you are a stalking little putz that followed someone around enough to make them say something that you construe as some sort of threat. And yes wimpy-boy, I did learn enough to ignore little punks like you, or to my amusement, maybe knock their books out from under their arms as they walk down the hall. A bully? No. But when punks like you hide behind the teacher and make threats, you get what's coming to you. The teacher won't always be there. That's obviously one of the lessons you missed in school. You started the shit with Mopar, and he did nothing to you. You, on the other hand, have somehow IMAGINED that you have been injured and defamed. Grow up little punk!!!!!!!!!!!!

No, Cranus the Anus...you dick sucker...you are wrong. It is illegal to make, sell, distribute, offer to sell, or posess an amplifer that works with less than 50 watts drive out of the box and operates on frequencies between 24 and 35 mHz.

You are just obsessionally repeating your own lie in the false hope that somehow the rule will change for you. Nope.

Afterall, that IS what faggot keyclowns do. Look at your gay lovers at Pacetronics, refusing a certified letter in the retarded and cringing hope that it would not count as served if they did so. Idiots like you should be locked up in a home somewhere without web access. Of course

Proof that cranus the cum eating anus is a lying piece of shit:

"Section 2.815(b) of the Commission's Rules prohibits the marketing of External Radio Frequency Power Amplifiers (or amplifier kits) capable of operation on any frequency or frequencies between 24 and 35 MHz."

This taken from the text of the FCC citation given to Pacetronics.

What else is necessary to show Cranus the Anus is a lying shit hunk with sperm on his cum soaked face?

He is just a stupid ass nut washing gay faggot praying to make it not be so by repetition of a lie!

The FCC says THIS:

"Section 2.815(b) of the Commission's Rules prohibits the marketing of External Radio Frequency Power Amplifiers (or amplifier kits) capable of operation on any frequency or frequencies between 24 and 35 MHz."
This quote is from the letter sent to your faggot shithunk asswipes at Pacetronics, who we brought down by providing necessary data to various government agencies.

Since we know cranus the cum eating anus aint any part of the law...I would GUESS that the legally constituted LAW of this country is not the liar here.

Father O'Malley answers the phone "Hello, is this Father O'Malley?"
"It is"
"This is the IRS. Can you help us?"
"I can"
"Do you know a Ted Houlihan?"
"I do"
"Is he a member of your congregation?"
"He is"
"Did he donate $10,000 to the church?"
"He will".

An elderly man walks into a confessional. The following conversation ensues:
I have a wonderful wife of 70 years, many children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren. Yesterday, I picked up two college girls, hitchhiking. We went to a motel, where I had sex with each of them three times."
P riest: "Are you sorry for your sins?"
Man: "What sins?"
Priest: "What kind of a Catholic are you?"
Man: "I'm Jewish."
Priest: "Why are you telling me all this?"
Man: "I'm telling everybody."

BROTHEL TRIP An elderly man goes into a brothel and tells the madam he would like a young girl for the night. Surprised, she looks at the ancient man and asks how old he is.
"I'm 90 years old," he says.
"90!" replies the woman.
"Don't you realize you've had it?"
"Oh, sorry," says the old man. "How much do I owe you?"

SENILITY An elderly man went to his doctor and said, "Doc, I think I'm getting senile.
Several times lately, I have forgotten to zip up."
"That's not senility," replied the doctor. "Senility is when you forget to zip down."

PESTCONTROL A woman was having a passionate affair with an inspector from a pest-control company. One afternoon they were carrying on in the bedroom together when her husband arrived home unexpectedly.
"Quick," said the woman to her lover," into the closet!" and she pushed him in the closet, stark naked.
The husband, however, became suspicious and after a search of the bedroom discovered the man in the closet. "Who are you?" he asked him.

"I'm an inspector from Bugs-B-Gone," said the e xterminator.
"What are you doing in there?" the husband asked.
"I'm investigating a complaint about an infestation of moths," the man replied.
"And where are your clothes?" asked the husband.
The man looked down at himself and said,... "Those little bastards."

Is it not illegal if it doesn't involve this newsgroup or CB radio?
Are some criminals above the law, as they consider themselves part of some

Medina Mopo's behavior doesn't cross the threshold for criminal stalking. His speech is neither defamatory nor criminally threatening.

> And yes wimpy-boy, I did learn enough to ignore little punks like you,

Knocking books out from under the arms of another student is criminal and tortious conduct.

A juvenile delinquent? Yes.
A juvenile charged criminally as a adult? Quite possibly.

> But when punks like you hide behind the teacher and make threats,

Medina Mopo has made no threats. You can't prove otherwise.

Nothing short of self-defense justifies or excuses that kind of behavior.

The law of the land protects all its citizens, even types like you, Randy.

You're mistaken on both counts. Even if true, it doesn't justify nor excuse his criminal and tortious behavior.

> IMAGINED that you have been injured and defamed.

Physicians will say Medina Mopo has not imagined his injuries and will testify to the same. A jury will decide if he's been defamed.

His attempt at avoidance will be futile, particularly since your Pity it won't help your defense much.

consequence, he's wrong. If you didn't pay him, I'm not surprised you're getting bad advice. Either way, Steveo, you're going in the

You claim copyright "theft" (infringement). Do you even know what that means? Do you even know what rights are provided by a copyright? And do you know how far copyright laws will protect you with nothing more than the proclaimation of copyright (i.e, not registering the material to be protected)? Look it up. Study the subject. Learn a little bit about something before you spout your mouth off. Then come back and answer the question: What laws are they breaking?

>>Who in this newsgroup was victimized by "copyright theft",
>Are people and companies outside of this newsgroup not entitled to the >protection of the law?

That didn't answer the question: Who in this newsgroup was victimized by "copyright theft"?

>Is it not illegal if it doesn't involve this newsgroup or CB radio?

Got a problem with the question? It's a simple question, Brain -- hell, even Twisty could answer it if he didn't have to stick to his "Golden Rule". Speaking of that nutcase, why do you whine about 'George' breaking laws when TwistyDave openly admits to violating several? If you want to whine about someone else being a hypocrite, who are you to cast the first stone? Or -any- stone, for that matter? IOW, who are you to whine about someone else's rights being violated? Do you just whine when 'certain' people violate 'certain' laws, or when someone's rights might be violated only by any of those 'certain' people but none others? What a goddam hypocrite you are, Peter.

>"akc" organisation?

Your implication is clear, but you have yet to show what law was violated by the person in question, and how.

>Do the ends always justify the means - can people break the law in an >attempt to "slap" other criminals?

Again, you assume that a law was broken "in an attempt to 'slap' other criminals". What law, and by whom?

>Otherwise, what is your point?

My point is that if you are going to start pointing fingers, it would help if you learned a little bit more about the specific laws which you accuse others of violating. If you had then you probably wouldn't be making yourself look like a jackass by jumping on the let's-accuse-'George'-of-breaking-the-law bandwagon. That, and to show once again that you are more of a hypocrite than you accuse others of being.

Now you have to speak for "gw", too? What, is he too retarded to be allowed to speak for himself? Shows what a loser he is.

You are just obsessively repeating your own lie in the false hope that somehow the rule will change for you. Nope. (WTF is "obsessionally"?)

After all, you speak from faggot experience. I've never done any business with Pacetronics. From your words, it's obvious that you have. Just like it's obvious to everyone that you're the faggot; it's all you can talk about.

As to refusing a certified letter, nobody is required to accept any mail. It's their Right to refuse anything they choose to refuse. And unless they accept it and read it, they have not been "served".

Idiots like you should be locked up in a gay prison with no hope for parole. You'd really enjoy it. So would we, because you wouldn't be TROLLing here 24/7.

BTW, it is not illegal to discuss amplifiers. It is not illegal to possess amplifiers. It > may < (depending on the particular circumstances) be illegal to use amplifiers. However, ALL amplifiers are not illegal, which is what you try to make us believe. You're wrong; same as you were wrong about "ALL 10 meter radios are illegal".

Why don't you try to do something constructive in your life for a change?

Well right there you say it all. If you're going to push an amp, you need to TURN DOWN the radio output a notch or two. Never run more than 3 watts (AM or about ten on SSB) out of the rig into an amp. I hate to say it, but in this case, Copper may actually be correct. And no, I won't do any business with them.

I desperately need to find a good pdoc in the Cleveland, Ohio area.
If you know of one please let me know.

Call (216) 778-7800 and ask for the Department of Psychiatry at MetroHealth Medical Center.

They have a staff of excellent pdoc's there, and you'd be sure to be in good hands when you visit one of them.

Here Sweaty stanley, some words of wisdom that really apply to you, take heed and live by them from now on.

If someone tells you that you are a coward for not standing up for yourself when others are mistreating you or disrespecting you, you should accept that insult.

If someone tells you that you are a coward for hiding behind your computer as an excuse for not getting involved in real life, you should accept that insult.

If someone calls you a coward for always being afraid of taking chances that will improve the quality of your life, you should accept that insult.

If someone calls you a coward because you let people use you, walk all over you and overwork you for less pay than you deserve, you should accept that insult.

If someone calls you a coward for not being a loyal friend to the people who are most loyal to you, you should accept that insult.

If someone calls you a coward for not getting out of a relationship that is hurting you and destroying your self-esteem, you should accept that insult.

If someone calls you a coward for not entering into a relationship again because you failed in the past, you should accept that insult.

In life, we have two sides to our personality. We have a cowardly side and a courageous side. The cowardly side will give us everything we don't want out of life. The courageous side, on the other hand, will give us everything we do want out of life and much. much, more.

There is precedent for it. And there's room to expand on it. It wasn't my intent to make amuse you. The new material will come when the outcome of the legal proceedings I'm preparing for are successful.

It would be in your best interest to just email me a scanned copy, or to reproduce the information contained therein through ordinary email text. That way, there'd be no opportunity for you to claim entrapment.

Thank you, Mr. Steveo, for your words of wisdom.
They are truly inspiring. Mrs. Steveo is blessed to have you as her husband. Your children are blessed to have you as their father. The community in Medina, Ohio is blessed to have you living among them. This usenet is blessed to have your posts for those who read them regularly. I will write every member of Congress and the Postmaster General, petitioning them to have a postage stamp issued in your honor.
I will write the President of American Greetings, and suggest they create another greeting card holiday, on your birthday, for a new Happy Steveo Day Inspirations greeting card series.

I worship the keyboard you type on. I will ask Reader's Digest to create a column for your words of inspiration. I will ask Champion Sporting Apparel to create a line of sweat shirts and athletic gear called the Steveo Inspirational Series. If I were a woman, I'd want your baby!

God Bless America!
God Bless Steveo!

Is this a great country, or what??

Randy, your continued postings are rapidly qualifying you as the

No one on this newsgroup is buying it?
If true, that's of no consequence.
The only folks who have to buy it are the judge and jury. And I'll be making highly persuasive for them.

I'll gladly make you the fourth defendant if you post the kind of things which will qualify you as criminal defendant or tortfeasor or both.

Unfortunately, STFU doesn't qualify. Rather harmless, actually. Kinda reflects on your own inability to manage what you read and reply to online. Try out those killfile filters. They really do work.

Otherwise, peace and love.

Maybe you'll make the cut with Steveo,
BT, and Randy.

If you don't, my heart will pump peanut butter for ya.

Nope. Frivolous case - thrown out during the first day.

Filing suit will ruin your life. Right now you are incogneto, Stanley. The day you file, Steve will know your true name, address, phone number, place of employment, credit record, criminal record, student records, etc. You see, you will claim Steve is fucking with you. Steve will claim you are a paranoid delusional, and your school records, criminal records, and credit record all become pertinent to that assertion.

After this is all thrown out of court, you will sit up at night worrying because this person knows everything about you. Everything. Every member of your family, every co-worker, every traffic ticket. And if his lawyer is savvy, they will subpoena a few of your co-workers to get an idea of whether or not you stalk people at work. After it is thrown out, these employees will have seen or will know how to google all of your idiotic posts. The last thing you want is for every employee in your company to know that you are Stanley = Mopo_stalker = George = 20 other name shifts.

If you have shit to say to Steve, drive the 20 miles and say it to him. If you are afraid of him in real life, leave him alone here.

Never happen. You will spend in excess of $50K in research and expert testimony to determine if Steve even threatened you. Look up the following issues:

1) Telnet - someone can telnet into your home box if you are not careful

2) VPN - same deal - it is remote access to a PC. I get into work like that all the time. I use Safenet Softremote; but there are many others.

3) Wi-Fi - if Steve has 802.11b (he does) then someone within 900 feet can get into his home system if he does not have WEP turned on. It's called WAR Driving. Read this article - it is pretty much written in layman's terms and you will find it extremely interesting:
http://hacks.oreilly.com/pub/h/632

4) Password hacking - someone can be Steve on Usenet if they know his News Server ID/Password

You can only disprove this stuff if you get access to Steve's NNTP Posting Host logs. Logs are typically kept 3 to 30 days or thereabouts. Logs are only given when there is a court order for it. I cannot just call your NNTP host and ask the IP you sent from. By the time you get that court order, the link between his posts 12 months ago involving a gun is long since gone. You will be able to prove what posts came out of his house over the past 30 days or so - no question about that - but you will have to pay your own investigators and expert witnesses to disprove his assertion that someone Telnet'ed or gained illegal Wi-Fi access to his system. Steve has never posted about anything that "only he would know" such as a hidden tattoo or beauty mark on his wife's nipple. You cannot prove that he ever threatened you. At least, IMHO, you can't.

We all know you do not like him. We all know you are stalking him. If you sue him, we WILL all know everything about you. Address, phone, names of your family members, where you work, names of your co-workers. If you sue him, you are a complete idiot.

Most of that is irrelevant, if not privileged information. But even if it is not, I have nothing to hide. There's nothing in my past which I'd be embarrassed about, nor which would prevent my claims from going forward successfully.

None of that will come to pass. Discovery is limited by relevance, and there was nothing said about the power supply he used on with the amp.

Could have gone down to or below 11 volts which will easily fry them.

I can. And I will. And the prosecutor has almost unlimited police power and resources for that. When he is convicted, that information will be shared for civil litigation purposes. In the end, Steveo will pay for investigation. Besides, it won't take all that to prove his state of mind and criminal acts.

You are a moron Stanley. Of course he can have access to it. It shows previous stalking trends in your personality and in your actions. For all we know, you have stalked folks at your schools, at your work, etc.
Your credit record and criminal record will show if you are honest in your accusations.

Once the criminal case is established, a civil order for discovery won't take that long.

I am telling him that he should not fight with you here on Usenet to convince you not to sue. I hope you do sue - I want to see your whole life splayed all over Usenet. There is a side bet going around Usenet that if you sue, you commit suicide within 24 months. Gruesome bet, to be sure. And his posting of my information will be

Nope. He may have a protective order, but anyone who gets on his network won't have it. Those are the folks that will end up posting your life on Usenet, not Steve. Read the below again, dumbass.

1) Telnet - someone can telnet into your home box if you are not careful

2) VPN - same deal - it is remote access to a PC. I get into work like that all the time. I use Safenet Softremote; but there are many others.

Amplifiers made after 1978 capable of operating between 24 and 32 MHZ may NOT be sold with that band enabled. Suppliers may provide the modification to multi-band amps to buyers upon PROOF of license. It precludes the sale of amps that work in that range, and they are, of course, illegal on CB anyway. It means that all those "Palomar" single-bands sold by Copper and Pace are illegal.

Irrelevant. His actions are well established here. That's all that's required.

Your suspicions and $1.65 will buy you a grande at Starbuck's.
Go for it.

It's not going to get on his network. Steveo's computers will be seized as evidence. And he will be barred from owning or otherwise communicating on a computer for the time prior to trial or other resolution of the criminal case against him.

The FCC says THIS:

"Section 2.815(b) of the Commission's Rules prohibits the marketing of External Radio Frequency Power Amplifiers (or amplifier kits) capable of operation on any frequency or frequencies between 24 and 35 MHz."

This quote is from the letter sent to your faggot shithunk asswipes at Pacetronics, who we brought down by providing necessary data to various government agencies.

Since we know cranus the cum eating anus aint any part of the law...I would GUESS that the legally constituted LAW of this country is not the liar here.

If you are a cum eating faggot keyclown who WISHES your heroine was right, you may delusionally believe differently.

It is OK to have any belief you wish...

Well, folks - there you have it.

Saturday at 2:49 PM. Stanley the Village Idiot states that a prosecuting attorney calls him to make comments on the IQ of a poster in the rec.radio.cb group 23 minutes after the post is made.

Stanley, you are completely delusional. No question about it. And I hope you make me defendant #4. I would love the opportunity to go dollar for dollar with you in civil court.

BWHAHAHHAA. Delusional moron. No prosecuting attorney would or could confiscate his computer and bar him from using PC's.

And Steve - if you are reading this:

http://www.pcdynamics.com/SafeHouse/

$39. Install it with 256 byte Twofish as your encryption choice. If you get stuck on anything, let me know. A 5 year old can install this thing in under 5 minutes, and a Cray supercomputer cannot crack your files even if they had 12 million years to do it. Very important bro - pick as long of a password as you can possibly remember. 40 or more alphas.

Post you name, address, phone number, social security number, as well as that of Steveo and his wife, online, in this forum.

Then maybe I'll consider it.

Until then, go hump a llama.

You can't match my 1040, not with Steveo's or BT's or Opus Dopus's all added to yours.

Now go crawl back into the corner, and curl up in that fetal position.

It's junk that's been compromised. That's why HS is scrambling to put together a new cyberspace strategy.

Tell about how Steveo's online conduct isnt' tortious.

The word tortious is not the only thing you've misused today.

Well, unfortunately for you, the issue is not my knowledge, but the criminal and tortious conduct of Steveo, and his handful of cronies.

Another tortious act. The list grows. As do my punitive and

I told you loser, you need to define tortuous. You also need to learn how to spell it. At any rate, if you are using the true definition, then you are just the idiot we all know and abhor. A legal tort would involve a wrongful act and injury. No wrongful acts have ever been committed by Steve, dumbass. Any conversation between you and others has occurred in a non-moderated newsgroup, and you always insult everyone with 12 year old taunts. You have not been injured. In fact, all you do is attempt to injure others. I told you how it will work, Stanley the Delusional. First day of court you show up with reams of your idiocy. Judge won't even look at any more than 10% of your retarded collection of printouts of name calling on Usenet. Whoever defends themselves will show the judge all of your idiocy; and lord knows there is enough of it all over the internet. Ever hear of google, Stanley the Delusional? The judge will tell you that you are frivolous. At that point, be prepared to defend yourself against countersuits.

You can try another display of IQ and knowledge in Those sleuths in Washington won't be necessary to get at your hard

It was your idea. I am open to your suggestions on this.

I don't know what it will prove, but the fact that I make many times more than you and am worth many times more than you is certainly something I have no need to hide. Well, if I can make a profit doing it, anyway. I am not a big better, but this would be taking candy from a baby. Just concern yourself with 2 items when coming up with this idea:
1) Make it verifiable. True filed 1040's.
2) Find a way to make it so that you cannot back out and refuse to pay on the bet. Has to be lock solid.
3) I am only interested in the last 10 years. Prior to that I made less than $500K/year and do not want to risk that bet. But any portion of the last 10 years is fine with me.
4) This bet is between the two of us. I will not have interest in proposals like yours that earlier involved Rick, Steve and others joining their 1040's together. This is just you and I. Any bet between you and them is a separate issue that I have no interest in.

Repeating that mantra, that Steveo has committed no criminal act on usenet, won't make the charges go away, nor otherwise discourage me from going forward. And if you really thought I was delusional, you wouldn't continue to engage me here. I wouldn't be worth your time.

And the correct spelling is TORTIOUS. Refer to Black's Law Dictionary, Revised Fourth Edition, West Publishing, 1968, pg. 1661.

There are those on usenet who are witnessing this assaultive online behavior by you, Steveo, Randy, and others. And eventually, they will come to my defense. I am right. You are wrong for continuing this assault.

If you really believe I am a nutjob, why do you continue this assault? What does it prove? That you can slam a nutjob?
That's you're better than me? That Steveo is right?

You conveniently left out the part where there is a conviction of Steveo for a crime. But then, you're like Steveo, sent here to defend him, since his online behavior does not speak well for itself. I'm delusional and a loon, but you continue to assault me here, as if your own livelihood and manhood are at issue. Very interesting.

Yes, of course I asked for it. I won't give in to your intimidation and threats. Of course, I'm a loon, but why should that stop you from continuing your assault? No, it shouldn't. You see, there's something here for you to prove. You're right, and better than me. How dare I speak that way to someone as important and better as you! I deserve to be beaten! Yes, maybe even shot and killed. How dare I speak out and assert myself on usenet! The NERVE!

That's right. I'm not a normal human being. So I deserve to be beaten by someone like you. I may even deserve to be tortured and killed, then dismembered and burned. You are so threatened by this abnormal human being who speaks back to you through usenet that I MUST BE BEATEN!

It will prove that you are better than the abnormal loon which you say I am. And it will teach me a good lesson. It will make me feel so small when you prove that immense amount of net worth and income. I deserve to be so humbled. Yes, of course I do. After all, I had the NERVE to

You know, the really sad part is that you do have a sense of humor. It's a shame that you have nothing better to do than follow people around Usenet and then complain when you get verbally trashed. You would be much better served putting that sense of humor to use in a less than sarcastic way.

Yes, of course, you are right about that. I do follow people around usenet, particularly those with whom I have had the nerve to disagree with over issues like calling people kikes, niggers, over-medicated and constipated loons. Holcomb was in fact better than Couch. He had a faster release. HOW DARE I SAY OTHERWISE! HOW DARE I SAY SO IN A LESS THAN RESPECTFUL MANNER ON USENET! After all, I'm an abnormal and Hozac-taking mental patient kike. I don't deserve to stand up for myself. I should be beaten to a pulp for that. I should be shot. I should have my assets taken away. Then I should be killed.

Yes, mom, I am laughing. The over-medicated dead always laugh on the way to hell.

Earnings and net worth are two separate items, but I would be willing to bet you on both. Let's go this way:

Two bets:

1) Earnings. 1040's for past 10 years. Social Security Administration keeps that readily available, as does the IRS.

2) Net worth. All personal property, appraised value of any corporation(s) owned, bank accounts, stocks, bonds, funds, REIT's. For personal property, someone has to appraise that. For other holdings, verifiable bank and securities statements. My home, cabin cruiser, and vehicles are easily appraised, but my collections (antiques, crystal, coins/bills, other) have not been in quite some time. An insurance company will appraise all personal property for the purpose of insuring. Deducted must be outstanding debt (mortgages, liens, loans, credit cards). To preclude you from pulling a scam to win a bet, anything you are submitting as an asset must have been in your possession for the past 12 months.

Now to the wager itself - appraisals will cost money, so the bet needs to be enough to make that effort worthwhile.

Get back to me with details of how you want to do this, Stanley the Delusional. If it seems like I can make a bunch of money on this bet, count me in. There has to be some way though for you to secure the money. If you lose, I cannot be bothered coming to Ohio to bring this to civil court. As such, you need to make sure it is even legal to make such a bet.

Sure it is, please try to define this Has he cause you to lose money in your business?

"Compensatory damages are comprised of those financial losses that you have suffered as a direct result of the Defendant's action. Compensatory damages can include payment from the Defendant to compensate you for, among other things, lost wages, lost profits, hospital bills (current & future), cost of home medical care (including medical equipment such as beds, wheelchairs, etc.) property damage.
The purpose of compensatory damages is to put you back in the position that you were in prior to the injury or property damage caused by the Defendant.
Insurance companies sometimes call compensatory damages "special damages."

If what he's says bothers you so, why do you keep responding?
That would pretty much tell the judge you were just as much at fault.

"The judge will award you punitive damages only if the Defendant''s act was so horrible and offensive that the court believes it is important to make an example out of the Defendant."

Good Luck on your BS, because no matter how you word it, it's BS.

Can't you function at the intelligence level of us surface-dwellers? Didn't you even read the thread? Twisty provided his -own- proof! Now go crawl back into your hole, Clyde.

WORKOUT for SENIORS

The Doctor told me I should start an exercise program.Not wanting to harm this old body, I've devised the following:

Monday:
Beat around the bush

Jump to conclusions
Climb the walls
Wade through the morning paper

Tuesday: Drag my heels
Push my luck
Make mountains out of mole hills
Hit the nail on the xhead

Wednesday:
Bend over backwards
Jump on the Band Wagon
Run around in circles

Thursday:
Advise the President on how to run the country
Toot my own horn
Pull out all the stops
Add fuel to the fire

Friday:
Open a can of worms
Put my foot in my mouth
Start the ball rolling Go over the edge

Saturday:
Pick up the pieces.

Sunday:
Kneel in prayer
Bow my head in thanksgiving
Uplift my hands in praise
Hug someone and encourage them.

Whew! What a workout!

I'm good with it, Randy, after-all Stainley is buying. Green light the dream team.

Stainley's defense will be.." If I can't shit, you must acquit.
He'll have to pay Cochran for that one tho..

You have a short memory asshole. You have made several threats (one to me) under various nicks yet it still was you physically so the technicality of "Medina Mopo has made no threats" is not valid. As far fetched as it and you are should it come to it, I will forward the threats you made to Mopar if this stalking-pissing match you initiated and propagate somehow does turn legal. Of course anyone with one half the single brain cell that you possess knows that just isn't going to happen.

> Physicians will say Medina Mopo has not imagined his injuries and will

LOL..., you just keep hanging yourself dipshit. Predicting your physicians testimony? What attorney could get a jury to buy in to any such testimony once they read your prediction? Get back on your meds you sick asswipe.

If you want insight into the mind of Staintard the Delusional, you have to watch the movie Vampire's Kiss. The relationship between Peter Loew and his make believe psychiatrist is a window into the relationship between Staintard the Delusional and his "staff of expert doctors".

Yes you do deserve to be laughed at Stanley. You are a paranoid schizophrenic freak of nature staring in your own self imposed sideshow.
You failed to gain acceptance so at least you gained attention (forced as it is). Keep dancing clown boy.

Thanks but I have ample insight into the hollow skull of Stanley. I am one of the first two (Steveo/mopar the other) that had Stanley humping our legs when he was between prescriptions some time ago. So in reality
I would be defendant number one or two in stumblin' Stanley's legal complaint.

George, you don't even want me to post the thousands of perverse things that come up for you with google, or to post the headers to your ISP and NNTP host. But, with any luck Steve will, as when you used his name and address you committed a felony.

All Steve has to go is go to http://www.ifccfbi.gov/index.asp and tell the FBI you used his name and address in your headers. They will contact Comcast and get the logs from the NNTP server, and you will be wishing you were not such a complete moron.

BWHAHAHAHA. What a fucking idiot you are, George. Actually, the following x-trace points to your house, moron.

Ya ever notice when Geo is not involved with something, be butts in? He feels left out. Poor little thing. It bothers him when he's not the center of someones affections. Must be a sad life for this group to be his entire life. Sad, really sad.

There was a thread in here yesterday that was cross-posted to several other groups. Geo was not involved in the least. But, true to form, Geo felt, or was compulsed to inject himself into. The guy in question was obviously a freak. Guess who Geo sided with? I'll leave that to your imagination.

The lengths Geo goes to for attention! Funny, but at the same time, really sad. But, like I always say, "any length will do".

1. I don't build things for keyklownz

2. New? You must be on drugs, transexxual-boy...superskyhooks been the name since November. Take a look at the calendar, dork slurper.

Always funny when your faggot ass proves how you worship me and need to be close, in hopes that one day you can suck my dick. Alas, your hopes are doomed. AKC are 100% heterosexual, unlike you.

Come on faggotboy, speak up. I will throw in a bonus if you do. I will let you lick out my toilet bowl.

Asslicker and doggie dick deep throater Cranus the Anus, who can't do anything about the AKC, says this...

The FCC says THIS:

"Section 2.815(b) of the Commission's Rules prohibits the marketing of External Radio Frequency Power Amplifiers (or amplifier kits) capable of operation on any frequency or frequencies between 24 and 35 MHz."

This quote is from the letter sent to your faggot shithunk asswipes at Pacetronics, who we brought down by providing necessary data to various government agencies.

Since we know cranus the cum eating anus aint any part of the law...I would GUESS that the legally constituted LAW of this country is not the liar here.

If you are a cum eating faggot keyclown who WISHES your heroine was right, you may delusionally believe differently.

It is OK to have any belief you wish...

FREE!!

For advanced techs and serious radio hobbyists, we're now offering a FREE copy of our previously published "CB EPROM DATA BOOK" by Martin Pickering. (EPROM = Erasable Programmable Read Only Memory.) We sold it for many years but it's now out of print. This little manual of 60 illustrated pages is an absolute GEM of CB technical knowledge you'll just never find anywhere else. And it's yours for FREE from our Web site.

This book reveals the secrets of advanced channel programming, and picks up where our "CB PLL DATA BOOK" (www.cbcintl.com/pllbook.htm) leaves off. You'll get a thorough background in how these amazing programmable chips can be used to modify many popular CB PLL circuits for expanded frequency coverage. Covers the basic programming techniques, and even includes real PC board artwork for making EPROM circuits. Sample artwork includes EPROM boards for the popular MB8719, PLL02A, ï¿½PD2824, and ï¿½PD858 PLL circuits.

How little you know, DouGay.

To expect (or demand) an "answer", first you have to ask a question.
Care to explain what the question was?

How does that conflict with my edited posts above? Where does it say that it is illegal to possess amplifiers? Or to discuss them?

Now permit me to quote from the FCC CB Rules, Part 95, Subpart D:

"95.411 (2) (c): The FCC will presume you have used a linear if -
(1) It is in your possession and on your premises; AND
(2) There is other evidence that you have operated your CB station with more power than allowed by CB Rule Part 95.410

(d) Paragraph (c) of this section does not apply if you hold a license in another radio service which allows you to operate an external RF power amplifier."

Sorry, you lose. Again. As usual.

ALL amplifiers are NOT illegal. Only some uses of them (to include CB). You consistent use of vague generalities undermines your position, as does your ignorance of facts, and the incessant posting of your deviant gay agenda.

hey chimp we don't need any comment chunkers chunking comments from the cheap seats........you have been busy.....so has the akc.......you are selling amps.......you will get a visit and soon and that goes double for that schlock amp business you guys are operating up in jersey and when the fcc gives you chumps a big fine i would assume it will cut into your discretionary income and therefore your ability to cop crack on the streets of new york......now then chimp brutha, you

The FCC says THIS:

"Section 2.815(b) of the Commission's Rules prohibits the marketing of External Radio Frequency Power Amplifiers (or amplifier kits) capable of operation on any frequency or frequencies between 24 and 35 MHz."

This quote is from the letter sent to your faggot shithunk asswipes at Pacetronics, who we brought down by providing necessary data to various government agencies.

Since we know cranus the cum eating anus aint any part of the law...I would GUESS that the legally constituted LAW of this country is not the liar here.

If you are a cum eating faggot keyclown who WISHES your heroine was right, you may delusionally believe differently.

BRUCE KELLMAN | THE NEWS TRIBUNE

William Woods shows the paper detailing a $500 fine from the FCC for CB broadcasts that bother neighbors.
Citizens band together against CB radio pollution

KRIS SHERMAN; The News Tribune

Nichole Cruz and her neighbors in the Oakland area of Tacoma are tired of the same foul-mouthed voice coming in over their television sets, ruining attempts to watch their favorite shows.

Tired of being unable to let their children watch Saturday morning cartoons.

Tired of their telephone conversations being overridden by one neighbor's obsession with a citizens band radio they claim is so powerful it bleeds into nearly every electronic device for blocks.

"It's making life miserable for everybody," she said, standing outside her South Madison Street home. "The radio interferes with the TVs, the cordless phones, everything."

Several Oakland area neighbors are so frustrated they went to City Hall on Jan. 13 to plead for help. Their testimony before the City Council followed a Dec. 12 petition signed by 35 area residents begging officials to pull the plug on their inconsiderate neighbor.

But in the end, it might be a landlord, not the city, not the police nor the Federal Communications Commission, who has the power to take William Woods, also known by his CB handle "Power," off the airwaves.

Woods' landlord, Don Dominick of Seattle, initiated eviction proceedings last week after the neighbors' frustration reached the fuse-blowing point.

Working with the Tacoma police and the FCC, Dominick agreed to begin the eviction procedure, he said. Eviction papers likely will be served this week, Dominick's attorney Everett Holum said Friday.

But because of landlord-tenant rules, it could take until the end of February to make Woods move. If he doesn't obey the notices, a lawsuit might follow.

For his part, Woods, a 35-year-old unemployed CB enthusiast, says he hasn't done anything wrong.

His CB equipment, which he says he removed and sold three months ago, was always within the legal 4-watt limit, he said. He blames a former friend for turning the neighborhood against him. He claims that person passed out CB radios to area residents to cause electrical interference.

"All I've got is the CB on my car, and that's it," he said Friday, standing behind a chain-link fence in his back yard. "I got tired of being harassed by everybody and everybody complaining about me."

The neighbors tell a quite different story.

They roll out a litany of complaints against their neighbor and his insensitive destruction of their peace, quiet and freedom from fear. Despite many pleas to the city, the police and the FCC, the foul-mouthed radio broadcasts come through their telephones and televisions day and night, they say.

And those broadcasts didn't stop three months ago, either, several neighbors said.

Until recently a large antenna towered over the neighborhood from the roof of Woods' one-story, 1,000-square-foot rented home, neighbors said, though no one could remember the exact date they last saw it. And neighbors say they've heard the broadcasts in recent weeks, although the noise has become such a background to their lives, they can't pinpoint when they last heard it.

When they've complained to Woods, neighbors claim he's been verbally abusive and threatened them with a German shepherd attack dog.

Woods says he doesn't have an attack dog. His neighbors are harassing him, not the other way around, he contends.

But when a half-dozen or so residents told the City Council of their woes Jan. 13, City Councilman Tom Stenger characterized their story as "chilling" and asked whether that portion of Citizens Forum could be excised from videotapes that would rebroadcast the meeting on TV Tacoma.

Stenger said he feared for the residents' safety if their testimony were seen by their neighbor.

Mayor Bill Baarsma agreed and made the request.

TV Tacoma manager Nancy Johnson said it's the first time in her 17 years at the station that a council meeting tape has been edited before playback.

Council members, obviously shaken by the residents' testimony, immediately directed City Manager Jim Walton, City Attorney Robin Jenkinson and Police Chief Don Ramsdell to have their staffs look into the situation.

"There's a real serious problem here, and it goes way beyond interference on your phone and on your TV set," Councilman Kevin Phelps told the residents.

"What we're talking about is an individual who is literally holding a neighborhood hostage."

It wasn't the first time neighbors complained.

Despite more than two years of complaints, residents say both the police and the FCC have been unable to restore quiet to their tree-lined neighborhood of working families and retired couples in the 3000 blocks of South Proctor and South Madison streets.

ï¿½On Sept. 12, 2001, the City Council adopted an ordinance regulating the use of citizens band radios, aiming the new law squarely at Woods' operation, Baarsma said.

The misdemeanor ordinance calls for fines and/or jail time for violations, but its language dealing with megahertz frequencies prevented police from enforcing it in this case, assistant city attorney Kim Gerhardt said. It was all but impossible for officers to get the probable cause they needed to gain access to the property, she said.

"In terms of proof, it gets pretty hairy when we're talking about a very technical, scientific measurement," Gerhardt explained.

ï¿½The city's chronic nuisance ordinance couldn't be used to shut the radio operation down because "prohibited use of non-FCC transmitting equipment ... is not included in the list of nuisance activities," assistant city attorney Kyle Crews wrote in a memo to Walton on the matter.

ï¿½It's also difficult to obtain proof that the blaring CB violates another ordinance that certain activities can constitute a public nuisance when they "annoy, or endanger the comfort, repose, health or safety of others," Crews wrote.

ï¿½At the city's request, the FCC Seattle office took up the issue and fined Woods $7,000 in late 2002. But Woods paid only $500.

"I got it knocked down" for inability to pay, he said.

Now, FCC officials are "in the slow process of drafting an 'Affidavit to Seize' the radio equipment," Crews' memo says. But the FCC hasn't been allowed back on the property, and the process "has come to an apparent halt," Crews wrote.

FCC officials in Seattle refused to comment.

To complicate matters, the equipment - claimed by some to be in the 2,000-watt range - disappears whenever investigators come around, neighbors say. When things cool off, the transmissions begin again.

Property owner Dominick, meanwhile, said he is eager to cooperate with police, the FCC and the neighbors to get Woods to leave.

"There's new things happening there every day, it seems like," he said.

But when neighbors call him to complain, they refuse to leave their names, Instead, they leave their tales of electronic interference, including a neighbor's complaint that she couldn't reach 911 in an emergency. They also leave claims of bullying by Woods.

When he talked to Woods, the tenant told him "it was all somebody else's doing," Dominick said. "I've called him and told him take the antenna down, so he did. And two days later a neighbor called and said, 'It's back up.'"

Woods accused his landlord of trying to violate his free speech rights.

"He would be verbally abusive and threaten to sue me," Dominick said.

So when he was called to a meeting last week with Tacoma police, other city representatives and the feds, Dominick knew he had to act.

"When you sit there with a panel of five people, the police and the FCC, I was really shocked," he said. "You know this is really serious."

"It's ridiculous. It has to stop," said one resident who didn't want her name published because she fears retribution. "One night, my daughter came running in and said, 'Mommy, my TV's talking. And I said, 'Well, your TV's supposed to talk.'

"But when I went in and turned the sound all the way down, I could still hear this guy's conversation. There was a lot of foul language. It's not appropriate for a child. I don't even want to hear it."

WHy would I want to transmit on 26.385 when I've got all that LEGAL spectrum to transmit on? I'm not just talking about CB...

I'll stick to the 'legal 40' when I play on CB. When I want to do real DXing, I'll play on the HF bands, where I'm licensed to play.

It makes no sense to go out of band.

So you won't find "SSB" on 26.385, because I won't be there. That's what the "::grin::" was about.

ROTFLMAO 2x and it has 5db gain hey Steveo will you mail them $13 for plans for this antenna I will sell it to you for $10 and I take paypal LMFAO!!!!!!!

http://electronickits.com/kit/plans/cbradio/cbradio.htm

PLAN1020 - INVERTED "V" ANTENNA
This highly effective CB antenna design can be incorporated into the guy wires of a TV antenna for cost reduction. All that is needed (in addition to the guy wire) are several "egg" insulators and a length of coax. Not only easy construction and tune up, but you also get about a 5 dB power gain over regular antennas. Makes a perfect "disguised" CB antenna.

lou this newsgroup is on akc lockdown and there you go spamming asusual with your 'kits' exhorting cbers to break the fcc rules again......maybe it is time for you to receive some legal correspondence reguarding this issue and then maybe you will listen ,

I have never lied, Effeminate Georgie Porgie. But I will be the first to admit I don't know a fucking thing about CB's. All I know is they have channels, emergency is 9, truckers on 19; and the one time recently that I had it on a cross country trip with my son (from Southeast to Seattle) there were hookers trying to pick up the truckers. It was in Santa Fe, NM. Now do some more funny stuff, shut-in. Have you ever had sex with Staintard the Delusional? He's another funny shut-in. Do you do lots of meds like he does?

You name shifted a few dozen times last night. Am I the only one that knows about X-trace? I posted an actual trace map from my house to your house in a BMP file. You are funny, shut-in. Although, some folks may not have seen it - this is not a binary attachment group and lots of Newsservers will delete those.

I do own a CB, actually. A 40 channel that I bought for when I drove my Duallie to Washington State and to Salt Lake City in 2002. Didn't really enjoy it - I don't think it would pick much up unless the other trucks were close to me. I guess blowing $100 at Walmart doesn't get you a lot.

Now do some more funny stuff, Effeminate Georgie Porgie. You are a funny shut-in. EGP and STD - you two are fucking hilarious. Sanity does not run it's course in your two families.

I don't mention it for you, Georgie Porgie. I mention it for the other readers. Perhaps they do not know about looking at headers and seeing who is who.

>> Legally? You forged Steve.
> Post the law I broke.

It is called identity theft. Here is how the FBI classifies it:

http://www1.ifccfbi.gov/strategy/63003SpoofNote.pdf

E-mail Spoofing - The forgery of an e-mail header so that the message appears to have originated from someone or somewhere other than the actual source.

> You used his name and address in one of >> your spoofs.
> Really do you know if that info is true?

I would go with don't know and don't care - we are talking about what YOU did.

>> That's actually a felony.
> Post the law so i can laugh

Already did, fucktard. And if Steve is pissed enough to report you, you won't be laughing long. Lots of folks will laugh. I will laugh. But you will not laugh when they confiscate your stupid PC and nail you with some criminal charge of identity theft. You really don't get it - do you fucktard? Read how the FBI defines it again, moron: "E-mail Spoofing - The forgery of an e-mail header so that the message appears to have originated from someone or somewhere other than the actual source." The FBI isn't gonna care if you thought it was funny, I thought it was funny, or Steve thought it was funny. You used "Steve Parks" in your headers, dumbass. You even used "Medina" in those same headers. Name and Address. You fucked up. What you thought was funny and innocent is in fact a fucking felony, you complete horses ass.

If you do not give a fuck what the FBI thinks, take a look at your own state, moron. http://101-identitytheft.com/ I am tired of being your denmother and making you understand this shit, you moron. You need to stop spoofing Steve's name and address. If you don't, you will get arrested and possibly even do jail time. At best, you are going to get fisted with a fine and once that happens the conviction will be enough for Steve to sue you and for the judge to say that it is not a frivolous lawsuit.

And Steve, if you are reading this - I am sending you a map output of the trace from my house to his house last night. I didn't want to cross any legal lines and gain entry to his PC - this is all legal and on the up and up. Just pinged his box based on the X-trace from his house to the NNTP server.

>> I never do that, Effeminate Georgie Porgie.

Gee, better not let riley catch you on there. thats a licensed frequency for FM remote to station interlinks (used by some of the older AM stations in the midwest).

all it takes is an engineer at some place like 700 wlwg in cincinatti to complain and you are off the air faster than you can say "OH SHIT!".

just a word of advice.

Burke N. Hare <postmaster@bogg.dynu.com> hid behind anonyminity because he KNOWS what I would do to him, and faggotedly mewled like the cum hole he is in news:4MWJM7XI38025.7873842593@bogg.dynu.com:

Fat Doglass you are not concerned with legal and lawful compliance. Your squeeze Crisco cathy is a felon. You were busted by the fcc. Fat homely hypocrite.

None of the 3 statements you made are true:

1.My wife is not and has not been an accountant, ever. I appreciate the fact that your cum hole fag ass needs SOMETHING to try out on me, or rather people close to me. You cum eaters are in such pain from the AKC that anything that even would suggest some negative information is going to be used. Bravo. HARDEEHARRHARRHARR! LIFE IS GOOD FOR ME! You have blanks in your six shooter. In fact, you are a moron for taking a 6 shooter to a session of playing the dozens. Keep it up though. I am hiding a terrible bunch of secrets...My parents never got divorced, I aint never been to jail, and the biggest darkest one...I aint never sucked a dick, like you do daily. Ding! Thanks for playing.

2. I have never been busted by the FCC for anything. You need to read up a bit, cumhole. You faggot asses are the slutboys who worry about the FCC, not me. HARDEEHARRHARRHARR! LIFE IS GOOD FOR ME!

3. My height/weight are pretty proportionate. Ask someone who knows me. There are several on here. I am not homely, in fact I am quite appealing to women. I have my original teeth, I don't smell like a pigs ass, and my mind is 100% functional (unlike you in all cases there). There is no hypocrisy involved at all here. You cumhole faggot ass punks can't take the AKC whuppin' your ass over and over. You search in vain or in fake/erroneous information for ANYTHING you can find to disparge us, to no avail. The hypocrisy is from your faggot cumhole mouth, and it shows in your fear of stepping out and saying the shit you say publicly. Notice that I don't hide a friggin' thing.
HARDEEHARRHARRHARR! LIFE IS GOOD FOR ME!

4. http://www.geocities.com/keyklownslappa/index.html?1075823179430
A new page will go up with a similar QSL card each time one of your asshole buddies goes down. It will be often. All you faggots do is reinforce the idea that you are cowardly cum sucking cock sucker boys, so we will beat you even harder now. HARDEEHARRHARRHARR! LIFE IS GOOD FOR ME!

Call me anything you want, say anything you want. Whoopie fukkin doo. Your slut cumhole faggot ass aint got the balls to do anything else but hide behind a keyboard. Your whole existence in the communications world depends on your ability to hide. So, fuck you, asswipe...DING! Thanks for playing. Next contestant?? HARDEEHARRHARRHARR! LIFE IS GOOD FOR ME!

Care to do anything else?

PS Your ole lady and rover...heheheh

He won't answer...HAHAHAH! LIFE IS GOOD WHEN YOU ARE NOT AN ASSJUICE SLURPING FAG LIKE CRANUS THE ANUS!!!

Asslicker and doggie dick deep throater Cranus the Anus, who can't do anything about the AKC, says this...

> > > Sorry, but amplifiers are not illegal. Only certain uses of amplifiers

The FCC says THIS:

"Section 2.815(b) of the Commission's Rules prohibits the marketing of External Radio Frequency Power Amplifiers (or amplifier kits) capable of operation on any frequency or frequencies between 24 and 35 MHz."

This quote is from the letter sent to your faggot shithunk asswipes at Pacetronics, who we brought down by providing necessary data to various government agencies.

Since we know cranus the cum eating anus aint any part of the law...I would GUESS that the legally constituted LAW of this country is not the liar here.

If you are a cum eating faggot keyclown who WISHES your heroine was right, you may delusionally believe differently.

It is OK to have any belief you wish...

everything that is radio related on "e-Pay" is overpriced.
all of the ham radio "dealers" you used to see at each and every hamfests with their vans and trucks full of junk are now on e-bay and they routinely shill up each other's auctions to max out their profits. worse than an "easy credit" used car lot.

George Busch is pathological. George Busch contradicts himself on a regualr basis. Geoge Busch is ashamed of what he has done. George Busch was directed to deny his identity. Geroge Busch must dwell underground.
George Busch is a loser at the game of life.

Fact: N8WWM Douglas Adair was reported by the FCC as being busted for jamming repeaters on several occasions. This little bit of information jerks his collar and makes the chubbled boy go wild with delirium when mentioned..LOL.
N8WWM also shacked up with Cathy the felon, who had her accountant license ripped away for committing felonies,,,,IE: Illegally falsifying tax records. The state of Ohio snagged her accountant license IN ADDITION to her court punishment. So we have two illegal thugs residing together,,in my personal opinion, N8WWM is a homosexual and Cathy is probably a lesbian, due chubby's impotence. What was her call again? They BOTH are loser nocodes, in any event.

No need for all that. The elders of the group remember his fat,, foghorn leghorn looking self. In fact, when I posted his pic, he was so horrified, he removed it from his site. In fact, QRZ made him remove from his site a few things they considered malicious, provocative, and not conducive to their environment,,,,lol,,,see, even QRZ recognizes a loser lid.

What about the comparison issue? A guy walks up to you and asks if the water is hot or cold. You tell him hot, and you can do this because you have felt both hot and cold water at some point in your life. Let's say you never felt cold. Guy asks you if it's hot or cold. Hell, you don't know - nothing to compare hot to - you never felt cold. So, can George be impotent now if he never got it up in his life?

Are they radios or citizens band recievers / transmitters? Aren't radios just recievers that pull in AM and FM signals in a certain bandwidth? And what is the AKC again - I forgot.

Right back to your house, dumbass. I take it you have never heard of type II remailers? You might want to work on that before you go to jail; though at this point if you are going to get busted the FBI would already have more than enough information about you.

HAhahaha..Hey SteveO,,..here's one for the files,,,do a search only in rec.radio.cb for 68.45
I especially like the thread titled "George crashes and Burns" or something like that. In a few posts, we have him arguing both sides of the die. In some posts he argues for affirmation of his call sign, much in the manner he seeks you and shark's validation..,in another he claims he never denied being wamoj,,,,,the bowl of jello clearly is not well, but then again, dingleberries cling to each other,,,,..look at team voob,,all forced underground to the shadows,,hahhahaha..failure at their finest.

(Jerry Oxendine: Private Information Thief or unwilling validator for N7VCF?)

Gee Jerry, you post something and the rainbow group of hammies go rapid. Let's see, you and a few others refer themself the "akc", who biles to N8 (who bows to me). Dogie and Geogre and Frank take to making up "code" words and terms that exist nowhere except in their dmaged psyche and low self-esteem. They have failed at all they became involved in, and somehow latched in to those whose lives they most want to live, albeit vicariously. They cry out in the night and lay responsiblity to your posts and claims.

Mr. O, now that your affiliation with such a group is in the open, you need address a concern or two.
N7VCF claims you would release private information gained from doing business with private parties merely for the asking. Since those that must access the group only anonymously look to you for validation and appear to know you well enough to make such claims about your boorish and unprofessional behavior without objection from yourself, you really need examine your behavior, Jerry. It's one thing to surround yourself with known homosexuals, Jerry, as we don't give a damn what you do in your personal life. But when someone like you who self-professes to be the example of a hammie that follows the law, stoops to the lowlife practice of releasing personal information concerning a private party you did business with merely for the asking, in order to bolster a known liar's internet claim and personal angry hateful crusade against all he is ignorant of (hoo-boy,,and that's infinite,,,,)...at this point, the public needs informed, as some feel as strongly about your misdeeds and wrongdoings as you do most cbers. This is much in the manner as your personal belief you are doing a public service regarding your self-appointed radio policing, the same can be said for those wishing to protect the public from your poor decisions regarding their personal information and your releasing said information for personal use. The release of private information is a serious matter today, but in all reality, your behavior comes as no surprise, although it is appalling.

Perhaps Frank's post should be a precursive requisite, made available to all those involved with you via the internet and anything involving a transaction. They have a right to know your position regarding their information and your "privacy policy", in addition to your personal association with such a hammie homosexual group headed up by N8WWM and on many occcasions, staunchly defended and supported by Gillinad and other team voob members. The group that refer to themself as "akc" or "victims" of those like myself who choose to talk dx on the cb, must remain in the shadows and underground, Jerry,,never again will you see a renegade hammie such as yourself or

Frank or Leland or Geogre, put their call to your fabled group...It USED to be that way, but never again,,,they must remain anonymous....that is my legacy,,,LOL.
Think of it this way, Jerry,,,you said on many occasion you were doing your part in educating people regarding the law,,,,,well, those that are not familiar with your antics can be informed of your politics regarding their private information, and then make an educated decision whether or not they choose to do business with you.

Oh yea,,,the question...,,,how did Frank, a self-styled and self-admitted member of the AKC (altough he has been loathe to amke such posts lately, there exist a ton of them endorsing this hallucinated "Akc") come to know you well enough that you not only allow him to speak for you, but tell the world your business practices concerning private consumer information are less than ethical?

Notice how the blowhard TROLL fagboy has to pat himself on the back all the time. Even "Georgie-girl" won't help him any more! He isn't even a "hero" to the AKC, only in his own sick, perverted mind.

Indeed, his whole existence in the communications world depends on his ability to hide. What a revolting bit of scum he is.

I'm waiting (and hoping) for someone to pay him a visit and beat the snot out of him, and trust me, it will happen if he doesn't grow up. (Now watch him accuse me of "threatening" him!)

If you weren't such a complete idiot, you'd have seen my reply. But, of course, you can't admit that because: First, you didn't ask a question that required an answer, and second you'd have to admit that you're wrong. Again. As usual.

And your weird interpretation of the law doesn't wash. Even Jerry Oxendine agreed with me about that. Possession of amplifiers is not illegal. Discussion of amplifiers is not illegal. Only certain > uses < of amps is illegal. Stop sitting on your brain, fagboy.

No Frank, it is not. You want to be right so much that it hurts you. And to be honest, you are most times. One of the key things you pride yourself on is your mastery of English. When you blow that, it is pointed out. What's wrong with that? You delight in doing the same to others.

What kind of person goes on usenet and publicly brags that he breaks the law? The people in Tampa need to know about this and the local cops need to know too. He doesnt say how he is breaking the law but it could be anything, robbery rape, drugs, anything. If I were a citizen of Tampa I would be concerned about this guy.

(Jerry Oxendine: Private Information Thief or unwilling validator for N7VCF?)
Gee Jerry, you post something and the rainbow group of hammies go rapid. Let's see, you and a few others refer themself the "akc", who biles to N8 (who bows to me). Dogie and Geogre and Frank take to making up "code" words and terms that exist nowhere except in their dmaged psyche and low self-esteem. They have failed at all they became involved in, and somehow latched in to those whose lives they most want to live, albeit vicariously. They cry out in the night and lay responsiblity to your posts and claims.

Mr. O, now that your affiliation with such a group is in the open, you need address a concern or two.
N7VCF claims you would release private information gained from doing business with private parties merely for the asking. Since those that must access the group only anonymously look to you for validation and appear to know you well enough to make such claims about your boorish and unprofessional behavior without objection from yourself, you really need examine your behavior, Jerry. It's one thing to surround yourself with known homosexuals, Jerry, as we don't give a damn what you do in your personal life. But when someone like you who self-professes to be the example of a hammie that follows the law, stoops to the lowlife practice of releasing personal information concerning a private party you did business with merely for the asking, in order to bolster a known liar's internet claim and personal angry hateful crusade against all he is ignorant of (hoo-boy,,and that's infinite,,,,)...at this point, the public needs informed, as some feel as strongly about your misdeeds and wrongdoings as you do most cbers. This is much in the manner as your personal belief you are doing a public service regarding your self-appointed radio policing, the same can be said for those wishing to protect the public from your poor decisions regarding their personal information and your releasing said information for personal use. The release of private information is a serious matter today, but in all reality, your behavior comes as no surprise, although it is appalling.

Perhaps Frank's post should be a precursive requisite, made available to all those involved with you via the internet and anything involving a transaction. They have a right to know your position regarding their information and your "privacy policy", in addition to your personal association with such a hammie homosexual group headed up by N8WWM and on many occcasions, staunchly defended and supported by Gillinad and other team voob members. The group that refer to themself as "akc" or "victims" of those like myself who choose to talk dx on the cb, must remain in the shadows and underground, Jerry,,never again will you see a renegade hammie such as yourself or Frank or Leland or Geogre, put their call to your fabled group...It USED to be that way, but never again,,,they must remain anonymous....that is my legacy,,,LOL.

Think of it this way, Jerry,,,you said on many occasion you were doing your part in educating people regarding the law,,,,,well, those that are not familiar with your antics can be informed of your politics regarding their private information, and then make an educated decision whether or not they choose to do business with you.

Oh yea,,,the question...,,,how did Frank, a self-styled and self-admitted member of the AKC (altough he has been loathe to amke such posts lately, there exist a ton of them endorsing this hallucinated
"Akc") come to know you well enough that you not only allow him to speak for you, but tell the world your business practices concerning private consumer information are less than ethical?

The likelihood of one individual being correct increases in a direct proportion to the intensity with which others try to prove him wrong

l. I have no idea what you are talking about.
2. I don't know who N7VCF (I haven't bothered to look it up) is and don't care.

3. I have no affiliation with AKC.

4. I have not released any "information" concerning the private business of any person or persons; I don't KNOW the private business of any individual who posts
to this group and don't CARE to.

5. I HAVE no "business" practices, and am not affiliated with any business.

6. Show where I released info, or in any way made myself affiliated with AKC. I chided them about their taking credit for Pacetronics when it originated from the Dallas Field Office which happens to now be the point of enforcement of sellers of not-approved radios and amps. That post was tongue-in-cheek. If someone steals something I posted and takes credit for it, I can't help it.
Don't jump (ribbet, ribbet) to conclusions. I am NOT part of AKC, nor do I condone their posts that contain filthy references to homosexuality.

7. I HAVE no business "practices"; I am happily retired and at my leisure.

8 Anything I post comes from me or a legimate source and is meant to inform; I don't engage in flames unless someone tees me off.

9. Can you deny that much of what I have told you has come true during the last 2 years. Do you remember the howls of ridicule and denialed that ensued? I KNOW what I was told. AND, yes, a case is being prepared to go after the truck stops, and it won't happen until the FCC lawyers are certain that they will win. Now, even you are falling for the AKC trap which is to stir miscontent and dissent.

10. I will be the first to tell you that I am not afraid to say what I believe. I believe the theft of spectrum is just as wrong as stealing beer at the supermarket. I believe that licensed frequencies are to be left alone. I believe as long as the CB operators remain within the 40 channels, it is not my business--even if they run a gazillion watts. Let 'em have the superbowl. Let 'em pop their eyes out of their heads for all I care. When people start stealing--- and intangible things such as frequencies are just as valuable and need protecting----things from me then I start doing whatever it takes to prevent it. Would I tell on a truck driver for talking on 10 Meters? YES!! Let him to go back to channel 19. Would I rat out a supplier like Copper that sells "10 Meter" radios? YES!! They are breaking the law and causing interference to me and all others who have fulfilled the requirements to use those frequencies. Come in my yard and steal my lawnmower?
Damn right!! Don't be surprised if you didn't get a load of rock salt up your a! Some kids with 4 wheel drives once decided to do donuts in my front yard leaving ugly ruts. I took a couple of thin boards and filled them FULL of nails and tacks. Then I buried them in the yard in their "favorite" spot they liked to do donuts in. One night the boards disappeared, so I followed the boys out the road
a piece to find them on the side of the road with a FLAT!
(I found the boards farther back from my house). I am sure it ruined at least one of their tires. Butcha know what? I have never had ruts cut in my yard again. Seen 'em, in other yards,, but not in mine. The moral is; Illegal operators stay OUT of "my" yard! Do that, and you won't hear from me. I find a trucker (for example) "a-tawkin'" on 10 Meters, his a is mine if I hear him.

Whatever AKC has done that has you so mad, whatever it is they did to YOU, I had nothing to do with it. Don't attribute something THEY did to me: I did not, and nothing makes me madder than to be accused of something I didn't do. So you lay out here what I did to you, or said to you, or attributed to you, OR accused you of that proves I have something to do with AKC.

You realize that confession without evidence a crime has been committed is basically invalid? Anyone can say they committed a crime, doesn't necessarily make it so. I can say, for instance:
I killed the President of the United States, John Fitzgerald
Kennedy, in Dallas Texas on November 22, 1963 and am fully guilty of that crime. Well, I guess that proves the single-bullet theory wrong for all time, doesn't it?

better not let riley catch you on there. thats a licensed frequency for

Yo' Eric! Two places Riley has no interest,,the bowl and triple 5. 285 has been a well known international calling freq for as long as I have been active. No doubt about it, much of the traffic is foreign, very little is domestic, and I doubt WKRP is going to lose sleep over the occasional Aldo and late night low spark signal of high heeled,,er,...Arkansas boys (where the hell you guys go NOW?). The foreign stations are running huge rigs compared to what you will find domestic-side on 285...they don't even know what a Riley is, nor do they care.

Thing is, Frank hasn't been correct once concerning his English. It's as you say, he wants to be right so intensely, that he ignores facts and proof that shows he is incorrect. The latest example was his gaffe claiming English is incorrect when a phrase or sentence is ended with a preposition. Despite illustrating the proper English technique and providing the proper links showing the dead Latin rule does not translate to English and that his claim is one of the most commonplace errors by the layman introduced to creative writing or even basic composition, he refused to acknowledge his incompetence. But that's ok, as more satisfaction has been gained watching his steadfastness and insistence at remaining ignorant. Those schooled in such, comprehend.

As it turns out, I like Frank. We've had some K-nock down drag outs in the past, and we can both be assholes.

But in the end, I think we could see eye to eye about many things.

Notice he's distanced himself from doug and george more than ever.

I don't look at it as a "like" or "dislike" type scenario..,I see there are some of those that are easy to communicate with and others that are difficult to communicate with,,Frank is not only difficult, but intentionally malicious and lies about those who dare disagree with his claims. He can't even leave it alone at that, he takes to unprovoked attacks and acts like a baby. Check your threads,,,,he just posted today and parroted the AKC, VERBATIM with his unprovoked malice toward cbers,,,that doesn't equal distancing himself from the "akc." All the above can be confirmed,,,,my personal opinion is he holds grudges and is a huge part of the negative behavior on this group by posting via anonymous accesses. I can point to several of his last and lost accesses to the group and their tos agreement regarding subscription information and you can see for yourself, via the timetable of when he lost access, that he was TOSSED for behavior in violation of his providers, despite his vehement cries otherwise.
Call me a cynic, but when he quotes the self-styled group you speak of just today in a post, and you see it as "distancing" himself fom their group of trouble,,,,,....you are mistaken.
I assume you missed the post, but distancing himself,,,,,,,not a chance. In fact, in the past, it was HE that included himself on the names of those this group would have to "contend" with. I pointed it out and he never got over it. (shrug) Glad you made friendly with him,,just make certain you never disagree with him, ask anyone who has EVER disagreed with him in this group...you will immediately become his object of focus and offtopic drivel and attacks.

The likelihood of one individual being correct increases in a direct

Threats? My gosh, Geogre, you have threatened many on this group,,in fact, you have been threatening me for years with this and that,,,you're a puss-filled windbag with no merit, credibility, or positive contributions to this group. Your language is x-rated and foul and you speak of men's sexual acts on a regular basis. You have had problems with every single person on this group, with the sole exception of team voob, my parishioners and faithful church goers. Did you forget who you're replying to, Twist? He once told me he was going to post rifle scope pics of me, from his favorite rifle. In fact one time he map-quested Rocky River Ohio and claimed to be at the Mc Donalds on Lake road there.

He didn't know that I know Rocky River real well, since some of my best paying customers live in that town...oh and the small detail about there's no McDonald's, Burger King, Wendy's, or a jack in the box on Lake rd in Rocky River.

I'm hoping he's changed his ways, or will.

Maybe we'll hear him on the nickle someday?

When you return from snorkeling, us keyclowns will assist you in buying whatever your budget will allow. It really doesn't cost much to get started, and you're picking a good time to do it since the sun spot is on the retreat.

I heard about it on the CB, here's my best recollection.

KC8QJP Lee Kathleen

http://acc.ohio.gov/dhearing.html

http://acc.ohio.gov/bdmn0401.html

FORMAL DISCIPLINARY HEARING-KATHLEEN R. LEE

Chairman Woods noted that Kathleen Lee was issued CPA certificate 36,525 on July 15, 1998. The hearing was to consider disciplinary action against Ms. Lee's CPA certificate pursuant to Ohio Revised Code section 4701.16(A)(5), conviction of a felony under the laws of any state or of the United States. Ms. Lee was convicted in the United States District Court, Northern District of Ohio of five counts of Aiding & Assisting in Filing False Tax Returns, a violation of 26 USC 7206(2), on June 12, 2000. Ms. Lee did not appear at the hearing. The Board agreed to deliberate the disciplinary action in a later executive session.

Action taken.

Kathleen R. Lee, CPA 4701.16(A)(5)-Convicted of aiding & assisting in filing of false tax returns. CPA certificate revoked. 2001 Apr 24

Now I could be wrong, but that's the way I remember it from the CB radio.

Could you guys give it a rest?

How about a truce?

George pick out one thing you'd like Steve to agree to.

Steve pick out one thing you'd like George to agree to.

These must be REALISTIC things (in other words, you can't ask the other guy to agree to fuck off and die, etc)

Examples.....

•George will not call Steve gay, homo, or anything equivalent.

or

•Steve will not call George George, WA3MOJ or anything equivalent.

or

•George will not use the word ass.

or

•Steve will not threaten violence.

Etc. Etc.

Each guy pick ONE and shake hands on it.

Agreement will be binding for 10 days.

You can always go back to flaming after the time is up, but hopefully not.

Come on fellas! Let's get back to CB!

Not likely. But if the FCC doesn't pull their collective heads out of their collective asses pretty soon, you might see me setting up a 'loophole' broadcast station in the near future.

That's because Twisty has distorted the issue beyond all recognition, as usual. Let me clear this up:

The issue is that Twisty believes, without regard to all the evidence to the contrary, that I am N7VCF, a ham with the same name that lives in Issaquah. I have maintained all along that I am not him, and that I live in Spokane. So Twisty, fearing the public humiliation of being forced to admit failure, is trying with great intensity to prove that I am wrong.

A couple years ago you posted "Stuff for Sale---Cheap!!". That stuff included a Heathkit HW-18 which I bought and subsequently scrapped because the board was too far gone for repair (however I got lots of good parts out of it, including a nice project cabinet/chassis).

Anyway, as proof that I don't live in Issaquah, I suggested he ask you where you shipped the Heathkit that you sold me. He only needed to ask a simple question, but like everything else he mucked it up.

Also, despite my open criticism of your claims about the FCC's upcoming enforcement efforts, he suggested that you might lie in my defense.

Respond as you see fit.

First of all, this is a football NG and not a 'law enforcement' NG.
Secondly, for all you know he is spitting on the sidewalk or letting his goat walk downtown without a leash(both misdemeanors, but still against the law). Or he could be lying...
Lastly, go find him yourself or get a life. If he's committing any major crimes, the appropriate law enforcement agency will do their job, like always.

Frankie has never posted anything but innuendo. His leaps to conclusions are legendary but he has presented absolutely no proof. In fact, his original attempt to "out" Twist was a prime example of circular reasoning and showed his inability to think logically.

Where's the proof, Frankie? Can't post it because you don't have it!

This NG does just what the AKC wants, nothing more. You get back to CB on the CB itself if you want. Until we say different this is our NG and you can't do a damned thing about it. Just ask the faggot ass cum sucker twathed. She has tried for a long time. Her continuing failure has made her a punchclown and a gay fucktoy for the whole internet.

proportion to the intensity with which others try keep their kids away

>Maybe we'll hear him on the nickle someday?

Chances are, in my humble opinion, he's already there causing discontent because he hates himself and blames freebanders for messing up his daily work..this, on top of his comment "The more that break the law,, the better". He and Geogre think much alike,,,,all twisted and in contrast to the majority. The argument is strong that folks do not change their behavior from one medium to another. Frank has strong emotions, but is emotionally weak. He acts on the radio like he acts here.

FORMAL DISCIPLINARY HEARING-KATHLEEN R. LEE
Chairman Woods noted that Kathleen Lee was issued CPA certificate 36,525 on July 15, 1998. The hearing was to consider disciplinary action against Ms. Lee's CPA certificate pursuant to Ohio Revised Code section 4701.16(A)(5), conviction of a felony under the laws of any state or of the United States. Ms. Lee was convicted in the United States District Court, Northern District of Ohio of five counts of Aiding & Assisting in Filing False Tax Returns, a violation of 26 USC § 7206(2), on June 12, 2000. Ms. Lee did not appear at the hearing. The Board agreed to deliberate the disciplinary action in a later executive session.
Action taken.
Kathleen R. Lee, CPA 4701.16(A)(5)-Convicted of aiding & assisting in filing of false tax returns. CPA certificate revoked. 2001 Apr 24
Now I could be wrong, but that's the way I remember it from the CB radio.

Kathleen R. Lee...that's right,,,I couldn't remember the name of the woman who shares the same address as N8WWM Doug Adair provided to the FCC as his primary domecile. Adair was busted by the FCC for jamming repeaters on several occcasions and according to this, Lee was convicted of felonious behavior in the manner of filing false tax returns. Do you know the laws of Discovery in Ohio pertaining to such information? It's easy enough to find, I just thought you may already know.,,,,It had been suggested it was his daughter,,,imagine that,,,,if true, it would indeed prove the apple doesnt fall far from the tree pertaining to family behavior requiring involvment of the authorities.

Well,
That subject was not addressed, OR I missed it. That is why I was in the dark. I am reluctant to get involved in disputes on here.

The FCC actions are on www.arnewsline.com, www.arrl.org/enforcement. Of course you know about UPS, Pacetronics, Roper Electronics, R and L Trucking, Cheetah Transportation, Jolly Roger Enterprises, et al, right? It is happening and will continue to get worse until the incursions into 10 and 12 Meters stop.

FREE!!

For advanced techs and serious radio hobbyists, we're now offering a FREE copy of our previously published "CB EPROM DATA BOOK" by Martin Pickering. (EPROM = Erasable Programmable Read Only Memory.) We sold it for many years but it's now out of print. This little manual of 60 illustrated pages is an absolute GEM of CB technical knowledge you'll just never find anywhere else. And it's yours for FREE from our Web site.

This book reveals the secrets of advanced channel programming, and picks up where our "CB PLL DATA BOOK" (www.cbcintl.com/pllbook.htm) leaves off. You'll get a thorough background in how these amazing programmable chips can be used to modify many popular CB PLL circuits for expanded frequency coverage. Covers the basic programming techniques, and even includes real PC board artwork for making EPROM circuits. Sample artwork includes EPROM boards for the popular MB8719, PLL02A, ï¿½PD2824, and ï¿½PD858 PLL circuits.

I should let TwistyDave field -that- remark himself, but I'll say that you not only get involved, you actually create some of those disputes with your position on FCC enforcement. Regardless, the only 'involvement' requested of you was the confirmation of a fact about myself, and by my own request. If that makes you queezy then don't bother.

>The FCC actions are on www.arnewsline.com, www.arrl.org/enforcement. Of >the incursions into 10 and 12 Meters stop.

Like I said before, those efforts aren't working. Most of the illegal 10m activity is done using CB radios modified by electronic hobbyists and hams using information that is readily available over the internet. Shutting down a few companies that are capitalizing on the trend only sends the message that piracy is OK as long as you don't plan to make any money doing it.

Let's try an analogy here.... Suppose you have a party-house next door. We're talking screaming, yelling, profanity, fights, loud music at all hours of the day and night -- basically the Citizen's Band personified. The FCC thinks it can shut down the house by busting a few local convenience stores selling beer to underage kids, an effort which is completely ignorant of the determination and resourcefulness of these kids. Meanwhile, you think everything will be fine as long as you build a fence high enough to keep the crap out of your own yard. But that doesn't stop the flow of traffic around your house, nor does it stop other houses in the neighborhood from becoming a party-house. And as the parties get bigger and bigger, you have to keep building the fence higher and higher, until one day that fence will be so high it will collapse on itself. When that happens the party will explode all over your yard. Maybe -then- you and the FCC will decide to address the -source- of the problem, and not just try to limit it's effects. However, it's more likely that the FCC will just write off your house, fence off the neighborhood with you inside, and keep busting convenience stores just to pacify the rest of the community that turned their heads while your house went down.

I do not worry about a static discharge if the antenna is grounded. Hell, if lightning its your house all you are going to worry about is your radio? I am thinking this is a good time to have the insurance paid up...

Back to business at hand.....the FCC damn should take a hand in enforcing the bands they helped screw up,,they can begin with the big stations breaking FCC law on a daily basis, ranging from safety issues, expirations of licenses, certificates, permits, and the like, to outright illegal power and occupation of bandwidth. After rectifying the safety issues, they can only then in good faith begin to enforce the incursions into hammie bands, as should have been done all along. Going after the small fry and nonsafety issues isn't getting the FCC or anyone else for that matter any head way.

Anger Management!! (Make sure to read to the end)

When you occasionally have a really bad day, and you just need to take it out on someone, don't take it out on someone you know, take it out on someone you don't know.

It all started one day when I was sitting at my desk and I remembered a phone call I had forgotten to make. I found the number and dialed it. A man answered, saying, "Hello." I politely said, "This is Stephen. May I please speak with Robin Carter"? Suddenly, the phone was slammed down on me. I couldn't believe that anyone could be so rude.

I tracked down Robin's correct number and called her. I had transposed the last two digits of her phone number. After hanging up with her, I decided to call the 'wrong' number again. When the same guy answered the phone, I yelled, "You're an asshole!" and hung up. I wrote his number down with the word 'asshole' next to it, and put it in my desk drawer.

Every couple of weeks, when I was paying bills or had a really bad day, I'd call him up and yell, "You're an asshole!" It always cheered me up.

When Caller ID came to our area, I thought my therapeutic 'asshole' calling would have to stop. So, I called his number and said, "Hi, this is John Smith from the Telephone Company. I'm just calling to see if you're interested in the Caller ID program?" He yelled, "NO!" and slammed the phone down.

I quickly called him back and said, "That's because you're an asshole!"

One day I was at the store, getting ready to pull into a parking spot. Some guy in a black BMW M3 cut me off and pulled into the spot I had patiently waited for. I hit the horn and yelled that I had been waiting for the spot. The idiot ignored me and then stuck his middle finger out the window and waved it around. I noticed he had a "For Sale" sign in his car window, so I wrote down his number.

A couple of days later, right after calling the first asshole, (I had his number on speed dial), I thought I had better call the BMW asshole, too.

I said, "Is this the man with the black BMW M3 for sale?"

"Yes, it is."

"Can you tell me where I can see it?"

"Yes, I live at 1802 West 34th Street. It's a very modern white house, and the car's parked right out in front.."

"What's your name?" I asked.

"My name is Don Burgemeyer," he said.

"When's a good time to catch you, Don?"

"I'm home every evening after five."

"Listen, Don, can I tell you something?"

"Yes?"

"Don, you're an asshole." Then I hung up, and added his number to my speed dial, too. Now, when I had a problem, I had two assholes to call.

But after several months of calling them, it wasn't as enjoyable as it used to be. So, I came up with an idea.

I called Asshole #1. "Hello." "You're an asshole!" (But I didn't hang up.)

"Are you still there?" he asked.

"Yeah," I said.

"Stop calling me," he screamed.

"Make me," I said.

"Who are you?" he asked.

"My name is Don Burgemeyer."

"Yeah? Where do you live?"

"Asshole, I live at 1802 West 34th Street, a white house, and to make easy for you, my black BMW M3 is parked in front."

He said, "I'm coming over right now, Don. And you had better start >saying your prayers."

I said, "Yeah, like I'm really scared, asshole. Bring your lunch!!"

Then I called Asshole #2.

"Hello?" he said.

"Hello, asshole," I said.

He yelled, "If I ever find out who you are!"

"You'll what?" I said.

"I'll kick your ass," he exclaimed.

I answered, "Well, asshole, here's your chance. I'm coming over right now."

Then I hung up and immediately called the police, saying that I lived at 1802 West 34th Street, and that I was on my way over there to kill my gay lover.

Then I called Channel 9 News about the gang war going down on West 34th Street.

I quickly got into my car and headed over to 34th street. There I saw two assholes beating the crap out of each other in front of six squad cars, a police helicopter, and a news crew.

NOW, I feel better. Anger management really works..

Hey dude I'm sending this from Casino Windsor with Webtv. The old lady and I got a wild hair and came up here for the night.

I'm up a little but I'll probably give it back to them after dinner. ;)

Glad to hear you were able to mix work with radio pleasure.

If you don't know that, you really should stop touting for business as a lawyer.

Try public display of copyright material...
http://www.bitlaw.com/copyright/scope.html#display

Copyright law gives specific sole rights to the copyright owner...
The right to reproduce the copyrighted work,
The right to prepare derivative works based upon the work,
The right to distribute copies of the work to the public,
The right to perform the copyrighted work publicly,
The right to display the copyrighted work publicly.
Giving permission for any one of these acts does NOT give rights for any other restricted act. A copyright owner can give permission for copying for personal use, while retaining sole rights for public display of the work.

Registration and copyright notices are NOT required for protection to apply or legal action to be possible. Copyright exists as soon as a copy exists, even if the work is not completed.
When a work is "created":
http://www4.law.cornell.edu/uscode/17/101.html
Copyright subsists in works fixed in any tangible medium:
http://www4.law.cornell.edu/uscode/17/102.html

Copyright infringement a federal law:
http://www.pdimages.com/law/10.htm
According to the above site, Americans breaking copyright laws are "federal criminals", with a possible $10,000 fine. Is that not the same as the possible fine for illegal CB?

As with CB laws, whether someone gets caught can be another matter - and if a person wants to take the risk, that's their business. But, telling that person that it is OK to do it is no better than telling someone to use an illegal amp - and breaking copyright laws is no better than breaking CB laws.
Also, what a copyright owner will try and what they can manage will depend upon who they are and how much power (or money) they can throw at it. A big business may throw so much money at a case, that it will end up as a loss for them... but they will make an example of the person in the hope that others are scared.

>Who in this newsgroup was victimized by >"copyright theft"?

Where have I said that anyone in this group was victimised by copyright theft?

>What a goddam hypocrite you are, Peter.

YOU are the hypocrite... you claim to be "pro-legal", yet jump to defend the violation of copyright laws. But then, it's not about the law, it's about WHO is doing something.
All I did was tell someone something, and you jump in with your typical angry attitude. I'll bet you went bright red and needed a lie down to recover from your fit. I wonder why you feel the need to jump in and "protect" that particular person - why anyone suggesting that they may be breaking a law makes you so angry.
Ask yourself who is doing him a favour - the person warning him of what could happen, or the person suggesting that he should go ahead regardless? If I was out to get him, I would simply of kept quiet, reported it, and laughed as he got "slapped".

I have made it clear that I use LEGAL CB equipment with no power amps (or pre-amps, as they are illegal here), I have advised people against using amps (where they really wanted to know), and I have spoke my mind about certain add-ons and their fitting methods. Yet, in spite of "antikeyclown" suggestions about "anger", I have had no angry response from the "keyclown" side - only from the "anti" side.
Strange how the "pro-legal" mob gladly attack a legal CBer, then claim that the "keyclowns" chase legal CBers from the group.

Just don't be surprised when nobody believes your claim to be "pro-legal"... the "antikeyclown" crud is all just a cover for trolling this group or working off some anger.
The "anti" mob do more to damage the image of legal CB and promote illegal activities than any of your "enemies" ever could with their words.

Nice rant, but it is based on your ignorance of copyright law. Let's try this one more time..... Study the code from the link I quoted above, verify all of its references to other sections of the code that are relevant to this specific 'case', then come back and try -once again- to tell us what law was broken.

I should add that Randy recently voiced his opinion about me, and it's not one that I haven't heard before. He feels that I am preoccupied with 'being right' all the time. That's not far from the truth, which is that I am careful not to be wrong when I talk about something. Sure, it happens once in a while that I do put the cart before the horse, claiming something as true before I verify the facts. That doesn't happen often, and when it does I'm the first to admit it. Now some people hate people like me, the "Mr. Know-It-All" type, but that's their problem (maybe they never heard the story of the Fox and the Grapes). If they don't like me proving them wrong then tough shit -- they should learn to keep mouths shut. And I'm not going to intentionally spout off about things I know nothing about just to win a popularity award from a crowd that does. So if you are arguing this subject just because you hate the 'know-it-all' types like me, it would be best if you quit now because I know what I'm talking about on this subject. However, if you sincerely think that you are right, prove it and I'll admit that I'm wrong. Fair enough?

I guess Frank didn't go to the website that the picture was stolen from. He would have read that all material either written or displayed is copyrighted. They say right on the site that you needed express permission to reproduce or display their material.

He's right Peter who in this newsgroup was who am I victimizing on this newsgroup?

Exactly! I found that he had done that, I could've reported him, but what would that have accomplished? He'll get an email telling him to take it down, big deal. I thought it was funny right after I pointed that out, he put little spots over the faces of them to cover his anatomy. If I'm wrong, why worry.

The fact remains that picture was taken without permission from the owner. It was then reproduced and displayed on the internet, still without permission of the owner, to which it is stated very clearly on the site, that all material is copyrighted and not to be reproduced without express written permission.

You, like your twin Hypocrite Peter, didn't read far enough into the law. On that same page about halfway down is the following line:

"Before an infringement suit may be filed in court, registration is necessary for works of U. S. origin."

why they arguing about copyright in the first place ??? When Peter or Steveo or any one else put up a web page there is no beef about copyright shit from akc or otherwise. But if "george" put up a page oh no then hypocrite landshark jumps in like a tattle tale and

It is unlawful to reproduce copyrighted material without explicit permission. That you need it defined further, is your problem. Ask Lelnad about it,,he can educate you on such laws.

The likelihood of one individual being correct increases in a direct proportion to the intensity with which others try to prove him wrong

I do not worry about a static discharge if the antenna is grounded.

Dave, you have the comprehension of a moldy kumquat. A copyright, just like any other right, has limitations. Let's see if you can overcome your communication deficit long enough to read and understand the link I posted in my reply to Peter the Hypocrite:

http://www4.law.cornell.edu/uscode/17/412.html

And since you want to dip your wick into this thread, maybe you can answer the question that's fogging up Peter's reading glasses. Or maybe not.

Maybe to protect the radio, If your antenna is hit, and your coax is disconnected from your radio , the potential across the connector can be hundreds of thousands of volts. The resulting arc can set fire to adjacent materials.

No, it is what it says, for static discharge. It won't prevent strikes. Disconnect all cables before they enter your house and ground them.

My goodness but you are predictable. First off, you have limited comprehension of your limited vocabulary. From Webster's:

device -- n. 1. a thing devised; plan. 2. a scheme; trick. 3. a mechanical contrivance; invention......

Second, disconnecting the coax from the radio is often done with a "device", or haven't you heard of this new gizmo on the market called the 'switch'?

Third, your communication deficit is acting up again. Read the original post: "....I was under the impression that it would also help prevent lightning strikes." Unless you are from a different planet with some kind of wonderful new technology that can actually change the weather at will, no "device" can prevent lightning strikes, period.

Now go fly a kite, Dave.

You got that right. I'm heading up to Tahoe next weekend with a couple of Bros', do a little Mackinaw Trout fishing.

We'll also probably do some gambling, but since I won a few weeks ago, the odds are against me this time.

Hell, if lightning its your house all you are going to worry about is your radio? I am

All bets are off with a lightning strike. No device can offer 100% protection against a direct strike.

Your both right, but you all forgot to

It might only take a static charge of a few hundred volts to damage components in your radio. If you don't, that depends, most people don't use them. Disconnect and ground your cables when storms are heading your way.

Not just his radio. My tower got hit last year, no damage to my radios, they were disconnected and unplugged. I'm guessing due to an induced charge in the wiring in my house, I lost 2 TV sets, 1 computer, my router and wireless access point. I now unplug just about everything when storms are on the way.

Looking for a good handheld CB unit for $100 or less, preferably one that can be readily modified without much effort.

How about Cobra, Cherokee, or Midland?

Also, can a CB be modified into the marine SSB or VHF range? If so, how? Not necessarily looking to transmit at these ranges, but receive.

Any ideas, please?

Thanks.

The antenna requires an earth ground, first, as required by National Electrical Code. That mounting rod should be connected to an eight+ foot earth ground rod (available even in Home Depot and Lowes). This required by NEC for human safety, but also to protect transistors.

Incoming wire should enter building at the service entrance so that a ground block (maybe $1 at Radio Shack or Home Depot) connects 'less than 10 feet' to the building's single point earth ground. Same earthing ground that also connects to AC electric, telephone, and cable TV wire. Do not even think an AC receptacle or water faucet will provide that necessary earthing.

NEC requirements have changed since 1990 to require a service entrance ground rod. You may need to install this earth ground rod at the service entrance. Many homes don't even have that much which is another reason why some homes suffer household electronics damage.

Principles are demonstrated in this figure. Note an antenna tower and building each have their own earth ground. Each is earthed as if it were a separate structure. Every incoming wire makes a connection to that earth ground. To make the 'system' work better, a ground wire interconnects the antenna and building earth grounds:

http://services.erico.com/public/library/fep/technotes/tncr002.pdf

Static is irrelevant. A few hundred volts of static will not damage any properly built radio. You could even static shock your car radio antenna or a portable radio antenna without damage. That would be as much as 18,000 volts - and still no damage.

The earthing is required by NEC for human safety AND also provides transistor safety. If lightning is provided a path to earth ground via that exterior rod, then it too will not seek earth ground, destructively, via your radio. Direct strike lightning damage is that easily avoided. Unfortunately, too many don't have necessary earthing, suffer damage, and then declare nothing could have helped. Generations of technical history say otherwise. Its all about earthing - as even required by code.

Sorry, static is not irrelevant. You need to read up on static damage before you make such foolish posts. Every electronics manufacturer in the world takes great lengths to control static. When you talk about static shocking your car radio antenna, or portable radio antenna without damage, you need to look at other paths that the static electricity would be taking. Would you allow me to connect your CB antenna connection of your radio directly to an A.C. line? Thats only 115 volts.

Last time I read, current seeks all and any paths to ground. Has that changed? Direct strike lightning damage isn't as easy as earth grounding your antenna. Hopefully no one else will believe your B.S. that all you need to do is earth ground your antenna and electrical entrance box unless you are willing to pay for any damage that they receive following your instructions.

Not very easily without reworking a lot of the circuitry. The best you could probably hope for is getting it up to the low VHF band, but the VHF marine band (156-158 MHZ) would be stretching it. Even if you did get the radio converted to that range, it isn't likely to have the same channel spacing. And even so, VHF marine radios transmit in FM, not AM or SSB.

If all you want to do is listen, just get a cheap scanner and program the frequencies in.

.......BAD idea. Tying your ground rods together makes a ground loop, which is deadly for radio equipment. Use a completely -seperate- ground system for your radio. Sink a ground rod where the coax enters the shack, tie the coax shield directly to this rod (don't forget to waterproof the connection), and run your ground strap and coax as close together as possible. Here's a diagram:

http://www.aimcomm.net/sparky/ground.gif

DON'T rely on your coax shield for a ground strap!!! You can braid a heavy-duty strap using old power cords and it shouldn't cost you more than a few dollars at the local thrift shop.

If AC noise becomes a problem, rewire the AC outlets used by the radio so their ground goes to the new ground rod via the ground strap. Do NOT connect the neutral (white) wire to this ground!

Many radios aren't built "properly", and most modern radios use JFET or MOSFET frontends, which are VERY suseptible to damage from static, even from potentials as low as 50 volts (the breakdown potential of the protection diodes). That's not the only problem -- static buildup on the antenna causes horrific noise! Fortunately, the best solution is an easy one: shunt the center conductor of your coax to ground with an RF choke, something on the order of 1 milliHenry or larger (even an audio or power supply choke will work). Locate the choke at the grounding block (see diagram) as any lightning strike will travel through that choke and you don't want it inside the shack when that happens. On the upside, it makes a beautiful blob of copper and iron that you could probably sell on ebay for a decent price (after the smell goes away, of course).

Wrong. If the coax is plugged into the radio when lightning hits the antenna, it's safe to assume that your radio will fry. Period. Doesn't matter how much protection you have. Why? Because lightning packs a few million volts (not an exaggeration) and will jump just about any gap to ground. But gaps are also resistors, and since lighting also carries a few million amps (again, not an exaggeration), you are going to have a SIGNIFICANT voltage potential on your coax. In fact, the potential and current are so high that the core insulation breaks down for the full length of the coax and it is literally cooked from end to end. I've seen it more than once. And that's WITH proper grounding!

Unplug the coax from the radio when not in use. If you want to use a "device", get one of those big blade switches so there is a big gap, and wire it so the antenna is shorted to ground when not connected to the radio.

Manufacturer changed URL for that Technical Note again:
TN CR 002 The Need for Coordinated Protection

http://www.erico.com/public/library/fep/technotes/tncr002.pdf
This figure demonstrates how a radio can be protected even from lightning strikes.

Static is irrelevant to radios because, as was posted > Every electronics manufacturer ... takes great lengths to > control static.
If static on an antenna was destructive to a radio, then every time a human static discharges to that radio (many times higher voltage), then the radio is damaged. But human static discharge does not damage those JFETs. Internal protection easily installed because static has such low current AND short duration. Radio design assumes an antenna has been properly earthed as even required by the NEC which therefore makes internal protection effective.

Cell phone towers, 911 dispatcher radios, telephone switching computers connected to overhead wires everywhere in town. All must suffer direct strikes and not be damaged - as was standard even before WWII. Why? Earthing, as described in the below text, and demonstrated in that manufacturer's

If such earthing was not effective, then 911 emergency dispatch and telephone operators would have to remove headsets (stopped working) during every thunderstorm. They don't stop working, do they. Protection so routine that it even makes static electric discharge problems irrelevant and trivial by comparison.

OPs antenna and antenna lead must connect as demonstrated by that industry professional's technical note. For that matter, visit this and many other 'real world' manufacturers whose products are also effective because they discuss the most critical component - earthing.

Unfortunately Frank Gilliland has exaggerated his numbers due to insufficient experience and too much time listening to myths. His numbers will be exposed as fiction.

Field experience says repeatedly that antenna and radio can suffer direct strikes without damage. That is proven about 25 times every year atop Empire State Building since the 1930s. According to Frank, they must suffer damage 25 times per year. Let's start with his numbers.

Millions of volts? Yes. But same voltage does not appear everywhere in a circuit - basic circuit theory. Those millions of voltage are in the sky. Surge protection is about making those millions of voltage appear elsewhere which is why industry professionals discuss impedance. A low impedance connection to earth means no millions of volts.

Millions of amps? Only in dreams. Most lightning is below 20,000 amps and of such short duration as to not be high energy. Lightning typically so low energy at the strike location (not to be confused with what is miles above) that well over 90% of all trees struck leave no indication of that strike.

How big need a wire be to shunt (earth) lightning? Even the US Army training manual TM5-690 requires 10 AWG wire to conduct the direct lightning strike without damage. Same wire found in 20 or 30 amp AC electric boxes because lightning is not the millions of amps so often claimed in urban myths. Unlike Frank, numbers are provided by multiple, reliable sources.

Another who does this for a living:
From Colin Baliss "Transmission & Distribution Electrical Engineering":
> Although lightning strikes have impressive voltage and current values > (typically hundreds to thousands of kV and 10-100 kA) the energy > content of the discharge is relatively low ...

or Martin A Uman in All About Lightning
> Most of the energy available to the lightning is converted along > the lightning channel to thunder, heat, light, and radio waves, > leaving only a fraction available at the channel base for > immediate use or storage.

In short, Frank Gilliland's numbers are classic myths.

Pre WWII ham radio operators demonstrated what was required for protection. First they would disconnect antenna and still suffer damage. Then placed antenna lead in a mason jar, and still suffered damage. But when antenna was connected to earth ground, then no damage. Neither a mason jar nor "one of those big blade switches" sufficiently blocks destructive transients. Of course not. Lightning was not blocked by miles of air. Is a mason jar or knife switch to do what miles of air could not? Of course not. For no damage, provide the destructive transient what it wants - earth ground.

zeeeeeeee's antenna installation is demonstrated by a figure in TN CR 002 The Need for Coordinated Protection (corrected URL)

http://www.erico.com/public/library/fep/technotes/tncr002.pdf

Need anyone suffer damage from direct lightning? Of course not. Such damage is considered a human failure because proper earthing is so effective and so inexpensive. Another professional who makes that point in direct contradiction to posted myths:
http://www.harvardrepeater.org/news/lightning.html
> Well I assert, from personal and broadcast experience spanning > 30 years, that you can design a system that will handle direct > lightning strikes on a routine basis. It takes some planning

Important point. This professional did not say 'resistance'. He said 'impedance' which is why wire length is so critical. 'Impedance' is why an incoming wire (antenna, CATV, telephone) must first drop down to make a short connection to earth before rising up to enter a building. Just one of the "careful layout" techniques learned from underlying theory tempered by decades of experience.

zeeeeeeee's tower requires earthing to meet human safety requirements of National Electrical Code AND to provide transistor safety. Earthing required twice over. Once properly earthed, then even unplugging for protection would be unnecessary - as has been demonstrated too many times at too many locations since before WWII.

Actually that astrosurf.com author misses the point. He cites a benchmark in surge protection, then assumes the surge protector (or more of them) provides protection. Even Polyphaser does not make that claim. Far better information are the legendary application notes from Polyphaser. Do they discuss their products? Of course not. Polyphaser discusses THE protection - earthing.

Making a short connection to earth is so critical that Polyphaser even makes protectors with NO connection. Instead the protector mounts directly ON earth ground. Polyphaser application notes are at:
http://www.polyphaser.com/ppc_pen_home.asp

Why did the author suffer damage? Every damaged item was part of a circuit from cloud to earth. Only damaged were items that completed a path to earth.

BTW, those manufacturers who discuss earthing make serious protectors. Visit their product line appreciate what serious protector products are.

Whaaaa? Tahoe warmed up already or are you planning on cutting through the hardened water and fishing through a hole? Good luck with your dinner expedition,,,,the action has been absolutely smokin' 'round heah!

Hell NO!!!! It's supposed to snow. The lake Never freeze's over, that's Donner Lake that does that. We've hired a fishing guide, not that I need one, but he has the boat, to which I am without at the moment. So we'll head out on Saturday morning, fish until noon and come back in and relax and get ready for a fun night on the town.

This thing kicks ass on CB, especially if you have mic gain. I've been a CB'er since I was 12 and I know what a good mic sounds like. This isn't even argued, if you know what you're doing with CB, you automatically have this mic, it's like unwritten law. As far as ham, I've used it on 75 meters, but most of the ham rigs I have are just VHF/UHF which comes with it's own mic and keypad on it so it makes to sense to use it. On AM though, this baby is king.

I'd say this mic is the improved version of the D-104 (even though that mic has be around before I was born, lol) just because it's a nice looking microphone and the D-104 is just plain ugly. Not to mention you have external tone and volume.

A word of caution, transmitting when the radio is off (for instance you left it on you car seat in a funny position where it holds the mic key) drains the battery in a night. And if you ratchet jaw like I do on 11m, be sure you have an extra 9V in the glove box, you just might need it after a while. Great audio on 75 meters too!

So, you claim that ALL lightning strikes can be safely shunted to Earth, with no damage along the path? Well, I don't have 30 years experience in the electrical transmission and distribution industry, but I do have 25 years. And I have seen properly earth grounded transmission and distribution poles where the awg #6-#4 CU wires were mostly vaporized. Sure, there were bits and short pieces left, but for the most part, the wire was gone. I confer with you most of what you say, but you would be not completely honest to say that all lightning strikes can be earthed with no damage. Possible? Maybe. Practical? Nope.There will be strikes of magnitude where practical techniques fail.

CB radio antennas are not commercial station towers. The latter are verticals that have a direct connection to ground and the ground radials. Actually, an AM broadcast tower is almost a perfect lightning rod by design because it not only shunts the lightning directly to ground, but also distributes the power from the strike over the whole counterpoise field. So the tower stays at a relatively low potential even during a direct strike. And what -does- manage to sneak onto the line has to deal with some rather expensive protection devices. Antennas mounted seperately on towers (FM/TV BC, cell, commercial, etc) have the same problems as any other antenna, but those problems are usually minimized by the use of coax. More below.

A low impedance ground is fine for AC line protection, but it doesn't guarantee lightning protection. We have all heard that lightning takes the shortest path to ground, but that's not really true since electricity will take EVERY path to ground available. Lightning creates it's own conduit from the clouds, but once it hits a conductor on the ground it behaves just like any other form of electricity -- almost. The fact is that wire has resistance, and the resistance of copper increases with temperature, which is what happens when it passes the current from a lightning strike. When that happens it will continue it's path to ground (assuming the wire doesn't fuse), but other paths will share more of the load. And because there is a resistance, there will also be a voltage potential across that resistance. If that voltage potential is high enough it will happily arc over to another ground path, and frequently does. More below.

> Millions of amps? Only in dreams. Most lightning is below >20,000 amps and of such short duration as to not be high >energy. Lightning typically so low energy at the strike >location (not to be confused with what is miles above) that >well over 90% of all trees struck leave no indication of that >strike.

Let's take your figure of 20,000.... no, let's go even lower. Let's say only 1000 amps @ 1,000,000 volts. And let's say this is an unusual strike in that it only hits once, not multiple times like a normal strike. And let's say the duration of the hit is 1/10 of a second. This will be a pathetic bolt of lightning to be sure! Ok, so let's do some numbers:

1,000,000 Volts x 1000 Amps = 1,000,000,000 Watts
1,000,000,000 Watts x 0.1 sec = 1,000,000 Watt/sec

One million joules is "low energy"? Get a grip.

Trees struck by lightning usually -do- leave an indication of being struck, but most people don't climb them to search for the point of contact, which is typically nothing more than a spot about one or two cm in diameter that has been charred. And while the reason trees are able to survive direct lightning strikes is still the subject of debate, the reason they make good lightning rods (efficiently conducting the strike to ground) shouldn't be so suprising when you take a look at a cross-section of the root structure -- interesting how it resembles an electrical discharge, isn't it?

Ok, back to your low impedance ground. A ground rod is used to make an electrical connection to the earth. But the impedance of that connection can be anywhere from a few ohms to a few hundred ohms, depending on the type of rod and the conditions of the soil. Let's just say we have a ground with an unbelievable impedance of 1 ohm (a solid-silver rod in a heavily mineralized salt-water marsh that was recently used for dumping copper turnings from a very poorly run machine shop).....

So with an almost impossibly good ground and a puny bolt of lightning you -still- have 1000 volts at the top of your ground rod. So a more typical ground impedance of 50 ohms (not coincidence) and a more typical lightning strike of 10,000 amps will put 500,000 volts on your grounding strap.....YIKES!!!!! This is a fact, and it certainly doesn't seem to jibe with your statement that the voltage at the bottom is insignificant!

> How big need a wire be to shunt (earth) lightning? Even the >US Army training manual TM5-690 requires 10 AWG wire to Ever hear the term "military intelligence"?

> Same wire >found in 20 or 30 amp AC electric boxes because lightning is >not the millions of amps so often claimed in urban myths.
>Unlike Frank, numbers are provided by multiple, reliable

The ground wire in house wiring is intended for fault protection, not lightning strikes. For example, if the hot wire in your vintage all-metal Craftsman drill suddenly comes loose and shorts to the case, since the case is grounded it will shunt the majority of the current to ground through the ground wire, not through the person using the drill. And if your breakers and wiring are up to code (neutral grounded at the box), that current lasts only for a very short time, limiting any damage to the person and the drill. Therefore, the ground wire in your house doesn't need to be as thick as the main wires, and it isn't. Next time you visit your local hardware store, look at the specs on a spool of house wire -- hot and neutral may be #10 while ground will be #12. Another spool may have a pair of #12 wires and #14 for ground. If this ground wire was intended for lightning protection, wouldn't it all be the same size? Fact: the NEC doesn't define ground wire size based on it's ability (or inability) to protect against lightning.

Then I guess all the people that have been killed by lightning didn't die from the power in the lightning, did they? And all the damage to electrical equipment caused by lightning wasn't from the lightning at all, was it? And that pro golfer that was knocked flat on the links by a nearby strike must have been hit in the head with a ball at the exact same time, huh? No, no and no.....

The power of a bolt of lightning isn't the big issue here since it doesn't take much power to cause damage. The issue is how well you are protected from whatever amount of power that -does- make it to the surface.

You bet it will!

Suppose you use one of those basic air-gap devices. Ok, you have 10,000 amps passing through a gap that now consists of plasma. But even plasma has resistance and will develop a considerable voltage across it. Plus, there is the brief voltage potential that exists across the gap immediately before the plasma is ignited, as well as after it is extinguished. These are the voltages that will be developed across the conductors of the transmission line going into the shack. How high is that voltage? It can peak at several thousand volts, and the arc itself can develop several hundred volts across the points. That's enough to fry a radio. Even if the impedance is high coming into the shack, it will still destroy any overload protection in the radio, making it vulnerable to more serious damage from nothing more than a surge or static discharge.

The coax doesn't offer much protection by itself, but it can limit the maximum voltage entering the shack (or coming down the tower from the antenna). Every type of coax has a core insulation that is rated for a certain breakdown, or 'pucture' voltage. RG-58 is rated for 1900 volts RMS, or roughly 2800 volts peak. That means the coax is going to permit 2800 volts into the shack before it fails and starts arcing internally. That's still enough to fry a radio. And that's assuming the lightning hits the antenna and not the coax. If it hits the coax, that's a different game altogether.

There are other factors that can put large voltages on the coax, since inductive and capacitive reactances of a ground system, while small, can become very significant when the current is on the order of 10,000 amps. We can take that route too if you want.

The fact is that simply sinking a ground rod is NOT ENOUGH. A large blade switch will easily block any voltage that can make it through the coax. Additionally, it will also protect the coax by shorting it, thereby preventing a voltage high enough to cause the insulation to fail. This is a method that has been proven time and time again since the beginning of radio.

"Equipotential Earth Bonding" = ground loop = bad news when using unbalanced transmission line (coax). Whoever made that design has no experience with radio communication systems, which is especially evident because most commercial stations bury their coax, affording a level of protection far superior to the design in your reference (....gawd I hate pdf's!).

Although your statement is inconsistent with your pdf reference, the reason coax is sometimes physically located at ground level at the entrance to the shack is because of the differences between RF ground and DC ground, -not- because of the effect of inductive and/or capacitive reactance in a lightning strike. If that were the case then the antenna system would need to be 'tuned' for lightning, which is nearly impossible since lightning has no fixed frequency.

It's obvious that you have no experience in the real world with lightning damage. Get some.

Lightning builds plasma wires that can short high energy, utility power through other copper wires. Lightning simply creates the short circuit. Then a higher source of energy - AC electric utility - follows to vaporize those copper wires.
That point was described by Colin Baliss:
> Although lightning strikes have impressive voltage and current > values (typically hundreds to thousands of kV and 10-100 kA) > the energy content of the discharge is relatively low and most > of the damage to power plant is caused by 'power follow-through > current'. The lightning simply provides a suitable ionized > discharge path.

Yes direct strikes have caused damage. This was a problem in the early days of ESS-1 - the first electronic switching computers for telephone systems. And so engineers then reevaluated the earthing system in those few 'problem' Central Office buildings to correct the reason for electronic damage - human failure.

Described above is not a best solution. But then a best solution is typically not required. Above described system will not avoid damage from every possible direct strike. But then many of these 'rare' direct strikes have never been experienced by many - maybe most - people. For example, something called hot lightning may discharge the entire cloud in one single strike. It has been observed - just like tornados have been observed (most people also will never witness a tornado in their lifetime).

Defined here is effective protection for most direct lightning strikes. It costs so little. To enhance same for the other maybe 1%, serious facilities such as 911 systems, cell phone towers, telephone switch stations, and nuclear hardened maritime facilities spend far more than a few $10.
They spend $thousands more on earthing alone just to also protect from the last 1% of worst case lightning strikes.

I cite nuclear hardened facility especially since a 1998 IEEE paper described a Norwegian maritime station damaged by a lightning strike. They discovered major installation faults in the earthing system for what was suppose to be a nuclear EMP protected station. Faults that even permitted lightning to cause damage. Again, failure directly traceable to a human. Major construction required to repair a simple earthing flaw.

Homes contain superior earthing systems that we still don't use today. Ufer grounds could have been installed using existing structure - if planned for when footing were poured. But we still don't install superior earthing systems in new homes 30 years after the transistor existed. Costs to use that Ufer ground on existing homes are now extreme because Ufer grounding was not enabled when house construction started. OP must make do with simple earth ground rods. Properly installed, the Original Poster is quite unlikely to suffer any damage from direct lightning strikes. For but a few $10, he gets a massive increase in direct lightning strike protection. Not perfect. Just a massive improvement.

Cited was an industry professional who demonstrate simple protection even for amateur radio installations. He discussed protection without damage for all radios, including repeaters. You think effective earthing requires what commercial broadcasters install? Yes, some so deny the power of earthing. Very little protects radios from most direct lightning strikes. However some will cry that such earthing cannot protect from the rare 1%. If earthing is only 99% effective, then no money should be spent - all earthing is useless? Reality, effective protection from direct lightning strikes is about simple and inexpensive earthing. Frank Gilliland has even posted unrealistic and fictional numbers, and then denies the power of earthing - a concept well proven in virtually every town throughout the world.

BTW Frank, to correct your post: low resistance (not impedance) ground is fine for AC line protection. A low impedance ground is necessary for lightning protection. One must know the difference to understand simple earthing concepts - and why earthing is so effective. How can you be so critical of earthing and not even know the most basic of basics - impedance verse resistance?

Even basic numbers such as the typical pulse width are silly speculation. Typical lightning strike is a classic 8/20 usec. That is microseconds - not 0.1 seconds - which is why lightning does not have the energy content of myth. Furthermore, 1,000,000 volts does not appear at that lightning strike. In fact a major destructive direct strike to the building is well defined in research papers - as to not exceed 6,000 volts. One should first learn the science. Basic electrical circuit theory makes it obvious why the millions of volts up there don't appear down here. Either those millions of volts must be up there or down here - cannot exist in both locations. Again, first semester circuit theory that every graduate of West Point and Annapolis has learned. Please first learn that basic circuit theory before disputing IEEE papers, other well proven research, and NEC requirements.

Correctly noted is that most people don't climb trees to search for lightning damage to trees. But then researchers such as Alan Taylor of the US Forestry Service are not just most people. Lightning has such low energy that most every tree directly struck has no appreciative damage. Speculate all you want. He did the work and wrote the paper.

Using your reasoning for why earth cannot conduct the electricity even in a badly polluted salt marsh: then obviously lightning could never conduct miles across the sky and obviously lightning does not strike a non conductive earth. Why does air conduct miles of lightning that only contains millions of volts? First learn the many stages of how air and earth become such excellent conductors. Does a cloud strike 5 miles diagonal to connect cloud to charges on earth? Of course not. Lightning travels 3 miles straight down and then 4 miles through earth to complete a circuit. Lightning takes a more conductive path via air and earth rather than an electrically longer 5 mile path only through air. Conductive earth is also why earthing a direct strike (the single point earth ground) is such effective protection from a direct strike.

Because even simple concepts of impedance verses resistance are not understood, then even safety grounds (third prong in wall receptacle) are confused with earth ground. Safety ground is different from motherboard ground is different from chassis ground is different from automobile ground is different from breaker box ground is different from power plant ground is different from earth ground. Most all are interconnected, but are still electrically different. Learn about impedance. No earth ground is found in wall receptacles because the wire length - and therefore impedance - of that third prong wire is just too far from earth ground. Again, one must first understand impedance to appreciate what world renown experts (some quoted here) have said about earthing.

It takes but a few milliamps to kill a human. Does that prove lightning must be a high energy event - because it too kills? Learn how easy a human can be killed before posting such assumptions.

Even posted is that a buried coax is protected from lightning transients. That is ridiculous as even made bluntly obvious in a Polyphaser application note about damage to an improperly earthed telephone exchange; transient damage via buried wires.

Obvious in that long reply - even basic electrical concepts are not understood. Real world professionals and generations of scientific experience prove basic earthing is effective protection. Even the NEC requires OP to earth ground his antenna also for human safety.

Basic electrical knowledge - impedance verses resistance - was not even understood and still Frank said everyone is wrong about earthing.

Now you are starting to twist my words. I never said proper grounding was ineffective. On the contrary, it's absolutely necessary. And while it -may- protect a radio against damage from most -nearby- strikes that would otherwise cause damage (probably the source of your 99% figure), grounding alone is -not- enough to protect against a -direct- strike to your average CB station, which is what we were talking about. The method I provided is enough to greatly increase the odds of the equipment surviving a -direct- strike. My information is based on over 25 years of real-life field experience as a CB operator, a military radio tech (USMC), a commercial radio tech, and a broadcast engineer. It is also based on a BS in Electronics Engineering (specialized degree), the basic laws of physics, detailed observations and common sense. It is -not- based on a few internet references that can be easily countered with a few other internet references.

Maybe you should read my posts again -- I have already addressed the issue of inductive and capacitive reactances. Or maybe you don't know that impedance equals resistance plus reactance. The fact is that lightning covers a wide spectrum of frequencies, so there is no way to 'tune' your ground for lightning, and therefore no way to establish a low impedance beyond keeping the resistance as low as possible.

Yes it can. First, you need to understand the basic fundamentals -- Ohm's law. A bolt of lightning will carry X amps along the full length of its path. So if that path experiences a point of high resistance, the result is high voltage. The point of high resistance might be an air-gap device or it might be a fused ground wire, both of which will put hundreds of thousands, or even millions, of volts on the line. But for the sake of argument, let's assume that the air-gap is sparking and the wire isn't melting. Ok, did you pay attention to the ground rod example? Apparently not. Let's try this again:

10,000 amps x 1 ohm = 10,000 volts

Now I'm sure that you are going to whine about 'impedance', but the fact remains that no matter how much reactance the ground system may add, it still -adds- to the resistance, which is 1 ohm (for an exceptional ground, I might add). That means if there is -any- reactance, or a less than exceptional ground, the voltage will be HIGHER!!! And I suppose I have to show you the equation again for a -typical- household ground of 50 ohms:

10,000 amps x 50 ohms = 500,000 volts

Now let's plug in your stroke duration numbers from above:

500,000 volts x 10,000 amps = 5,000,000,000 watts
5,000,000,000 watts x .000008 sec = 40,000 joules
40,000 joules x 5 strokes (average per strike) = 200,000 joules

Are you STILL going to say that lightning doesn't pack a whollop? And why are you totally ignoring the fact that it doesn't matter how much energy lightning may carry, but how much energy lands in the wrong place, which is the REAL issue here?

It's not a matter of speculation. High power doesn't necessarily mean catastrophic damage, especially where nature and the laws of evolution are concerned. Live wood conducts lightning very well, probably due to the fact that lightning happens all the time and trees have had jillions of years to adapt. It has nothing to do with energy, but survival. If every tree was killed by a direct strike, there wouldn't be very many trees left on this earth.

> Using your reasoning for why earth cannot conduct the Whoa, hold on there! I never said ANYTHING of the sort -- in fact I said quite the opposite! A 1 ohm ground rod is damn good, if not impossible! Don't you have ANY practical experience with grounding, either?

More and more you are demonstrating that you know very little of the subject. While I may not know exact figures as to lightning voltage, current, stroke duration, etc, etc, it's because the differences are insignificant. I just did a little research on my own and found that lightning has anywhere from 1 to 25 strokes per strike, each stroke lasting anywhere from 10 usec to 500 msec, can carry current from 10 to 500,000 amps, blah, blah, blah. The point is that lightning is wonderfully erratic, which I already knew. And here's some more facts: Lightning doesn't always travel straight down (jeez, one would think that you have never seen a thunderstorm before!). Ask any pilot, commercial or private, and they will tell you that lightning can travel many, many miles. There is one case I remember where a stroke came out of the clouds, ran parallel to the earth, over some hills, and seemingly came out of a clear blue sky 20 miles away to strike some little kid riding a bicycle. That's a fact. Lightning isn't very predictable, and certainly doesn't behave according to the rules of the NEC. The sooner you figure that out the better.

Where did I make such an assumption? I distinctly remember posting the following:

"The power of a bolt of lightning isn't the big issue here since it doesn't take much power to cause damage. The issue is how well you are protected from whatever amount of power that -does- make it to the surface."

So do you have a reading problem (dare I say 'communication deficit')?

You are twisting my words again. I said buried coax provided -better- protection than most other methods. If you don't believe me, go visit a few radio stations.
And if you want me to comment on your reference, post the link.

Really? Where did I say that? Regardless, I said before that if you want to talk about reactance, we can go there. Do you need me to start?

What is a problem central office building?
The telephone companys lose hundreds of "channel unit" boards to lightning damage every year. Most if not all boards lost are in the remote sites, not the central office. The boards that are lost aren't due to human faillure, they are due to the fact you cannot predict lightning, and cannot totally protect against it.

Cell sites have a copper ring of protection around the site. I have been in cell sites that were so totally shielded that my cell phone wouldn't work in them. Everything entering or leaving the site is totally protected. Quite impratical for the normal home owner.

You might want to read up on the damage that has occured when the grounds for a tower were encased in the conctrete base that was the tower mount. They are cases were the lightning "blew" the concrete base up.

I don't know which original poster you are talking about. My tower is properly earthed, a direct strike didn't damage my towers or antennas.
The induced voltage that got into my network cables is what caused most of my damage. The telephone companies have much the same problem, most of the lightning damage isn't from direct strikes, its from their wireline pick up of induced voltage of a close strike.

I think you need to quit reading up on it so much, and spend more time looking at whats practical and proven to work for the CB or ham radio operator.

Here is a good place to start:

Learn why 'problem' Central Offices had surge damage - the problem COs directly traceable to bad earthing in that building due to human failure. But then too many experts don't even know the early 1960s history of ESS-1. How many switching computers did your phone company replace in your town this year - the entire computer damaged by lightning. None. Damage not acceptable in any town, anywhere, any year ... because electronics damage from lightning is that routinely avoided. Lightning damage is routinely traceable to human failure - the technology being that old and that well proven.

Cell phone sites do have halo ground. Why? Even the world record lightning strike must never damage an cell phone location. And so they install more than just a copper earth rod. In the meantime that halo ground is not why your cell phone does not work underneath the tower.

Properly installed Ufer ground never damage concrete. Human fails - and then blames lightning for the concrete failure? Human is reason for failure.

Damage from direct lightning strikes - especially strikes that might damage concrete - are always directly traceable to human failure. Protection from the direct strike is that routine and that easy.

Rather than lecture on reading tower talk, instead read about effective lightning protection in tower talk - and why damage from lightning is directly traceable to human failure. You are quoting the wrong source if you think tower talk says lightning damage is unavoidable:

Get over yourself, Do you know what a central office is, what a remote is? The switching computers as you call them, never directly see the wireline. Nearly 100% of the damage that the phone companies see is to the channel units in their remotes. They sacrifice the remote channel units to protect the rest of the equipment. That damage cannot be prevented, its expected and accepted.

Read again, current causes heat, heat expands the moisture in the concrete.

No, your trying to tell every one that if I earth everything that all damage is avoidable. Its not that simple, proper earthing is very important. Disconnecting antennas, and unplugging Power connections helps complete the protection.

No one is telling you that earthing is not important, but it is not the total solution.

I have a 500' beverage that I use for the broadcast band. It is earthed a much as a long wire can be. When storms start approaching, its not uncommon for me to see 1/8 arcs across the tuning capacitor. I have news for you, that is more than enough to damage the input to my radio. So I go outside, disconnect my feeds and ground them.

Ok, short of enclosing my wooden structure house in copper, how do I keep induced voltage out? How would earthing have protected my cat5 runs? They are totally inside my house, never enter or exit it.

Quit trying to pound earthing totally protects you down my throat. There is more to protection then that.

A few months ago, while driving through the SNIPER'S DOMAIN AREA on the South side of Columbus, Ohio, I SAID on the CB: "I wonder if the sniper is SMART ENOUGH to NOT shoot @ anyone with a CB antenna !

I heard that even BIG TRUCKS got shot at too! When Debby went through there a couple of months ago, I told her that IF she gets shot at, get on the CB FIRST, and THEN the cell phone. It would get more people to help catch the MURDERER first IF people on the CB were notified first!

Within the last week I went through there again. A car ahead of me was shining his bright lights (it was dark) on the overpasses he went under. I started doing the same thing too. I set my cell phone on 911 ahead of time, so I just hit one button to call !

Sniper will get caught soon. He is too brazen now, doing it in the daylight. He went south on 71 to the 71 mile marker overpass. He hit a guy's car on the way to Church a few weeks ago. The Lord protected him and me in this Deut. 28 land!

I bin gone for almost a month, and I look on my CB newsGroup, and what do I see? More hate & discontent than is on my CB RADIO ! IS this possible ? !

Looks like the ones with the brains are laying back, while the morons ramble on. I heard on the news a month ago or so, that IF SPAM continues at it's rate then, then e mail will be totally USELESS in 5 years. It is USELESS already. This NG is getting more useless DAILY, compared to the GOOD OLD DAYZ in '97 when I first came on it.

I guess that we can improve it by putting MORE technical articles on it about CB's about what us GOOD CB shops see out here. Modulation kit installers need not post! You BUTCHER CHOP SHOPS are STILL the WORST places to got to IN DA LAND, 4-10 ! AIN'T NO DOUBT !

When I hear YOU BUTCHERS advertise on the CB, this IS what you should really say instead: "The CB BUTCHER CHOP SHOP is NOW OPEN. As usual, the CB Butcher CHOP SHOP is always ready to RIP YOU DRIVERS OFF with all of our corporate thievery training to get deep into yo wallet! And you will be the WORSE OFF for comming to the butcher CHOP SHOP. As usual there is never a charge to check your radio. This is how we get you in da door to RIP YOU OFF some mow! A person who so poorly protected his own home as to suffer completely unnecessary computer and TV damage will now teach me? One who even posted the classic urban myth about concrete damage to prove Ufer grounding does not work? You just realized something: someone on the other side does have a few decades of experience and engineering degrees. If you had one, then the concept of resistance and impedance would have been correctly posted. However someone even did read 'tower talk' - and posted citations from 'tower talk' in direct contradiction to your posted myths. Well at least you are not posting personal attacks this time. The world can get better.

In the meantime this is a discussion about the OPs antenna mast; not a forum for personal attacks. The OP must earth his antenna mast both for lightning protection AND as required by the National Electrical Code. That answers his question.

If Ufer grounds were so destructive, then why does "your" tower talk even recommend them? You could not even cite appropriate posts in 'tower talk'. Funny. I provided citations from 'tower talk' that says you posted technical inaccurate information.

First you deny that earthing is essential for protection. Then you openly admit lightning caused "lost 2 TV sets, 1 computer, my router and wireless access point". Classic damage when all incoming lines are not properly earthed. You have a serious earthing problem in your own home. Instead you cite your own improperly earthed home as proof that earthing is not essential to lightning protection; that no protection is possible. That TV and computer damage is classic when incoming wires - antenna and utility - are not properly earthed.

Yes there is more to protection that just earthing. Some incoming utilities require more than just earthing. However without earthing, then no protection exists. Earthing is required at the OPs antenna mast AND on wire as it enters building - the ground block. Earthing is THE first item - the most essential - installed for lightning protection. 'System' installed using concepts in "The Need for Coordinated Protection":
http://www.erico.com/public/library/fep/technotes/tncr002.pdf

No earth ground means no effective lightning (or static) protection. Earthing also required by the National Electrical Code - for human safety reasons. The answer to zeeeeeeee3's original questions: earthing is required at both that antenna mast AND at the common service entrance so that all incoming wires first connect to the single point earth ground. Driving the mast into earth is not a sufficient earth ground.

Lancer demonstrates what happens when a poorly earthed home suffers a lightning strike - unnecessary damage to computer and TV. He even denies the effectiveness or need for earthing. That's fine. What is not fine is when Lancer outrightly lies to others about benefits of single point earth ground.

For the OP's original question: system demonstrated here applies:

http://www.erico.com/public/library/fep/technotes/tncr002.pdf

Additional products that can utilize advantage of the essential earthing system are offered at Erico, from Polyphaser, and even in Home Depot. 'Whole house' protector is also required on other incoming wires. But the bottom line remains - lightning (and static) protection is only as effective as its earth ground.

Earthing is not a total solution. However it is the answer to OP's original question. No earthing means no protection exists and a violation of NEC. Earthing is that essential.

In the meantime, even 'tower talk' demonstrates why single point earth ground (service entrance earth ground) and why Ufer grounds are so effective. A preferred earthing solution where people first learn facts before posting denials - and more information for the OP's original question.

I asked you how I could have prevented my Cat5 from picking up induced voltage, but you somehow avoided that question again. My antenna and utillities are properly earthed. How do you earth a Cat5 cable? Do you know what one is?

You put words in Franks mouth, now you are attempting do that with me.
I never denied the effectiveness of earthing, I stated and will state it again, sometimes that isn't enough.

Thought you said Static is irrelevant. A few hundred volts of static will not damage any properly built radio. You could even static shock your car radio antenna or a portable radio antenna without damage. That would be as much as 18,000 volts - and still no damage.

No one has said any different. Glad that you admit earthing is not the total solution, something I have maintained all along.

Great, why don't you do that, and get over the idea that earthing is not the total and complete solution.

Your answer is use proper grounds, but don't disconnect any equipment.
Now which one makes more sense? Which one would better protect his equipment? Which one offers more protection?

Hey Lancer, don't make it too simple. It's all about "impedance", don'cha know?

Couldn't I get a correct impedance match with a 1/4 wave of bus bar?
Now what did he say the frequency of lightning was?

I don't think he did, but if you post an arbitrary value I'm sure he will provide you with the correct information. I -do- know that lightning is monitored by listening to the Schumann (sp?) resonance, which is a constantly changing frequency down around 8 Hz. So let's see, we would need a ground strap that is resonant over a frequency range of, say, around 1 to 20 Hz..... so how much money are you willing to spend on this little project? Because the only way I see of doing this is with a megawatt negative impedance converter!

You guys are all over this topic and it's really blowing my hair back.

Can you guy's condense it to your opinion of the best/cheapest way to ground lets say..an omni on a roof-top or tower? Best being a relative term.

I'm sure the advice will save at least one person from getting blasted, and make people aware that you can't just put a hunk of metal in the air without considering lightning.

Thx.

either way its good to see the japanese waited another year before putting their cars ito the mix... i can see it in 20 years, celicas are the dominant platforms over the mazdas...

Never happen in our lifetime. Chevy, Ford, and Benz/Chrysler will have something to say about it. For now.

It's not PC to call them japs now? ;)

toyota is in the truck series.
its only a matter of time... hell there was a japanese driver last year on the circuit even though he was crap... naw its not pc to call anyone anything except of course the anti's hehehe

Ok......

First, sink a ground rod at the point where the coax will enter the house. If you have a basement next to the ground rod, sink a couple more rods so they are separated by ten feet or more and in the path of the coax. Some people like to prep the ground by soaking with saltwater, but in my experience that makes the rod corrode before its time, then the salt leeches away into the ground water, leaving a very poor ground in a very short time. I use galvanized pipe as opposed to copper rods because they have a larger diameter (more rod-to-ground contact = lower resistance), and they last longer. You can also thread the pipe for a super-neat installation of a waterproof box......

Next is the coax installation. Run the coax down the mast or side of the house to the ground rod. Don't run the coax near any wiring inside the house. You can detect house wiring with a cheap metal detector. Avoid sharp turns as much as possible. At the ground rod it helps to have a waterproof box because you need to cut the coax, ground the shield, and shunt the center conductor to ground with a choke (as per the diagram I made yesterday).

About the choke: This serves two purposes. First, it shunts static electricity from the antenna to ground. Second, it provides a path for lightning if it should strike. Since the lightning will arc across every loop in the choke, the inductance value isn't critical just as long as it is high enough to block your RF (about 1 mH or larger for HF and above), and the wire size is large enough to handle some current (#14 or larger should be fine). One of those heavy-duty hash chokes for ignition noise is ok, or you can wind your own -- use a large iron bolt for a core and wind about 50 turns of #10 or #12 house wire. If you aren't running much power, you can slit the insulation along the length of the coil so it will arc at a lower voltage.

Then run the coax up into the house along side the grounding strap. Tie them together with cable-ties if you want. Again, it's important that you run these so they don't come close to any house wiring, and they should enter at a location that is clear of easily combustible stuff. Terminate the ground strap with a really big alligator clip, jumper cable clamp, or whatever you have that makes a really good connection and can be easily disconnected. The ground clamp from an arc welder is almost ideal.

Above the point where the coax and grounding strap enter the house, make a hook or post where you can hang both when not being used. Remember that if lightning hits, it's very possible that these will jump straight out from the wall and dance around like a water hose, so make sure they are held securely in place.

Inside the house, make yourself a grounding bus bar of copper or aluminum. Put this on the back of your bench and use it to ground all your equipment. To this you clamp on your grounding strap. When not using your bench, unhook the grounding strap along with the coax and stow it away. Also, to protect the coax, use an appropriate socket and short it out before you stow it.

When should you unhook your antenna? There is a thing called the 30-30 rule: If you hear thunder less than 30 seconds after you see the lightning, unplug. Don't plug in again until 30 minutes after the last thunder. That's pretty safe. You can even improve on that by building a lightning detector, many of which will indicate lightning even before you can hear the thunder.

How's that?

Oh, I almost forgot..... coax length!!!!! The low impedance of the ground will be reflected at the radio when the length of the coax & ground strap, from the ground rod to the radio, are 1/2 wavelength. This means 1/2 wavelength -without- consideration of velocity factor because we want a low impedance -ground-. And this means -- you guessed it -- 18 feet of coax!

Very informative Frank, make sure we can reference that. ;)

Dunno if average joe will completely comply, but he can't say you didn't worn him! We pushed poles in the ground with the bobcat and post hole digger, mostly for lightning. Out here where I live, by the time the fire dept gets here with the tanker (no hydrants)you're toast.

Ground is good. (like you said)

While this pains me, Frank's right. You can go on with your babble, but there's no reasonably priced grounding system that will protect you as good as unplugging everything from the wall and antenna.

Here's a little trick if you use a pipe for a ground rod: Thread both ends of the pipe. On the top put a fitting that will accept a garden hose. On the bottom put a reduction fitting (to be used as a nozzle). Hold the pipe vertical, turn on the water full blast, then let the water drill the hole. When you are done just unscrew the top fitting, and PRESTO!!! A great ground rod without a lot of fuss.

BTW, this doesn't work very well in areas where there are a lot of large rocks in the ground.....

That's a slick idea, we're sandy loam and clay around here. Next time I sink a ground rod I'll remember the water.

Galaxy 55 I bought this radio about 2 yrs ago. I still have the orginal box, mounting brackets, power cord, original stock hand mic, and plus i'm throwing in an handheld echo mic with it. Has variable pwr from .5 to 8 watts, swings to 35 watts, has LOUD modulation. Radio works and looks brand spankin new. Box is even still in nice shape. $145 plus shipping Email if interested thatzmejp@aol.com

But you seem to wish to argue that registration is required.
Maybe you should have read this part:

<quote ref="http://www.copyright.gov/circs/circ1.html#hsc">
The way in which copyright protection is secured is frequently misunderstood. No publication or registration or other action in the Copyright Office is required to secure copyright.

But surely you must know that - it was in the section that you mentioned to Mark:

protection. Even though registration is not a requirement

If, as you suggest, you have already done this, then quote the reference to a section which allows public display and modification of copyright material.
I named the sections, and gave the wording. If you are unwilling to do the same, then you are just spouting off and hiding in a mountain of rules, pages and links.

Doesn't make any difference, copyright exists without any declaration, registration, or other act.
That is made clear on the site you named...
http://www.copyright.gov/circs/circ1.html

<quote>
Copyright is secured automatically when the work is created </quote>

And, although sparky happily refers to the text:
"Before an infringement suit may be filed in court, registration is necessary for works of U. S. origin."

He seems to be avoiding this, in the same section:
<quote>
However, registration is not a condition of copyright protection. Even though registration is not a requirement for protection, the copyright law provides several inducements or advantages to encourage copyright owners to make registration.

Registration is NOT a condition of copyright.

Very nice Frank, The only thing I have different on my setup, is a ground window where my coax and rotor cables enter the house. That is a metal plate, a scrap aluminum plate I found at work (12" x 12").
Its mounted over the entrance to the crawl space of my house
(no basements down here) I mounted coax and rotor feed throughs to it.
When are storm is approaching I disconnect my cables outside so that none of cables enter the house.

You can cut-&-paste the US Code as much as you want, but the original still exists at the link I provided. I guess I have to spell it out for you.....

"Sec. 412. - Registration as prerequisite to certain remedies for infringement", means that if your copyright isn't registered, you don't have any rights beyond those listed in Sec. 106A(a). That section is very specific, and those rights are limited to "Rights of Attribution and Integrity":

".....

Subject to section 107 and independent of the exclusive rights provided in section 106, the author of a work of visual art -

(1) shall have the right -

(A) to claim authorship of that work, and

(B) to prevent the use of his or her name as the author of any work of visual art which he or she did not create;

(2) shall have the right to prevent the use of his or her name as the author of the work of visual art in the event of a distortion, mutilation, or other modification of the work which would be prejudicial to his or her honor or reputation; and

(3) subject to the limitations set forth in section 113(d), shall have the right -

(A) to prevent any intentional distortion, mutilation, or other modification of that work which would be prejudicial to his or her honor or reputation, and any intentional distortion, mutilation, or modification of that work is a violation of that right, and

(B) to prevent any destruction of a work of recognized stature, and any intentional or grossly negligent destruction of that work is a violation of that right.

That's it. NOW, Peter, which of those rights have been violated?

The Euro "Memo Box" plays your recorded message of up to 20 seconds.
Anyone have it?

Is it a voice keyer? That is, will it close PTT and send your message on a schedule -- like a beacon? For example, will it, say, every 45 seconds: key the radio, send your 15 second recorded message, unkey the radio?

Does anyone know where the Euro website is?

As far as ham, I've used it on 75 meters, but most of the ham rigs I have are just VHF/UHF which comes with it's own mic and keypad on it so it makes to sense to use it. On AM though, this baby is king.
I'd say this mic is the improved version of the D-104 (even though that mic has be around before I was born, lol) just because it's a nice looking microphone and the D-104 is just plain ugly. Not to mention you have external tone and volume.
A word of caution, transmitting when the radio is off (for instance you left it on you car seat in a funny position where it holds the mic key) drains the battery in a night. And if you ratchet jaw like I do on 11m, be sure you have an extra 9V in the glove box, you just might need it after a while. Great audio on 75 meters too!

And keep extra batteries in your glove compartment? Far out! I knew someone that had a Shure desk mic (the Turner-looking mic) fixed to the dashboard of his European car.

Here's a little trick if you use a pipe for a ground rod: Thread both ends of the pipe. On the top put a fitting that will accept a garden hose. On the bottom put a reduction fitting (to be used as a nozzle).
Hold the pipe vertical, turn on the water full blast, then let the water drill the hole. When you are done just unscrew the top fitting, and PRESTO!!! A great ground rod without a lot of fuss.
BTW, this doesn't work very well in areas where there are a lot of large rocks in the ground.....

The hose in the pipe method works very well. It is standard procedure down here to do what you suggested when installing pvc sprinkler systems that must pass under walkways, driveways, etc.
You mentioned saltwater...folks have been known to pour bagged salt around their tower, as well, although down here you really don't need it, as the water table is easily accessible at 3 to 5 feet. It's 18 feet? Are you sure? I thought 18 feet was only a convenient length for mobile antennas and could never have any electrical significance.

What they need to do is treat it as terrorism. Shot fired - as the gunman calmly walks to his vehicle, alarms go off. 30 seconds later, fighters are in the air. I can hear the conversation now - "pilot to squad leader. You said 'track him?'. Sorry, sir. I thought you said splash him". One laser guided missile up his tailpipe. Pure accident, of course. It might take a couple of tries to catch him clear of traffic, but just one ... and let's see who wants to be the next sniper. LOL. Then again, maybe one of those gunboat military choppers. Something that can fire several hundred times faster than he can.

Here is a post to misc.transport.trucking the resident weirdo Chuck Adkins made...When you look at all of these posts you will see what a lying hypocritical mentally deranged idiot he is.
Also, don't neglect a visit to his personal website, loaded with cool info about Chukkee...here's the link!

http://www.geocities.com/wimpasschukkee/gayboy_ChukkeeSukkee.html

And here is the first post...read with interest...hehhehehehehehe

Hi guys,

I am looking for some work, badly.... I've got bills up the butt and I need some work...

here's my story...

I have a CLASS A CDL with Hazmat and Doubles.

I graduated from W.C.C.C.D. in Belleville, Michigan in March of 2003

I thought I'd be smart and get a local job.

Well, needless to say, I had a accident. No one was hurt. but I did get a ticket. Only damage was to a city street light. turning out of parking lots onto narrow streets with tandems not all the way up, can downright stink! :-) Drive way was a WHOLE lot narrower than I thought... Oooops!

Anyhow, I'm studying to be a Ordained Minister. (or Pastor, if you prefer...I'm a Pentecostal... if you like Titles like that... I prefer just a member of the Body of Christ, Myself...) and I really cannot go OTR... I am wondering, are the ANY small companies or maybe bigger companies that read this newsgroup and would be willing to work with someone with 1 accident and 4 points on my license?? (2 were from accident, other 2 were from a speeding ticket in my personal car...) Anyhow, I have NO DUI's, and never been a in jail... I am a very dependable person, I'm looking for a local dirt or gravel or something along those lines, kind of a job, if you wanted to put me in a tri-axle pup truck, I wouldn't hold it against you... :-) I just need some work...

If you can help...

Drop me a line at k8cpa@NOSPAMcomcast.net <--- remove NOSPAM from address for it go though...

Thanks a Bunch and God Bless you..

Pastor Chuck Adkins

and as far as you go TROLL FREE, I've forgotten more about radio, than you'll ever know, and you'd better watch what you say, or I'll have SPEED BUGGY come clean your clock, like he did last time! and yes, I do know about that.

Don't you flippin dorks know I could make a telephone call and drop the dime on you cheeseheads and you'd all be outta business?

Watch what you say, because, I know people. and I could make ALL of your life's, very misarable.

have a nice day...

Hi Modsquad and All,

I remember a few years back here in The Motor City here, there was a dude, the supposedly bought a "box" from a local dude here that was building them, he would go around and start running said guy in the ground, giving out his real name, address, ect.... trying to say he sold him a bad unit ect.... anyways, one fine day, he got tired of it, the guy got a friendly visit from the local chapter of the IRON COFFINS at his house, beat him and his 21 year old punk ass kid to bloody pulp, had thier way with his woman, and as they were leaving, they said, "this is for running your mouth!"

My point?

Sometimes it's best not to be the loose cannon, cause you never know who knows who, and who's friends with whom....

Detroit area, Big FUCKING deal! you know how many HAM'S and or CB'ers
in Detroit and surrounding area there area? Thousands! Someone was having the time of thier lives at YOUR expense dougie, and you friggin fell for it, hook line and fucking sinker! ....and of course, I was blamed for the whole thing. like I figured I would be. In fact, I Think I may know who it was.... not 100% for sure, but do YOU honestly think I am going to tell your dumb ass who I think it might be, HELL NO! for one, becuase I quite honestly could be wrong and for two, I personally think your an moronic, pencel-necked , no-code, CB dumb ass, wanna be Ham!

and
I'm glad the guy PISSED YOU OFF!

>When a man calls your chump self on it you have to run.

Shit boy, from what I hear, I could kick your fucking ass with ONE hand tied behind my back! and remember, I have friends too and what I cannot handle, they could and would be more than happy too help out... ever heard of the Iron Coffins Dougie????????? They make the fucking Hell's angels look like fucking boy scouts!

hahahahahahahahahahaha.....TOO FUNNY!

You are so DUMB!

You forget, Dougie, I know where 504 Euclid Ave is in Toledo. I might just come right to your fucking house tonight bitch and drag you out in the fucking street and kick your ass... wanna try me???

Go for it!

Well, the fact is, I have YOUR IP address and I traced it to your

Well, FATBOY, that shows how STUPID you are, When someone enters a password into a website, it usually echo's back dots... (you know... like *) and I don't have that great of a memory...

And futher more... I would NO interest in HACKING your LAME ASS web site, anyhow, Remember YOU posted an AD for in this NEWSGROUP, and ANYONE that reads this Newsgroup could have seen the ad, and went there and hacked it, Just because I came to your HOLE IN THE WALL shop and set you up with a newsgroup reader that makes ME a suspect?? You need HELP, MORON! And besides that, You get out in this newsgroup acting like your the shit, Motherfucker, Let ME be the first to tell you, YOU AIN'T SHIT!!!! And if you think COONDOG was a problem wait'll you tangle with me, ASSHOLE, I'm a card carrying MEMBER of the Latin COUNTS, I'm friends with the CASH FLOW POSSE, and I also have friends in the IRON COFFINS, So, now do you really wanna fuck with me??? Think about it.

And Besides that, Scotty's Tech Does ALL your fucking WORK ANYHOW!

Chceck this out, this Idiot got ahold of one of these NEW TEXAS STAR Amps, and the fucking moron tried to convert it! HE BLEW IT UP!! and SCOTTYS Tech HAD TO FIX IT! BLAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHA!

And this guy tries to tell everyone he cn fix radios????

Yeah, Right!

If in sandy loom, then a single ground rod may not be sufficient. Neighborhood history will apply. Previous lightning damage in the last ten years? If so, then the single point ground may be expanded with more rods; spaced as Frank suggests and to comply with NEC. Other alternatives include looping the house with a buried bare copper wire. But again, this is typically only required for high 'strike frequency' locations - more a function of neighborhood geology.

A problem with the water idea is a loose ground rod. A ground rod must be firm in ground when installed. A loose ground rod is not earthed. Ground rod is further compromised if using threaded joints. Ground rod should be monolithic until well below frost line.

If antenna is not located near to service entrance and single point ground, then antenna may require its own earth ground. This in addition to the coax ground. IOW either the antenna is part of your structure and earthed at the service entrance ground; or antenna is earthed as if a lightning rod. If the antenna connection to earth ground is significantly shorter than connection to service entrance, then antenna must also have its own earth ground rod located as directly under the antenna as possible. This so that lightning takes a short path to earth; does not seek alternative paths via other items such as chimney or interior wire.

If installing for commercial broadcaster reliability, then the inductor from center core is additional protection. But most industry professionals say the center conductor will leak sufficiently to the outer shield making no center conductor connection necessary. IOW that ground block sold in Home Depot or Radio Shack (to earth only outer shield to single point earth ground) is more than sufficient protection for most residences. Again, neighborhood history will apply. Inductor adds only minor improvement; a function of local history and other considerations.

Disconnecting to protect equipment is unreliable because humans are not reliable. Humans are only available only 1 in three hours - and that assumes humans are home often. Protection must be installed virtually 24 hours every day and must be fully sufficient even when using the equipment.

Disconnecting is just convenient extra protection made unnecessary by properly earthing.

Again, you have soil that typically makes poor earth grounds. This will be especially a problem if more conductive earth lies beneath - such as limestone. Ground rod would need be deeper to make contact with that limestone. If geology changes beneath building, then that too can create earthing problems. Point being the best earth ground must be the single point earth ground.

If using multiple rods, then those rods need be connected by buried bare copper wire. Some do this by digging a hole, then driving ground rod into bottom of that hole. A four or six inch plastic pipe lines the hole. Buried bare copper wire clamps to earth ground rod AND can be inspected through that covered plastic pipe. Integrity of that wire to rod clamp is important.

Forget about salting the earth. Some have lined 'buried copper wire' trench with better material such as trailings from a steel mill. This tends to improve the transition from buried copper wire to earth while not destroying the copper.
Tailings are a superior idea to salt since salt will leach away before the year is gone. But most don't bother. They simply bury the wire.

Notice the concept. The most critical and essential feature of any protection 'system' is defined by that single point earth ground. The quality of that earth ground and how connections are made to that central earth ground determines system effectiveness. Single point grounding is the most critical component in a protection system.

Sandy loam is better than average not just for grounding, but also for ground-wave propogation and gardening. Regardless, it's the subsoil that really matters. Unless you live in the desert, one good rod is enough to provide a direction for the lightning to travel, which is the basic purpose. Any ground, even one in poor soil, can be improved by running radials from the rod, which is far better at dissipating a lightning strike than using multiple ground rods. The only exception to this is, as I stated before, when the main ground rod is located next to a basement. In that case, tie the ground rods together, but maintain a central grounding point at the main ground rod ('star' grounding). And avoid loops!

> A problem with the water idea is a loose ground rod.

Again you are talking about things about which you know nothing. Most of the dirt that is displaced by the rod doesn't make it to the surface, although you do get wet while going down those first couple feet. The resulting mud settles down into the gap and hardens like concrete. Once you turn off the water and let it set for an hour or so, you couldn't pull the blasting thing out with a backhoe. And there is only about a foot or two near the surface that needs to be filled which is easily done by rinsing the muddy splatter back into the hole.

>ground rod must be firm in ground when installed. A loose

If the threads were exposed it would probably -improve- the efficiency of the ground by increasing the surface area. But since they aren't, the point is moot.

> Ground rod should be monolithic >until well below frost line.

Pipes burst when water is trapped as it freezes. Both the top and bottom of the pipe are open, therefore no bursting. And since the bottom is open, there should be no standing water to freeze -- unless you put it there just to make your life more complicated.

First off, if the line from the antenna to the grounding rod is shorter than the line from the grounding rod to the shack, it might be time to do a little research on alternative antenna systems. Second, and it seems you missed this point the first three times, electricity (lightning included) will take ANY AND ALL paths to ground that are available. It will easily jump from an antenna to a chimney, interior wire, plumbing vent, phone line, or anything else it finds to be a convenient path to earth AS WELL AS the antenna! Anytime the voltage in the path => the spark-gap potential it WILL arc, and to whatever it arcs WILL become a parallel current path. If you think that all the current will go to the closest ground rod and ignore any electrically connected ground path further away, or any other potential ground path connected or not, then you have ABSOLUTELY NO CLUE what you are talking about regarding electricity.

Well, I'm going to stop here because this is worse than beating a dead horse. You clearly don't know what you are talking about, and you are very bad at making stuff up to try and hide your ignorance. I don't know what your motivation is to spew your BS but there is no excuse for it. Even if you are a vampire and the public library is only open during daylight hours, or you are permanently confined to your bubble, or too fat to get out your front door, you can still have a friend get some educational materials for you. Or have you pissed off all your friends by feeding them the same BS that you are trying to pass off in here? Don't bother answering, because I really don't care and it would probably be more BS anyway.

Just a word of advice: Most of the people in this newsgroup aren't as technically gullible as you might think (at least not any more). If you want to show people how intelligent you -really- are, quit with the BS and learn a little more about the subject.

Lot's of theory but no practical value. The use of a star ground ("Single Point Ground") system for lightning protection of the whole building + tower requires the use of an isolated or 'floating' power supply; i.e, an isolated generator or dedicated pole-pig. Marconi discovered this a century ago. And for the record, all high-tech gizmos designed to compensate for the inductive reactance of power and transmission lines during a lightning strike have failed miserably because lightning has no fixed frequency. You can verify this with your local power company or public library.

Oh, I've a few things I could put on the Net - if only I had the time.
I have not had time to update sites I have:
http://www.citizensband.radiouk.com/http://www.electronics.radiouk.com/or the copy on the domain:
http://www.citizensband.co.uk/

And I am trying to get something together for the other domain:
http://www.citizensband.com/

I just don't got the time for anything else right now.
I just got a better PC, so I have to put everything on that one now.

I could do with some help with something, if you are game. I lost your e-mail addy when the system crashed, although it may be in an archived mail in my backup disks.

Regards.

Peter.

As it was, the site probably got just a few hits from people in this newsgroup who already know about what goes on in this group and had already made up their mind what they believe.
The site had probably past it's peak and, with little new content, would have been in the "decline" stage. So, your buddy posts it in other groups so a whole new bunch of visitors, who were blissfully unaware of what happens here, can take a look.

Having taken a look, they may then pass the URL on to friends, relatives and other newsgroups.

If the site gets plenty of visitors, and gains "cult" status, you only have him to blame.
Strangely, he does NOT appear to be mentioned on the site, although many of those you call "keyclowns" are... AND he is promoting it in other newsgroups.

Another commy "holliday" has come and gone. Dead "presidents" day is a commie version of what IT USE TO BE, George Washington's birthday.
When the commies come to power, they always get rid of fameous Patriot Hollidays and replace them with their heros instead (useless dead presidents) rather then remembering George ! I guess that THEY HATE George Washington, the Father of the nation!

We love George; 'cause he was DA MAN !

As far as what will be running in November: it's Tweedle DEE & Tweedle DUM, and we ain't votin' for either one! We is voting for some REAL Americans instead, such as Judge Roy Moore for President !

To Whom it may concern... The person posting this, Douglas Adair, of Toledo, Ohio. has been doing this to me for over 2 years. All of this is being forwarded to my lawyer, Levon King, who is also the Mayor of Allen Park, Michigan. Levon is going to contact the local Mayor of Toledo, ohio and see if a complaint can be filed against Mr. adair for his actions. Mr. Adair, I would seriously advise you, if you don't want to end up in a court of law for harrashment charges, and a lawsuit for slander, I would advise you to cease and desist.
otherwise, I will get a court order against you.

I do have a lawyer. and I will use him, if need be.

It's worth whatever someone is willing to pay for it. Try searching the completed auctions on ebay.

Frank cannot be bothered to learn why things work. He did not even know about insufficient conductivity in frozen earth! That is basic stuff that first requires learning a little theory - or have some experience. Polyphaser's highly regarded application notes have complete practical value to people who actually do this stuff. But Frank did not say it first - therefore it must be wrong.

In the meantime, ignore that nonsense he posts about star grounds. What he posts is not accurate, not relevant, and is the biggest load of technical crappola I have ever seen.
Frank's brain must be leaking again.

Isolated or floating power supply? Everyone should be laughing at that nonsense! When did one need a power supply to get effective earthing? In the tradition of 'Frank type' posting - he babbles too much BS to no logical conclusion.
Must have forgotten to take his medication.

Wow. Its really is easy to post insults, just like Frank.
He taught he how must fun it is to be superior to everyone else. Now if I could just forget to post accurate facts and not post relevant citations! Then I too could be just like Frank.

In the meantime, ignore the Frank nonsense. Learn from industry benchmarks such as Polyphaser.

Frank does not even know a simple earthing concept. Frozen ground is not conductive. Earthing is installed below the frost line for obvious reasons. Had he known this simple fact and not spent so much times insulting others, then he would not have hyped so much venom about freezing water in pipes. Earthing below the frost line. What does that have to do with frozen pipes? This is about CB station grounding. So why is Frank suddenly talking about plumbing?

Why don't you spam the groups a few more times with your stupid ebay

Hi again.

I got a new Galaxy DX 2547 the other day, and am not sure if I have a problem or not.

When I listen to Ch. 38 LSB, the frequency counter displays about 27.3847 when i tune the clarifier to hear the other people's voices well.

However, when I transmit, the frequency counter jumps up to 27.3855.

So I assume I am transmitting at 27.3855, but when I tune to this frequency with the clarifier, everyone sounds way too high in pitch, I can't even understand them.

So......is everyone else hearing me way too high in pitch to understand me?

Thank you for any help.

It seems MANY more have looked at my "ebay crap" as you call it because of posting on some newsgroups. Seems more bid on "my crap" because of posting here and there.
And my thanks go out to them!! Also, it seems there are MANY more normal, descent people who just read these groups and never bitch about anything. Those people make these groups.
If you don't like my (or other peoples) postings, well, to bad, use a filter so you don't see it as I am filtering you out now.
You are a pimple on the ass of these newsgroups.

I have no "pal" in Michigan, so I don't know what you're talking about. You really need to keep better track of the objects of your obsession .

When I say that I'm hardly around, I mean that I have little to contribute to the group as it now stands. I do read posts on occasion just to see if there might be something that may be of interest. The point is that I do not post with the same frequency that I did in years past.

>What a card, you are Dave. Your pious act of expecting anyone to believe

What in any of those quotes do you find hypocritical? I have always maintained that certain activities are illegal. But if you are of the mindset that you do not wish to abide by those rules, at least go about it with a little common sense and keep a low profile. There's no sense calling attention to yourself by interfering with your neighbors or acting in a disrespectful manner, which would have the overall effect of painting a big red bullseye on your forehead. So unless you work for Target, that's not a good thing.

Your communication deficit is acting up again, Dave -- I didn't infer anything. In fact, I was -too- specific in that I used the word "gizmos", which limited the aforementioned objective to the use of physical objects. I should have said "devices".

Tut-tut,,you most certainly have a "pal" in Michigan.....you even claimed you were "intimately" familiar with N8WWM's behavior and repeater jamming activity so if it wasn't your Michigan bud who made you
"intimately" aware of the happenings that YOU felt important ebough to bring to this forum for discussion,,,,,then who?

>You really need to keep better track of the

One can understand how illustrating your hypocrisy would be misconstrued by yourself as an "obsession" by another. It's a natural reaction from a non-proactive individual.

>When I say that I'm hardly around, I mean that >I have little to contribute to the group as it now

You always have had the need to reclarify your positions, Dave,,,you're not very clear in your communication skills..see, saying you are "not hardly around' is nowhere near the same meaning as saying you have little to contribute.",,but you of course, already know that...otherwise the need wouldn't have existed for you to completely change what you said.

Yea? Only "anyone" else isn;t looking to you for validation like you are seeking..and I don't see "anyone else" coming to your defense who misinterprets "I'm not hardly around these days" to be a synonym for "I have little to contribute",,,LOL,,,,,,only those who live in their own world and see things in their own manner and are unable to see things as the majority can agree with that, Dave. The claims are so distant there is no relation at all,,,,except in your mind.

>and you're STILL obsessing with me.

That you consider references of your hypocrisy flattering, is exactly what one expects.

Your encouragement of others to break the law when you have cried like a menstruating teen and callously attacked others for the exact same behavior,,,merely giving information.

This smacks in the face of what you have claimed in the past, Dave,,you're two faced.

Agreed, too bad you don't practice what you preach..as that hasn't stopped you from acting in the most blatant disrespectful manner toward others for beahvior you took part in.

What you choose to do or don't do is no longer any consequence.

Because your PAST is very relevant, as you can not run from it, no matter what you do or say. Again, what you do or don't do, is no *longer' any consequence, in other words,,,your words and actions now are all for naught,,your past behavior tells the entire story, especially when you break your neck trying to change what you plainly said to mean something entirely diffferent,,(snicker).

> I suppose you don't subscribe to the wisdom

The fact that lightning has no fixed frequency is very relevant when the topic is about lighting protection 'devices' that are based, in part or in whole, on reactance compensation. The only person who wouldn't understand the relationship is someone, such as yourself, who is ignorant of the fact that reactance is frequency-dependent.

>> I should have said "devices".

>But you didn't. Apology accepted.

It wasn't an apology. It was a reference to a previous display of your communication deficit; i.e, your ignorance of the meaning of the word 'device'. You are just too dumb to know when you are being mocked, which is yet another example of your communication deficit.

My previous dwelling besides having a similar setup to what Frank described I also had my antenna and tower grounded. I put my tower out in the old garden bed (I moved my garden every few years so as to give nutrients a chance to rebuild), and before I put fill dirt and grass seed in I laid out a grid of #12 copper wire in a 18' radius from the tower legs, this as well as the tower and antenna were tied into a ground rod at the base of the tower. I had a weatherproof box outside where I could disconnect coax so it couldn't feed into house during t-storm.

I'll be setting similar situation up here at the new place, this time for my HF Vertical, my UHF/VHF antennas, and my multi-band Inverted V.

Nah, fried tomatoes are delicious, same with squash, onions, jalapeno peppers, and using lightning to fry them saves me the money I'd be

I created the site for www.citizensband.co.uk, and could put a separate site on www.citizensband.com . The domains are not mine, although the sites are on my Web space.
The other domains are linked to my Web space. The host offers an unbelievable deal - the URL with unlimited space and PHP / CGI hosting... and all for free (no ads or pop-ups).

Me too, I have a very effective filter system which manages to block all the "MS patch" crud even when they change the "sender" or subject.
Oh, yes... got it.

Did U attempt to ask them? A factory radio can still need a proper service alignment with the properly calibrated tools.

Did we learn a new word this week? Wouldn't it just be better to say "reactive" rather than "non-proactive"?

Anytime someone regularly pulls up the past quotes of others, which can span many years, goes beyond the bounds of "normal" an into the realm of obsessive compulsive behavior.

I can see why someone of your limited comprehensive ability would see it that way.

To anyone else, who has even the slightest tendency toward a normal obvious statement. But one again your words underscore just how irregular you are.

Where have I EVER "encouraged" people to break the law? You can't seem to differentiate the difference between "encouraging" lawless activity, and giving advice to "tread lightly".

Not at all to anyone with normal comprehensive skills. It's one thing to state that a certain activity is illegal It's totally another to acknowledge that the illegal activity exists, and how to be a good neighbor and not be rude, ignorant, and disrespectful while doing it.

There's such a thing as the letter of the law. There's another thing called the intent of the law. It is impractical to expect that everyone will always adhere to the letter of the law in all cases. But as long as you keep the intent of the law in mind, you will not be far off the path. I don't expect you to understand this though.

>>There's no sense calling attention to yourself

By calling something what it is? Hey, look, in the beginning, if people were not so quick to deny that what they were doing was in fact breaking federal laws, then there would be no need to keep reminding them (you). If you would 've instead taken the attitude that "yea, I know I break federal law, but I take steps to make sure that I'm not interfering with other people", it would 've been a different story.

When you flaunt your actions by selectively breaking laws, as some sort of God given "right" in everyone else's face, you essentially make a mockery of our society. Those of us who respect the rule and intent of law have a problem with that.

But why do you bring my name into a subject which has nothing to do with me?

And I'm not running from the past, yet you seem to be the only one who just doesn't get it. I've devoted a whole website to documenting the best times that I've had in radio. Many of those activities were somewhat illegal. Had I been busted then, then I would 've taken my lumps like a man, instead of living in a state of denial, and attempting to convince everyone else that what I was doing was anything less than what it was.

And the funny thing about the past is that most people grow, and mature as time goes on. Those reckless and irresponsible actions we did as teenagers, we cringe about when we're parents ourselves. The fact that I had engaged in illegal CB operation 20 years ago, does not invalidate my right to point it out to others now. By your logic then, a parent would have no right to discipline their children for the acts that they themselves engaged in when they were kids.

>Again, what you do or don't do, is no >*longer' any consequence, in other words,,,your words and actions now >are all for naught,,your past behavior tells the entire story,

Here we go again. First of all, what "games" am I allegedly up to? And secondly what action(s) have I engaged in, would result in the loss of an ISP?

I have had 2 ISP's in 9 years. That's the long and short of it.

But what does that have to do with the topic at hand? Take it up with Leland if you have an issue.

Downfall? You mean that many of us got so tired of the childish homosexual banter and ad-hominem attacks that we gave up posting?

The fact that you seem to think that ISP's were lost as a direct result of actions on this newsgroup, underscores your either blatant ignorance of internet rules, or is an example of the excessive self-aggandizing of your relative importance in the grand scheme of things.

Whatever you think Walter Mitty. It would be helpful though, that when you "return" things, that you return them to the proper people, and in the original context. I understand that this may be beyond your capability.

No one with any credibility had proven anything with respect to my truthfulness. YOU have attempted in the past to twist my words to fit your own self contrived opinion. That would hardly pass as "proof" in any venue which attempts to preserve an ounce of credibility.

>.....now, you can continue to choose to attack the

When the "messenger" has repeatedly demonstrated psychological disorders which affect their ability to distinguish what is considered proper behavior, then they become fair game for disclosure of said dysfunctions. In this case, the "messenger" suffers from anti-social personality disorder, with traces of narcissistic personality disorder and a bit of obsessive compulsive disorder thrown in to paint a complete picture.

When taken in the context of these issues, the validity and judgement of the "messenger" is automatically suspect, and any conclusions that arise from said individual should be considered as nothing more than hearsay.

I gave up on this feed along time ago, I only come back to read when I need a good laugh.

There are a few sites where one may be expected to spend a few dollars to join. But it is well worth it.

Talk shop, trade, buy or sell without someone trying to tell you otherwise.

maybe you might find your way, maybe we might see you there.

In the first manner, you're always around, Dave. You made a post the >what you're talking about.

Tut-tut,,you most certainly have a "pal" in Michigan.....you even claimed you were "intimately" familiar with N8WWM's behavior and repeater jamming activity so if it wasn't your Michigan bud who made you
"intimately" aware of the happenings that YOU felt important ebough to bring to this forum for discussion,,,,,then who?

>You're on drugs again.

"Again"? LOL,,you're reaching so far with desperation you reduced yourself to making false implications that I have indulged in narcotics.
185 pounds of twisted steel and sex appeal. No smoking, no drinking, no drugs. I'm in better shape now than I ever was...but what is important here, is your desperation resulting in malcious, unfounded attacks meant

Hoo-boy,,,ok,,,so when I repost your claim about having info on Doug,,,what shall we chalk your continued denials up to, Dave?.....
Drugs?
Your little posse came to me Dave, not the other way around.

>You really need to keep better track of the >objects of your obsession .

One can understand how illustrating your hypocrisy would be misconstrued
by yourself as an "obsession" by another. It's a natural reaction from a non-proactive individual.

>Did we learn a new word this week?

(shrug) Beats me,,I can't even imagine anyone including you as a "we" when speaking, given your past performances on this forum, but I guess your question would hinge on, "Who, in addition to yourself, are you referring as "we"? "Cause the vernacular you appear to be experiencing discomfort over isn't new,,,then again, apparently it is, to yourself.

>Wouldn't it just be better to say "reactive"

No. One can be non-proactive without being reactive.

>Anytime someone regularly pulls up the past

You've done it a myriad of times over the years, Davie. And you've done so in many a malicous and unprovoked manner.

>When I say that I'm hardly around, I mean that >I have little to contribute to the group as it now >stands.

You always have had the need to reclarify your positions, Dave,,,you're not very clear in your communication skills.

>I can see why someone of your limited >comprehensive ability would see it that way.

see, saying you are "not hardly around' is nowhere near the same meaning as saying you have little to contribute.",,but you of course, already know that...otherwise the need wouldn't have existed for you to completely change what you said.

What a card, you are Dave. Your pious act of expecting anyone to believe that you are no longer present but "just happened to be in the 'hood the moment you were mentioned" is laughable...look.."hahahah"!

>That's the way you took it.

Yes,,as that is exactly what you said.let's see it again, as it is apparently paining you....

>I'm hardly around much these days

>They way I meant it should be fairly obvious to >anyone else who doesn't have a >comprehensive disorder.

Yea? Only "anyone" else isn't looking to you for validation..........

>The way you seem to be.

Delusions, Dave, delusions. I merely mentioned you to Geogre WA3MOJ, no malice in the post,,,I didn't even argue with your position,,,I merely quoted you verbatim for Geogre and was called a liar for the effort. I chose to illustrate I did not lie and out you came. Plus,,you were funnin' around anyways,,,

....and I don't see "anyone else" coming to your defense who misinterprets "I'm not hardly around these days" to be a synonym for "I have little to contribute"

>Because no one else care what you think, or >what I may waste my time saying back to you.

That's pretty funny, Dave. You really believe that you get no defenders because of what I say,,,hmm,,there you go again blaming someone else for your problems, and look who you choose to blame for your lack of support...LOL!

>But worry not, I'm ending this after this >response. You remain unworthy of rational

Yea,,,especially when those discussions are backed with proof of your own posts.

The claims are so distant there is no relation at all,,,,except in your mind.

>Look in the mirror and repeat your previous

Why? It won't change what you said to any other meaning.

That you consider references of your hypocrisy flattering, is exactly what one expects.

Your encouragement of others to break the law when you have cried like a behavior,,,merely giving information.

>Where have I EVER "encouraged" people to HAha,,no Dave, you can't...it's what adheres team voob and the self-described cb hating akcgirlz,,,your group can not differentiate between discussion and actions. Now, look in the mirror and repeat your previous statement...hahaha!

>I have always maintained that >certain activities are illegal. But if you are of

This smacks in the face of what you have claimed in the past,
Dave,,you're two faced.

>Not at all to anyone with normal >comprehensive skills.

Your arrogance at placing yourself above all others, in the manner that you appoint yourself judge and jury of who is worthy of when you choose to be two faced has always been well documented, Dave. I believe this is probably the fourth time you have stated such, yet you still balme others for your personal problems. It's why you're so likeable, Davie.

>It's one thing to state that a certain activity is

Your intent as been harassment, Dave, in many cases. Someone like yourself, that can't even hold onto ISP's for the duration of the initial agreement due to violations, is in no position to preach. Dave, don't preach. You'e been shown that you have broke the law with your Texas Star and your other activities when you were playing high-power cb when you had a cb repair business...but guess what, Dave, no one was a jagoff to you like you were to those in here speaking of the exact same behavior you have participated.

>I don't expect you to understand this though.

Naturally. You;re the one with the self-image problem, otherwise you would have no need to make false accusations in such malicious manners as you frequently do.

>There's no sense calling attention to yourself

  Agreed, too bad you don't practice what you preach..as that hasn't stopped you from acting in the most blatant disrespectful manner toward others for beahvior you took part in.

>By calling something what it is?

No,,by crying about it on an internet forum and constantly badgering someone for not sharing your point of view with the law. For calling names other than "illegal" for the same beahvior you have engaged. For getting off-topic and attempting to make your topics those of the personal lives of those you were unable to exhibit proper comunication skills..need more?

Hehehehhe! The fact you are so self-deluded you think such duty is somehow your responsibility is intensely gratifying.

> If you would 've instead taken the attitude that >"yea, I know I break federal law, but I take >steps to make sure that I'm not interfering with >other people", it would 've been a different >story.

There you go again, making untrue accusations. I must have really pizzed on your cornflakes for you to harbor such malice that you care not one iota for your own reputation.
You have been crying that tune for years, Dave, only there exists no post by me expressing anything other than staying off the hammie bands and professing the virtues of low power dx with the exception of a few recent escapades on 6 and a recent post rubbing Geogres nose in his own fecal droppings.

>When you flaunt your actions by selectively >breaking laws, as some sort of God given

As you did, Dave,,you keep acting like you did no wrong when you clearly have done everything you are crying the pansie blues over.

>"right" in everyone else's face, you essentially >make a mockery of our society.

LOL,,no Dave,,only disciples of madness actually believe my talking to another country or state on my cb is making a mockery of our society. Winter that bad up there this year, eh Dave? You need some sunshine, OM. Your brain is starting to freeze when you make comments like that..

>Those of us who respect the rule and intent of >law have a problem with that.

And those of us who respect the rules of the internet have a problem with people like yourself and every single one of the lowlifes you have defended in the past for their internet scumbag actions..

>which would have the overall effect of painting
>a big red bullseye on your forehead.

>So unless you work for Target, that's not a >good thing.

You've always cringed when your behavior was illustrated, Dave.

>Who's cringing?

You are. The T on your forehead was a twist original long before your bullseye...ask Geogre,,he's so smitten with me and I have made such an impact on his twisted sampled psyche, he takes to quoting me weekly, only he doesn't give me credit, so I let him think he's getting away with something clever or original..I'm like that.

>You have even taken to quoting me.

>I suppose that I could look at it as a silent >confirmation of the validity of my points.

What you choose to do or don't do is no longer any consequence.

>If that's true, then why do you keep bringing >me up in past quotes?

Because your PAST is very relevant, as you can not run from it, no matter what you do or say. And I only done it once.

>But why do you bring my name into a subject >which has nothing to do with me?

You know good and well why, Dave.

>And I'm not running from the past, yet you >seem to be the only one who just doesn't get >it. I've devoted a whole website to >documenting the best times that I've had in >illegal. Had I been busted then, then I would

>'ve taken my lumps like a man, instead of >living in a state of denial, and attempting to >convince everyone else that what I was doing >was anything less than what it was.

That's odd,,I have stated that I would most definitely pay the piper should it come down to that,,in fact,,,I believe I said it before you did, and I think you are paraphrasing me, as you enjoyed my article so much....I still must thank Lelnad for the fruits of his labor...looking back to those posts of my article lovingly as we do, we can see I did indeed claim that exact quote, way back in the nineties...imagine that,,,,,and here I sit, twisting my head,,,looking like this.

>And the funny thing about the past is that most >people grow, and mature as time goes on.

>Those reckless and irresponsible actions we >did as teenagers, we cringe about when we're >parents ourselves. The fact that I had >engaged in illegal CB operation 20 years ago, >does not invalidate my right to point it out to >others now.

No,,it makes you a hypocrite when you still break the law. In fact, your virtues are of illegally monitoring underage girls talk of sex,,,,,so don;t open the "look at me, I'm self-righteous" page with me, it's written in disappearing ink.

>By your logic then, a parent would have no >right to discipline their children for the acts that >they themselves engaged in when they were >kids.

Try to remain on topic and relevant.

Again, what you do or don't do, is no
*longer' any consequence, in other words,,,your words and actions now are all for naught,,your past behavior tells the entire story, especially when you break your neck trying to change what you plainly said to mean something entirely diffferent,,(snicker).

>Again, you are the only one who seems to >care.

No Dave,,you're the one that leaped on my post and claimed you just "happened to be in the hood" and then I laughed at you and you tried to change what you said.

> I suppose you don't subscribe to the wisdom >of letting a sleeping dog alone.

But you;re not sleeping, Dave,,,you are up to your usual games and no good,,it's why you lost YET ANOTHER ISP.

>Here we go again. First of all, what "games"

>am I allegedly up to?

Tut-tut..no questions..I decide the questions, UNTIL,,you answer the ones you refuse,,,you know,,the ones that showed you a lying POS...the ones where you claimed you had info on a cb bust in Philly, then you claimed it was outside Philly, then you ran from the claim in embarrassed frustration.

> And secondly what action(s) have I engaged >in, would result in the loss of an ISP?

>I have had 2 ISP's in 9 years. That's the long >and short of it.

And dozens of accesses to the group.

I never wasnted any problems with you Dave, adn told you so way back when...you should have heeded the advice you now ask of another when the table has turned, but sure,,,,I can leave it alone, Dave,,,let's see if you can.,,that includes your sock puppets.

>I have no control on what others do. You >should know that.

Never claimed anything different.

>Or is it simply a matter of the concepts of logic >still eluding you?

I merely point to your akc-compadre KC8LDO who claimed logic AND common sense is nothing but a system of personal beliefs, often incorrect.

>But what does that have to do with the topic at >hand?

You are the one that brought up interpretive logic, not I.

>Take it up with Leland if you have an issue.

>Tell me, do you have any original thoughts of >your own?

  Sure,,,they were so profound they were responsible for you and the rest of tream voobs downfall (read: snatched ISP's)..

>Downfall? You mean that many of us got so >tired of the childish homosexual banter and >ad-hominem attacks that we gave up posting?

No,,I mean several of you were with accesses and after a certain abuse reporting was CONFIRMED your accesses suddnely disappeared,,in fact,there was a rash of lids, in a short manner, losing their accesses,,but we pretend they were trying out new ones and weren't happy with several of them....you understand,,dealing with damaged psyches and all, don't ya' Dave!

>The fact that you seem to think that ISP's were >lost as a direct result of actions on this >newsgroup, underscores your either blatant >ignorance of internet rules, or is an example of >the excessive self-aggandizing of your relative >importance in the grand scheme of things.

Not at all. Dogie lost several.
That must be one f of a case of "ignorance"
you got going on.

>Do you always base your principles on the >quotes of others?

No,,they arent my principles,,they are yours,,and eveyone knows I am world champion of returning things to whence they came.

>Whatever you think Walter Mitty.

I'm not the one with imagined status and an imagined duty to lash out at all I do not comprehend...you are Davie.

>It would be helpful though, that when you

>"return" things, that you return them to the >proper people, and in the original context. I >understand that this may be beyond your >capability.

Tell ya' what,,, I call your bluff, as always,,you go first, and we'll see your results,,then I'll pull a rabbit out of the magic hat. Your move, Davie.

>What's that they say about imitation being the >highest form of flattery?

Lookie, your deficit has you so downtrodden that you are hallucinating you are being imitated,,,and loookie to who you blame,,,,LOL!

>If the shoe fits, Cinderella......

You can refer to a man as a woman all you wish,,it won;t help what ails you.

>True. I can't reverse the affects of getting >older.

That will come in handy when I post your claims about knowing intimate details concerning N8.

>I'm just glad you don't live near me. I wouldn't >want to wake up one morning and see you >camped out on my doorstep......

You and your little group of losers are the ONLY ones responsible for harboring an unhealthy predilection toward posters activities outside this newsgroup. You're just all messed up, Dave.

>I don't expect you to understand, but trust me,

You're a proven liar, Dave, and liars can not be trusted, so no, you will not be trusted.

>No one with any credibility had proven >anything with respect to my truthfulness.

Too bad for you, you have no say in who has credibility on the net. Twistin' the night away...

> YOU have attempted in the past to twist my >words to fit your own self contrived opinion.

No. In fact, I have posted your own words verbatim many times and here come Davie to chnege the meaning of what he posted,,,,always with the disclaimer "BUT WHAT I MEANT WAS..."
Yawn.

>That would hardly pass as "proof" in any >venue which attempts to preserve an ounce of >credibility.

Credibility is backing what you say...this is where our problem with me began..you made a claimmmyou brought a relevant claim to this group,,,a bullshit claim,,,you knew it, I knew it, and everyone else that knows how to access information knew it. For some reason,, you chose to expand on this lie you told and as with all lies, you were required to tell more to support the original lie. It got too hot for you when I demanded any type proof at all your claim existed, you went offtopic, attacking me, getting personal, and became a jagoff for no reason. You lied, were called on it, and your excuse, (as always) for not substantiating your claim,,,had me as your reason. Credibility? Make us all laugh, Davie.

...now, you can continue to choose to attack the messenger as has been your specialty, and continue to play the victim after initiating rabid attacks, but you will never get away with it again.

>When the "messenger" has repeatedly >demonstrated psychological disorders which

And the everpresent self-elevated status. Not only have your delusions annointed yourself with the power of world radio cop, but a graduate of an accredited medical school, in addition :)...hahhahah!

>affect their ability to distinguish what is >considered proper behavior, then they >become fair game for disclosure of said >dysfunctions.

Yes, you have admitted many times your discrimination and penchant for the handicapped, the crippled, the infirm, the old, the wounded, and any who suffer ailments, impairments, or behavior considered improper by yourself. That you admit you would make sport of such limitations of those that would suffer them, illustrates what a lowlife trash receptacle you really are.

> In this case, the "messenger" suffers from >anti-social personality disorder, with traces of >narcissistic personality disorder and a bit of >obsessive compulsive disorder thrown in to >paint a complete picture.

>When taken in the context of these issues, the >validity and judgement of the "messenger" is >automatically suspect, and any conclusions >that arise from said individual should be >considered as nothing more than hearsay.

Only your claims atren't hearsay and since you have no status, no accreditation, no nothing, what you say is merely a lost individual that fancies himself some type status and importance,,pobably because you;ve been starved of such all your life.

S'cool,,I'm not the slightest interested in changing your beliefs. I gain much more satisfaction from having you share your beliefs with the world.

>Mr. Pot, meet Mr Kettle.

>Dave

>"Sandbagger"

LOL....your diagnosis' (hehe,,how cute) only came to light with your inability to support your own lies concerning a busted cber in Philly.

Can't touch this!

The likelihood of one individual being correct increases in a direct proportion to the intensity with which others try to prove him wrong

How long can one NG put up with this guys insanity. Twisted must be bored because he attacked dave hall out of the blue. Dave can handle himself but the question is whos next and why a mental case like Twisty be allowed to run wild in here.

Just look at the BS he writes it makes no sense and it sounds like he should be in a straight jacket:

"..you made a claimmmyou brought a relevant claim to this group,,,a bullshit claim,,,you knew it, I knew it, and everyone else that knows how to access information knew it.
For some reason,, you chose to expand on this lie you told and as with all lies, you were required to tell more to support the original lie. It got too hot for you when I demanded any type proof at all your claim existed, you went offtopic, attacking me, getting personal, and became a jagoff for no reason. You lied, were called on it, and your excuse, (as always) for not substantiating your claim,,,had me as your reason"

And I'll continue to be "around" in a casual listening mode, and I'll post when I see a topic worthy of interjecting my opinion. Preferably one that talks about radio.

You go ahead and continue to believe your paranoid fantasy that I somehow masquerade as a bunch of other people, for the sole purpose of trolling you. It's not outside of the symptoms of your psychological issues, for you to feel that there couldn't possibly be a large group of people who find fault with you, and instead pacify yourself into believing that all of your detractors are really one or two people. It's all part of what ails you. Paranoia is part of APD, and your self aggrandizing is part of your narcissism. There is no point in arguing with you. Like the old saying "You try to tell a nut that he's nuts, and he'll tell you that you're crazy". So I won't bother trying to explain anything to you. All you see are lies. For you to accept the truth would cause your fantasy world to come tumbling down on you like a house of cards.

What you think is irrelevant and unimportant in the grand scheme of things. You go ahead and believe that I've had "several" ISP's revoked. I know the truth. I also find it ironic, to the point of laughability, that you continue to accuse others of "communications deficits", when by far, it is you who fail to grasp even the simplest analogies, concepts, logic, or even simple statements without taking their meanings out of context. Doesn't it seem a bit funny that all of these people who spar with you have "communications deficits" while you are fine? The old: "I'm all right, it's the world that's crazy", phenomenon. More illustrations on how truly demented you really are.

But I'm not going to continue to feed your psychological craving for attention. So I'm back out again until I feel the need to smack you back into reality once more, when you make another outlandish claim that involves me. But don't expect to keep me on the hook any longer than necessary to point out your (many) problems once again. Further discussion after that would be pointless.

You should have followed your own advice and practiced what you preach checks your azz can't cash. Your delusions of grandeur of holding a medical degree is not on topic to radio, so once again, your actions

Never said that, dave, You have a serious problem making untrue accusations about those who choose to point out your fun and

In the first manner, you can't even hold your claim for more than a sentence or two. The sickness that has you suffering severe delusions of

In the second manner, only yourself and Geogre have attempted to lend an illusion of support to your actions and name calling and behavior on this group,,,only team voob and your member of N8WWM self-described "akc" is not a large group of people..merely the people that were named by name by Voob (including you) who said we would always have trouble with you...he was right about that,,in any event,,you loser lids that were reduced are not a large group,,,you are a very tiny group that needs validation from others in order to shore up some selfconfidence and esteem.

And what have you provided relating to your claim that you refer to as "truth"? LOL..nothing,,when asked,,you became offtopic (non-radio) insultive, and unprovoked malice emanated from your piehole for weeks.

Not at all,,,,one merely needs to look at how hard you intentionally attempt to give the false impression that your little group of team voob is "all these people" and more than you, Gillinad, KC8LDO, and Geogre and N8.....it;s not,,,,you and these lids are the trouble on this group and always have been.

HAHHA,,the claims are yours,,vertbatim,,,and yes,,they are ost cettaily outlandish....such as your sick twisted claimed preference at eavesdropping illegally on cordless phones to listen to teen girls speak of sex,,you're a pervert, Dave...a sex freak with issues concerning minors.

As long as you think you were believed concerning the cber that you claim was busted,,,the Phelps Stationmaster you claimed you had then couldn't remember when asked,,and listening to underage girs talk of sex,,as long as you believe this is normal behavior for a middle aged man,,,,,,,yes, Dave,,you have mega problems,,,but you go on thinking I'm the reason for your sickness and perversion.

The likelihood of one individual being correct increases in a direct proportion to the intensity with which others try to prove him wrong

Why not, since you are "allowed to run wild in here". There has to be a certain amount of balance, and you are certainly an unbalanced mental case, therefore there's no reason why Twist shouldn't post here.

If "Dave can handle himself", why are you responding for him as usual?

The question is really: "how long can one NG put up with > your < insanity"?

3701. Question about 10 m frequencies

Newsgroup: rec.radio.cb

From: Twistedhed <twistedhed@webtv.net>
Message-ID: <c1612fira1@news.x-echo.com>

Why is it not OK to freeband on unused parts of 11 and 10 meters?

Organized, long term freebanders are very aware where they operate and take great measure to ensure against talking on an amateur frequency or one that isn't heavily used on the freeband.
If the non-U.S. stations can operate ssb there, why shouldn't I, especially if I want to have a nice DX contact with one of them?

Many of us LIKE the law as it is, it keeps "yes men" off the freqs. Same analogy as the gun issue... when guns are outlawed only outlaws will have guns...no, you won't find many freebanders lobbying for change to open the freqs because the law as it reads, doesn't bug us.

No rationalization is even needed except to reply to folks that repeatedly ask over and over, "Why?" It is these folks that feel they need a reason why we do what we do, not us.

FREE!!

For advanced techs and serious radio hobbyists, we're now offering a FREE copy of our previously published "CB EPROM DATA BOOK" by Martin Pickering. (EPROM = Erasable Programmable Read Only Memory.) We sold it for many years but it's now out of print. This little manual of 60 illustrated pages is an absolute GEM of CB technical knowledge you'll just never find anywhere else. And it's yours for FREE from our Web site.

This book reveals the secrets of advanced channel programming, and picks up where our "CB PLL DATA BOOK" (www.cbcintl.com/pllbook.htm) leaves off. You'll get a thorough background in how these amazing programmable chips can be used to modify many popular CB PLL circuits for expanded frequency coverage. Covers the basic programming techniques, and even includes real PC board artwork for making EPROM circuits. Sample artwork includes EPROM boards for the popular MB8719, PLL02A, ï¿½PD2824, and ï¿½PD858 PLL circuits.

Best of all, the price is right! Download your FREE copy of "THE CB EPROM DATA BOOK" (948 KB Adobe PDF) at:

I sent an inquiry to Euro-CB in the Philippines. I was referred to its USA distributor, Lyons & Assocs. Lyons advised that the Memo Box is discontinued but nevertheless sent me a jpeg of the instructions.

It is almost a voice keyer in that you can press a button and it will close PTT and transmit your voice message. It falls short because it will not do this on a timer.

You should. You're special. You should do anything you like because you are better than everyone else. Because you are better than everyone else, you should enjoy priveleges that no one else has.
Speed on the highway and cut-in at the exits. Help yourself to free cable television. Commit insurance fraud. Do some insider trading,

Betty Lee Halbert wife of LeeRoy Halbert former KOD-4190 long time CB'ers passed away last night. With her husband LeeRoy KOD-4190 was one of the pinnacle and most widely heard stations in central New Jersey for four decades.. For more than four decades Betty monitored channel 19 assisting thousands of drivers with daily road reports.

It wasn't uncommon during the 60's & 70's for Betty and LeeRoy to help stranded motorists and truckers in their area. On more than one occasion Betty was honored by local governments for her assistance in communications when CB was in it's prime.

From their shack of two Browning Golden Eagles and two five element vertical beams using only legal power they established a following of national listeners. In the mid seventies the singer Chubby Checker paid a visit to Betty after assisting when his tour bus broke down on Rt. 35 in NJ. Betty and LeeRoy exchanged thousands of QSL cards throughout the word and was recognized by the late Senator and Amateur Radio Operator Barry Goldwater as fine examples of the radio community.

Faithfully, a friend, and family member, recalling what CB radio used to be.

Huh, I wonder if the Chinese people were at all offended by the yellow-skinned doofus that was supposed to be getting printed? And I bet if these had come out printed in white, there wouldn't have been even the slightest detectable blip on the news. The whole problem with this politically-correct crap is people go around trying to turn anything and everything they can find into a big bru-ha-ha about racism. The insult is in their own minds and they never think twice about their own problem of always assuming the worst possible intentions in their fellow man.

Your clairifier is adjusting the receive. Not every radio in the world is completly in sync with each other. You will frequently need to adjust your clairifier to properly hear another signal. It doesn't mean there's necessarily anything wrong with your radio. BTW - your radio should be transmitting on 27.3850 for channel 38, but that extra 5 on the end really isn't going to make a difference.

Yep, it is. Instead of dead presidents day, TODAY IS George's birthday. It was celebrated in THIS country until the commies took over and put in dead presidents (kings) day.

So don't forget--if it wasn't for George, who was the opposite of Bill Clinton and Mr. Bushes & Nixon and the rest of the LIARS, we would be in worse shape today!

SO REPENT; 2 Chronicles 7:14 is the answer ! Great Christians like George were THE FATHER of a nation and turned things around!

Tell it on the CB Radio !

I have a similar thing here... I usually go out for a month of shopping on a friday... so it will last the children over the weekend.
This week they were off school, so the shopping day was brought forward.

Clearly, when Jesus fed the 5000 with just the odd fish and loaf - they were not 5000 children.

You seem to be getting confused between something being "legal" or unenforceable.
The keywords here are "remedies" and "infringement".

Remedies: Actions taken to cure a situation.
Infringement: A law has been violated.
Put together: If the law is violated, only people who have registered their work may be able to take certain action in a US court.

Which makes your argument:
It's ok to break the law as long as the victim may be powerless to sue your ass over your illegal act.
Which is not much of a "pro-legal" argument.

>That's it. NOW, Peter, which of those rights have been violated?

How about "intentional distortion, mutilation, or other modification of that work".
Clearly, the image has been altered (to give the impression that he is the person in the picture).
I wonder if the people in that image mind being linked with the person in question - and his abusive posts on this group.

But, that's not the point - copying and public display of copyright material is illegal. People who violate laws are criminals.
Unless you can show that registration is a requirement for copyright to exist AND the image is not resistered, then your buddy is a criminal, and you are happily defending illegal acts.

Sound like Lou Franklin crap, that scumbag still owes me $360.00 for a dead
President Grant export he sold me in 1984 that arrived dead and I returned.
He got the radio but I never received a refund or replacement. Hey

A law is not a law unless it can be enforced. If every word that everybody ever wrote was protected by law, the courts would be hip-deep in diapers from the hoards of crybabies like yourself filing frivolous copyright suits every time they -think- their copyrights have been violated (and with claims almost as outlandish as the ones you are making in this newsgroup). The purpose of registration is to provide a prima-facie declaration of copyright ownership, thereby limiting claims to legitimate and bona-fide cases of infringement.

>Remedies: Actions taken to cure a situation.
>Infringement: A law has been violated.
>Put together: If the law is violated, only people who have registered their >work may be able to take certain action in a US court.

You still haven't read the code, and you still don't understand what a copyright actually is. Well, here's what you missed while smoking dope in high school: A 'copyright' is a device used to claim exclusive authorship of an artistic or literary work, and entitles the owner to all the benefits (and liabilities) resulting from the work and/or its reproduction.

Now to apply this to the case at hand. First, did the author of that page claim copyright, or otherwise claim authorship of the photograph? No. Even if he had, the page was obviously a parody which is protected under the 1st Amendment (or maybe you didn't see the movie about Larry Flynt?). Second, were there any benefits derived from the use of the photograph? No, and even if there were any benefits, the criminal part of the code for copyright infringement spells out just what constitutes a 'benefit':

"....either commercial advantage or private financial gain [or] reproduction or distribution, including by electronic means, during any 180-day period, of 1 or more copies or phonorecords of 1 or more copyrighted works, which have a total retail value of more than $1,000...."

So I'll ask this question YET AGAIN -- what laws were violated?

>Which makes your argument:
> It's ok to break the law as long as the victim may be > powerless to sue your ass over your illegal act.
>Which is not much of a "pro-legal" argument.

The law is clear. You are just not reading it clearly.

>>That's it. NOW, Peter, which of those rights have been violated?
>
>How about "intentional distortion, mutilation, or other
>modification of that work".
>Clearly, the image has been altered (to give the impression that he is the >person in the picture).

You can still go to the originating site and view the picture in all of its unaltered glory. The -copy- was altered.

>I wonder if the people in that image mind being linked with the person in >question - and his abusive posts on this group.

Why don't you ask them? At the same time, why don't you ask them if they granted permission to the website to publish that picture of them?

>But, that's not the point - copying and public display of copyright material >is illegal.

Wrong. You can copy any copyrighted materail all you want -- you just can't claim authorship, or use it for financial gain without permission. You can also publically display copyrighted material all you want if you are the owner of the copyright.

> People who violate laws are criminals.
>Unless you can show that registration is a requirement for copyright to >exist AND the image is not resistered, then your buddy is a criminal, and >you are happily defending illegal acts.

Registration is -not- a requirement for copyright protection. It -IS- a requirement to seek civil remedies for infringement. The -real- issue is what protection was violated? It looks like I have to make this a multiple-guess question:

Which of the following occured:

A. Commercial advantage was gained by posting the copied picture;
B. Person who copied the picture received private financial gain;
C. Picture has a retail value of more than $1000;
D. Picture was copied for use in a parody;

Scroll down for the correct answer.

If you scrolled all the way down here for the answer then you are an idiot!

There's still some good ol' bartering going on at some local etc,..with the prices of fresh fruit and fresh veggies (which aren't really fresh at all, in addition to being loaded with insecticides and all kinds of other nasty sh*t, unless you buy organic or irradiated and then you're spending even MORE) it's cheaper to grow your own these days. Just about the only fruit we buy at the store are South American bananas and Chilean grapes,,eveything else is Florida fresh from our backyards, groves, or stands. Betcha this state throws away enough grapefruit each year to feed several small countries.

In early January of last year, Hussein's troops began to withdraw from Kuwait, but the Pentagon claimed to have satellite photographs showing an enormous buildup of Iraqi forces and weapons, 250,000 Iraqi troops and 1500 tanks massing in the desert for their impending attack on Saudi Arabia. This announcement stunned the anti-war protesters, and world opinion gradually shifted, although no one saw the alleged photos, which were, of course, classified.
Jean Heller, an ace journalist from the St. Petersburg Times in Florida, persuaded her editors to buy two photos from the Russian commercial satellite, the Soyuz Karta, taken September 11 and September 13. The photos proved that the entire Iraqi airforce was parked in Riyadh and that Iraqi troops were nowhere to be found massing in the desert. The editors asked two former Defense Intelligence Agency analysts to examine the photos. They, too, were surprised that the pictures showed American jets arrayed on the Saudi Arabian border but no troops at all on the Kuwaiti border.
Peter Zimmerman, a satellite expert at George Washington University, said,
"We could see clearly the main road leading right through Kuwait, south to Saudi Arabia, but it was covered with sand banks from the wind and it was clear that no army had moved over it. We could see empty barracks where you would have expected these thousands of troops to be billeted, but they were deserted as well."
Then a strange thing happened. Major news organizations, including Newsweek, the Chicago Tribune, and ABC, perused the photos but decided not to publish a story that would contradict the government's information. The Iraqi military buildup, which did not exist, was Bush's justification for dispatching troops, yet the American media refused to expose the government's lie. The only honest American journalists were in St. Petersburg, Florida.
After the war, the House Armed Services Committee concluded that at the beginning of the ground war in February, the Iraqi troops numbered 183,000, not the 250,000 "discovered" by the Pentagon satellite.

Well, well...now that the wicked Bush is at his lowest popularity and approval rating of his presidency and reality has sunk in and the majority of people comprehend he outright lied concerning the non-existent threat posed by Hussein and Iraq to the security and safety of the US and its citizens, his spin doctors have realized not only is he vulnerable in the coming presidential election, but probably going to lose. Enter Nader,,,once again,,,,the extreme right's secret weapon,..Nader practically guarantees a Bush victory,, pundits are musing 4 more years of Bush will be a good thing all the way around, as the country will become even more fractured and economically destabilized, bringing about the demise of the old angry demagogues that make up the core of the current republicans which has remained the same clique of bad guys since Reagan economically raped and pillaged the country during his second term. Invest in alcohol and tobacco..two items that historically outperform any other investments during times of economic uncertainty.

So? Call 1-800-CRY-BABY and tell them about your hard-on for the president. Or else do something about it, like encourage people to vote responsibly (which is not necessarily according to your agenda), or whine to your congressmen about drafting a bill that would define 'war' and what constitutes a congressional declaration of war. Or, at the very least, post your crap in the appropriate newsgroup where people don't know that you are a dumbass who violates federal laws willingly, repeatedly and defiantly, and therefore might actually care about your opinions.

That's enough reason NOT to mess with 10 Meters. LOL!

They got another company up in Maine AND wrote a letter to FedEx as well.

I know it's a troll, but it is still a good answer. <<snicker>>

Mr. Carl Leonard Ross
CLR Transport
1310 Ozone Drive
Saluda, NC 28773

SUBJECT: Warning Notice--Unlicensed Radio Operation

Dear Mr. Ross:

Information before the Commission indicates that your vehicle, US DOT # 11131374, bearing NC license LP-2598, on Interstate 85 between Gastonia and Kings Mountain, NC, was the source of unlicensed radio transmissions on the Ten Meter Amateur Radio band on July 14, 2003.

Please be advised that operation of radio transmitting equipment without a license is a violation of Section 301 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 47 U.S.C. Section 301, and will subject the operator to fine or imprisonment, as well as an in rem seizure of any non-certified radio transmitting equipment, in cooperation with the United States Attorney for your jurisdiction. Monetary forfeitures normally range from $7,500 to $10,000.

You are requested to contact me at 717-338-2502 to discuss this matter.

Your communication deficit has prevented you from understanding that the reason behind the Constitutional provision of allowing -only- Congress to declare war is to prevent a single person (the President) from doing exactly what you are griping about. If you want to whine about someone, whine about yourself for electing senators and representatives that allow this to continue. It's called "checks and balances", Twisty. If you don't like Bush, that's your personal problem. If you don't like the system, vote for someone that will work to change it, or at least vote so that your vote will send a message. For example, if you are sick of party politics, vote independant. Or if you think economics is important, vote for a successful business person instead of a politician. But don't vote against Bush just because you don't like him because you may end up with an Irish president that claims to be a Jew whenever he visits New York.

So what? An anti-war stance should prevent one from holding office?
Even those who were FOR Vietnam back in the day relaize what a tragic and horrible mistake that war was,,,,now,,that would make Kerry's stance bakc then,,,,correct.,,how ironic.

Yes, it was a mistake, but not for the reasons stated. Lyndon Johnson was inept, and he was so afraid to do anything. Witness the Gulf of Tonkin incident and the Pueblo (sic) incident. He meddled in the affairs of the on-scene commanders and restricted their movement.
It was these thing (among others) which made me decide in high school I could NOT follow his party--then OR now. Their liberal views are, IMHO, not reflective of what the people believe (at least, I hope not, or we are doomed to the annals of history), and their history of thwarting the appointment of cabinet members and judges that they think would toe only their own far-left views is dangerous and alarming.

It was the touchy-feely views of that current President and the meddling of his administration (Robert S. McNamara) that lost the war in Viet Nam.

Anti-war is not in of itself something to forestall election, but it IS, to me, a factor that may determine a candidate's willingness to ACT decisively when needed.
Still, how can John Kerry criticize President Bush for the Administration's conduct of the war when, as far as I know, he never flew an airplane or served in "Nam? All I ever heard was him saying blah, blah, this, George Bush blah, blah that and questioning his Guard service. That is a weak argument at best, and a desperate search for something--ANYTHING--he can use to undermine the President. I CAN respect John Edwards for NOT engaging in attacks on the President or Mr. Kerry (cheap shots), but I still don't agree with him, either.

Right or wrong, that particular party has nothing to show me, and, indeed, their liberal, leftist ideas scare hell out of me. God help us if that "huzzy" Hillary Clinton were elected. I want Government, for the most part, the hell out of my life, keep their paws off my money and take their give-away-the-store-to-the-welfare-state ideas and their tax-and-spend mentality and BIG government AWAY from me.

Maybe George will defeated as so many of the give-me-something-nothing crowd wants (welfare state), but, God,
I hope not and I don't think so.

I drive a truck, and have a Cobra 148 GTL as my primary radio. The radio has had some work done to it, and since I got it back, I have noticed the radio is much louder. It's like it's picking up background noise. With the truck off, the radio is more quiet, and I can hear much less static. With the truck on, it's giving me some awful static and feedback from time to time when I pull next to another driver. Also, if I turn my heat/air on, or turn my wipers on, the static gets even louder. The radio may have had some mods done to it that would boost the output, but I am definatly not running anything like a linear amp. My question, is if anyone makes some type of filter that will kill all this background noise. Any information would be greatly appreciated.

Thanks,

I have a Cobra 148F GTL. I haven't been wanting to sell it, but I'll entertain your offer if it's a good one. It is in decent shape. The housing has no scratches, but the face has a few scratches. It has had

Not saying I'll let her go, but if your offer is good, you may have

Guess what Jerry? I saw the photos - all three of them. One of John Kerry, one of Jane Fonda, and a third which was a composite of the first two to make it look like John Kerry was with Jane Fonda. The most hilarious part of this is that it was pointed out by some friends - in Australia!!!

We are becoming the laughingstock of the world. You will see a nasty, mud-slinging election, probably dominated by money. Yep, the third picture was created by some conservative groups. I don't get it. Conservative would, to me, imply conserving, yet around here it implies "I want it all". Yep, you go drill for more oil. There aren't many more sources and now OPEC has reduced output - because the falling US dollar means they are taking in less, even if they get their targeted $25 or $30 USD per barrel. Now, we are being told how great the economy is doing and granted, stock prices are up. Ever figure on a dollar that isn't worth as much? It will be interesting to see how our economy will be doing if gasoline hits $2.50 per gallon (estimates range from over two to possibly a maximum of three bucks a gallon).

Sorry for the little outburst. I should realize that if folks cannot smell the smoke, just wait a bit until they see the fire. BTW, Social Security won't be in trouble until the middle of the century; with slightly reduced benefits, it is healthy until 2075 (of course, this was before we replaced the $15 to $30 per hour jobs with $8.00 per hour jobs - even professional jobs are being outsourced to India). Now I see they are worried that they can't pay the benefits. Why? Gee, Social Security gets government bonds that pay interest. Problem is, Uncle Sam has borrowed those funds from Social Security and has buried himself in debt. Now, even though they've 'borrowed' the funds, they don't want to have to pay them back.

I just don't want this great country to end up a third rate, poverty ridden has-been. Someone has to wake up, and King George and the rest of the royal family (prince what's his name in Florida) have got to go.

Twist,

Just remember - one thing the Democrats haven't said is "I am not a crook". Yes, Richard Nixon was something else. The big difference between Nixon and the current folks is that he got caught (and likely didn't have the number of friends sitting in high courts to help him). Not that the Democrats are much better; if the Chief has to play games, I'd rather be games in the oval office than games that affect everyone else's lives.

I have been using Belden 9913 RG-8U solid core for the past 7 years.
Its used with a Jogunn 5+5 beam and Yaesu rotor. Will this stand up for another 10+ years or ditch it for some low loss, stranded, foam or non-contaminating coax?

Nader IS a Communist; Dennis Kucinich had them working for him when he ran for congress. Sing my new song : Tweedle Dee & Tweedle Dum; we WON'T vote for either one! Don't vote for Nader, Bush, Kerry or Kucinich. It's pretty sad when the commies that are running sound MORE American than the BIG boys (Tweedle Dee & Dummycrat) ! Used coax can be tested on the bench for characteristic impedance, dielectric integrity, DC resistance, and even for pinholes in the outer insulation. But unless you measured these factors when new, you can't make a good determination of its quality after several years of use. The problem is that your average coax isn't hermetically sealed, so moisture will eventually seep in and slowly corrode the conductors. Weaknesses in the outer insulation (due to age, oil contamination, mechanical stresses and manufacturing imperfections) cause microscopic pinholes that make the corrosion process go faster. It's best to replace your coax periodically. I would say that seven years is plenty long enough for an outside line.

Now I can't stress this enough: -=DON'T USE FOAM=-!!! There are several reasons not to use foam. First, foam coax is very porous and is intended for controlled environments where there is little variation in temperature and humidity, the factors primarily responsible for moisture seeping into the coax. Second, the dielectric softens with just mild heat, and the line could be ruined by nothing more than a hot sunny day. Also, the foam doesn't have the mechanical strength to handle the stresses of being clamped to an antenna and hung from any decent height, not to mention the repeated movements caused by wind, or the expansion and contraction caused by wide temperature changes. For antenna installations, foam coax is -BAD NEWS-!

As far as solid vs. stranded is concerned, the only real advantage of solid is a higher usable frequency (we're talking GHz here). Stranded conductors offer more flexibility, which is important when the coax is constantly under the mechanical stresses of an antenna installation.

The only other thing you may want to know about any type of coax is how flexible it will be when the weather turns cold. In that respect, I have yet to find any coax that fills the bill.

Um, be not so hasty! Bill Clinton stood up and said he didn't have an 'affair, sex, or something with the "lady".
He got caught just like Nixon, just the circumstances were different. And John Kennedy was no saint. His affairs were legend! No WONDER Clinton compared himself to Kennedy! One of the differences before Nixon got caught, he was not afraid to mine Haiphong harbor unlike his touchy-feely predecessor.

What I find the most hypocritical is how John Kerry, who led the charge against criticizing a candidate's "service record", when Clinton's "draft dodging" was being made into an issue, is now the one spearheading the criticism of Bush's service record.

Kerry flip flops on issues more than anyone I've seen in the recent past. Another one who sets his principles according to polls and focus groups. That smacks of a lack of integrity and character. At least Bush made the tough decisions and stuck with them, despite the political fallout that was bound to occur.

Iraq is unsettled for now, but it will be settled one day. The Iraqi people are better off without Saddam. The fact that WMD have not (yet) been found is no proof that they don't exist. Hussein did have 12 years to slowly move them to Syria, or hide them deep in the desert.

The economy is turning around according to most economic indicators. The fact that some jobs have been moved offshore is a reality of modern economics. There isn't much that any standing president can do about it, short of circumventing the free market, and imposing socialistic type legislation. Besides, who was it who signed NAFTA in the first place?

I have yet to hear of any real compelling ideas or plans from the democratic side of the fence. All they seem capable of doing is attacking Bush and his policies, without outlining their own plans and making a rational presentation on how and why we should believe that their "plan" is any better. It's not enough to simply say that "we will create more jobs" without telling us HOW they think they can do that. Certainly, a party who changes their stripes at the whim of the political wind would not be my choice for the long term good for this country.

Choker chain too tight, Lelnad? Like Davie,,neither of you are around,,,until you're told to come....see, these are things you do time and time again, only you haven't figured out yet how to take back control of your own behavior. You showed what a coward you are by threatening me and telling me I was a "dead fish". Have you had success with the wagon these days, Lelnad, or have you fallen off yet again? If I am correct, and I believe I am, one who received a DUI isn't owed any slack when it comes to an alcohol problem such as yours.

Stop blaming the rest of the world for your own alcoholism. You are responsible for ruining your own reputation, not those you attack and blame for all your misery.

The likelihood of one individual being correct increases in a direct proportion to the intensity with which others try to prove him wrong

Hi Jim Carroll, nice to hear from you!
I have always just replaced my coax every 8

the use of millions of watts, wind, rain, ice, heat, birds, low flying planes, it should just be replaced

Hi ya Jer, how's it going?
lets not forget that LBJ tried to micro-manage the war from the White house, big mistake. ALL Air not the commanders in the field.

I do believe that Kerry was in Viet Nam and

I'm pretty sure he served there.

Like never entered the equation except with losers not unlike yourself.
 I'm voting against Bush because he is a liar, and a liar is a low-life who will sell out anyone at any time in order to further their own agenda. A liar can not be trusted.
When Barbara Walters pinned him down and showed him his lying quote,,claiming untruths concerning Hussein and our great country,,his very words were, "What's the difference?"
He stuttered and stammered and hemmed and hawed and tried in vain to talk his way out of his previous claim, but it was too late. He callously dismissed his previous lie that Hussein was stockpiling WMDs and about to invade Saudi. None of it was true and when the president was caught like the lying dog he is, he callously said "What's the difference?" Well, there eists a huge difference. The military will put their life on the line and die, if necessary, for our country when the leader and president says so,,,but to say so when it clearly wasn't true, was a bold faced lie and the difference is, we are losing our children in the military every day because of an outright lie the president manufactured. See, no one disputes Hussein wasn't a bad guy,,but Bush couldn't sell the war simpy because he was a bad guy and had to go,,,remember when it was called "Operation Liberate Iraq"?..hahaha,,we said no way,,,so he chnaged the name of the military operation TWO more times,,,,only when he reached exasperation and came up with the WMDs lie and troop buildup lie did we accept grounds for war. We went to war on lies told by the president. Our boys and girls have died, and continue to die because of lies told by our president.
Only those die-hards who are not open to any other views but their select tunnel vision, not unlike yourself, do not believe Bush lied at this point. Dozens of his hand-selected white house staff have resigned in disgust. The man is a liar and not worthy of the white house.

No doubt on the Nixon analogy,,,,I wholeheartedly agree. And again, I don't know that the demos have any answers, either, but this business-as-usual with carte blanche for those with political connections who raid employess funds and company cash at the expense of employees and taxpayers is a travesty. BTW,,excellent take on the social security situation....you touched on something many do not recognize,,the declining value of the US dollar...now apply that declining dollar against the bonds to which they are directly tied and a grim picture begins to emerge regarding SS's projected fiscal insolvency date.

>have 12 years to slowly move them to Syria,

12 years? Bullshit...Bush said Hussein was "amassing" them in the beginning of last year. Several educated souls have shared with you in the past the possibility of moving caravans made up of several hundred trucks, perhaps thousands, would have been necessary to "hide wmds"....lol...wmds are not placed in a trunk and merely driven away,,,,it takes huge convoys and several days to undertake such maneuvers and the satellites would have revealed such activity.

>or hide them deep in the desert

LOL...The size of the exacavation and scale of activity such an undertaking would have required to carry out such a theory would be impossible for such a job to go ignored and undetected to spy satellites and military planes and other technologies..

justification for the increased aggression was his claim of massive VC camps that didn't really exist. At least that's the story I remember.

Yes I know you have a degree in grass science so answer me this, why does a lawn get yelow patches in it I know its winter but this spring I will see dead spots in the lawn like last year. It is not because of not watering or uneven watering and no theres nothing blocking the sun from getting to it. Some one said the lawn can get a disease from being watered at night other say reseed the whole lawn come spring. Can grass die out but only in patches???

Can you post a pic? It sounds like the turf variety may be different in those area's. Could be poa annua or bentgrass or rye. It's hard to say without seeing it.

Disease or insect damage can occur in patches too.

Do you still drive the Torino with the stripe on the side?

We suggest core aeration every season as long as your thatch layer isn't more than 1/2 inch thick. If it's more than that you're better off using a de-thatcher. You can rent either machine.

Off topic? ;-)

Actually it's not all dead grass, much of it is part of the living plant and a small layer helps protect the soil from the sun and weed infestation.

I have looked at just about every mount I can think of that does not require drilling and can not find a mount that will work on the back tailgate without being sheered off. I tend to work in severe weather so magnet mounts are out of the question and my understanding is that the window mounts are garbage. Does anyone have any suggestions?

Geez - in Georgia the Guatamalans only get $40/day. Someone should bring them to Long Island and make a killing.

Sheesh, it's not like you are drilling a hole in the bottom of a boat. Is this a working truck or a 'pretty' truck? If it's a 'pretty' truck, park it in the garage, drain the radiator, jack it up on blocks, toss some mothballs under the seats, throw a tarp over it, then lock up the garage until you are ready to sell it. If it's a working truck, drill the friggin hole!

Communist or not, It is a fact that 4-5 watts in to a low drive amp is not good. I am not saying that was the reason it blew, but you stated in you message to copper that you was putting this into this amp and they responded accordingly. Im not sure what brand and model of amp it was, so I cant say to much on that. When you get an amp, do not drive it with more than 3 watts unless it is a high drive amp. Even the amps that say they will take up to 7 watts input are full of crap.

When you get another amp, be sure not to overdrive it. If you have the radio tuned to the amp or turn the radio down to 3 watts, it will be fine. Make sure you have a good match as well! If it blows, then it isn't your fault. In a 142, you can easily turn the dead key down by turning a variable resistor in the back right hand corner. Get the info off the net, because I dont remember what number the VR is. Your forward swing will not be affected by this either nor will SSB.

All though a new amp should not have done this that soon, Copper should have replaced it at no charge and warned you that the radio would have to be tuned. Also note: It is against FCC regulations to use external amplifiers on 11 meters. Not good to admit that to Copper. They can also use that against you. Even though they know it can be used there and know it was most likely used there, your self admittance of this should have been conceiled.

Wrong you ass licking cum gobbling faggot.
Now get your queer ass self back to the Detroiter and slap some skull on the Roadway guys.

MY BIO!!!!!
K8CPA
Okay, this is the place where I tell you how I came to know how fucked up I am.... and all the personal information about me. I will try and answer all the questions:

Date of Birth: June 28, 1972 <in the fall of 71 my daddy fucked a pig, ya see>

Place of Birth: Detroit, Michigan <in an alley behind the unit block of Waterman Avenue>

Religious Information: Well, first off, I am NOT heterosexual! I am a faggot! I accepted penises as my personal Lord in 1980. I was all of 10 Years old, I knew exactly what I was doing, I knew that if I didn't get cock in my mouth, I would not See the Lord in the rapture of it's jizz pulsing. I have been butt pumped nightly for 12 Years. Although, I was "Backslidden" for about 6 of those years, while screwing female barnyard animals. I am now back serving my Lord penis. I would like to Thank the Rev. Jack Hizhogoff of Detroit Gayboy Outreach (Web at: http://www.dgo.fag) for standing in the gap and slapping his manly dick up my fat faggot ass, and for a playroom where people like me, who were burned by chickenhawks with syphylitic dicks and fellow fags in general, could come and give their hearts back to the Lord penis. My only regret is that Rev Hizhogoff had to start pushing his manly dick in my fat faggot ass to the point where I could not bear to bend over anymore, and I returned to my favorite pastime, cocksucking in the men's room of the Detroit bus station.

"Burned" by the syphylitic cocks in my mouth and asshole?: Yep, Sure was.... I was... like I said before, I was sucking when I was 10, (around 1980), I was originally sucking just anyone, especially born again Christians and other mentally fucked up Baptist types like me. I loved those guys when theyd tell me to tongue their assholes. Condoms were a BIG no-no.... and I believed it!

Speed ahead 4 years. in 1984, The Baptist Church I went to had a bit of a controversy, The Pastor had resigned because he was caught bobbing on my young fat faggot pee pee, and things there were in a state of chaos, and my mom did not want to suffer having to put up with my faggot punk boy ass at home. She enrolled me into the Detroit Institute for Hopless Gayboy Fatass Chumps. I started attending and believe me, going to a Full-TILT anal only gayboy school. after attending one with a stated preference for teaching Hopless Gayboy Fatass Chumps to mainly suck dick, was a MAJOR SHOCK to my system! But one thing kept me from leaving the place, was the fact that these people seemed to really love the Lord Penis. and there was this one guy, named Robert Snyder, Who played the drums, like John Bonham, (from Led Zeppelin) and we got along great.... (Not to mention he would let me drink his jizz on the sly. That was HOT! least I thought so! Hey! I was 14 years old, and my hormones were at full TILT! So SUE ME!) (By the way, Snyder is now married to MoparHolic and living in Ohio. I'm very happy for him.
Anyhow... After being there for about a year. I started being interested in playing drums for them, as I was a drummer, from a young age... and I wanted to use my talent for the Lord Penis. Well, I eventually got the nerve to ask if I could play for them, and they said sure, as long as I would give em all head before each show! AWESOME!!!... My first time playing for Detroit Institute for Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chumps was a nightmare! I was scared, I totally forgot how to play because I was violently burping up the sprem I had sucked down before the show.! I was THAT scared! Anyhow... speed ahead to age 19... I was changing as a person, things were changing at Detroit Institute for Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chumps, as well. and a bit of a disagreement rose up between me and Snyder. I wanted to suck their cocks the night before the show instead of immediately prior to it. They said they needed the rush in order to play better, and I was asked to step down from the music ministry. Needless to say I was crushed. and very upset at Snyder In fact. I didn't think I'd ever be able to forgive him for that... Anyhow... I entered into what I called "My Dark Years" from age 19-26... Drugs, Drinking, eating 7 meals a day of Burger king, Dominos Pizza and Taco Bell in order to make myself an even bigger Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chump.... and when I found out that Snyder had turned heterosexual, I really went off the deep end... until...

MY MOMENT OF CLARITY

Well, when I was around 26, I was totally burned out on the Dominos Pizza... I was just sick and tired of being sick and tired... I needed cocks rammed up my Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chump poop chute and I needed it BADLY!!! the people I was upset at were gone from Detroit Institute for Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chumps. I was not getting any older... and I was ready to stop running from the Lord penis. But I had issues to resolve in my life... How could just Go back to the fags that had only "screwed" me and wouldnt let me suck cocks in the first place? I still felt like I'd been wronged! But I had the Clarity moment of a lifetime... This thought crossed my mind...

"I was a FAGASS PUNKBOY MOTHERFUCKER BEFORE I came to the Detroit Institute for Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chumps

Why am I allowing something that happened 7 years ago, keep me from serving my God, the Penis?????????

My Return to total Fagassedness!

Well, I was 26 years old... I was wanting to come back full time to Lord Penis. But I wasn't going back to Detroit Institute for Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chumps (at least not at that time!!!) I had heard about a church called DGW (short for Detroit Gayboy Outreach) and I'd heard in the past that it was a nice place... So..... I wanted to be where the Holy Spirit of the Lord Penis was... and there I was... I came to the church on Ann Arbor Trail... my first experience there was a interesting one, I came in the parking lot... puffing on a 7 year old kid's cock, (in my years of being Backslidden, I picked up a nasty 2 child a day, sucking habit...) I finished my child, and went in, and right away I heard SCREAMING in my ear... "what are you doing here???" "these are the people that Screwed you, but would not let you suck dicks!" act..... and when the song service started, the Holy Spirit of Lord Penis fell, and I became very uncomfortable, to the point when I had to leave! and I did!, I remember a usher, running after me and saying where are you going??? I remember looking back at him and saying... "I can't handle this SHIT I got to get out of here!" and I left.... Well, that week... I sort of prepared myself for service to mens dicks next week, I took my Book, Gay Sex For Dummies to work. (I worked midnights as a Security Guard, so I could walk around the ghetto apartment complex I patrolled and peek in windows at sleeping little boys. and I had lots of time to masturbate...) My mother realized I was fantasizing about kids nuts....
I found myself reading the Word, and Praying for a big hairy chested man to suck off.. by Sunday, I knew I was ready to come back... Went back that Sunday.... they had a Illustrated Sermon on fellatio with pictures from several fag magazines, it was great, and needless to say, my Hard cock, Melted in the presence of the Lord Penis. and I knew that I wanted to come home.

I thank the Lord Penis for his Love, That takes us whacked out people as we are, and makes us his Servants....

Where am I now... : Currently Attending Adult classes at The Detroit Institute for Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chumps.

HAM RADIO?!?!?!?!?!?!?I BETRAY IT AND WORSHIP ILLEGAL FAGGOT KEYCLOWNS BECAUSE THEY LIKE SUCKING COCK AS MUCH AS I DO!!!!

I was, I guess you could say, Born into the CB FAGGOT Hobby... My Father, was a Dyed in the wool CB FAG... I even had a stint in the CB radio hobby as well... Anyhow, one year (I think I was around 8 Years old...) my parents and I went to have sex with my Grandfather's Sister and her German Shepherd, in Conway, Ark, which is the world capital of CB FAGGOTS. To say the least, was totally impressed with the FAGGOT CB Hobby, because it satisfied my craving to run my faggot mouth constantly AND to suck cocks!!!. and for years I did nothing about it, just sucking dicks constantly and that linear tuning on those tube type ILLEGAL FAGGOT KEYCLOWN amplifiers was just too hard to learn. Speed Ahead to age 14, a friend of mine, Joseph Hampton (Ham call sign N8ExtremeCockNosher-but ALSO a secret ILLEGAL FAGGOT KEYCLOWN) who lived across the street from me, and also was interested in getting his dick polished as well.. Well, we had some gay sex together... (you see this was when you had to be secretive about your gayness! I was KB8HHZ (hugely horny for zebra!) and Joe was KB8HGL (Hungry Gonad licker!)... I believe me and Joe were originally licensed in 1989....

On April of 2000. The FCC Restructured it's licenses... and I paid a renegade VE 50 bucks and Received my General Class Ticket... I often masturbate while thinking of linears for ILLEGAL FAGGOT KEYCLOWNS. And really think Riley is mean. Maybe if I sucked his dick he would not be after traitor scumbag shithunk fagboys like me.

My Call? Is a Vanity call that I paid for, it is my initials! Because as a Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chump, I need something like that for my ego.

I hope this answers everything you wanted to know about me!

Anyhow... After being there for about a year. I started being interested in playing drums for them, as I was a drummer, from a young age... and I wanted to use my talent for the Lord Penis. Well, I eventually got the nerve to ask if I could play for them, and they said sure, as long as I would give em all head before each show! AWESOME!!!... My first time playing for Detroit Institute for Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chumps was a nightmare! I was scared, I totally forgot how to play because I was violently burping up the sprem I had sucked down before the show.! I was THAT scared! Anyhow... speed ahead to age 19... I was changing as a person, things were changing at Detroit Institute for Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chumps, as well. and a bit of a disagreement rose up between me and Snyder. I wanted to suck their cocks the night before the show instead of immediately prior to it. They said they needed the rush in order to play better, and I was asked to step down from the music ministry. Needless to say I was crushed. and very upset at Snyder In fact. I didn't think I'd ever be able to forgive him for that... Anyhow... I entered into what I called "My Dark Years" from age 19-26... Drugs, Drinking, eating 7 meals a day of Burger king, Dominos Pizza and Taco Bell in order to make myself an even bigger Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chump.... and when I found out that Snyder had turned heterosexual, I really went off the deep end... until...

MY MOMENT OF CLARITY

Well, when I was around 26, I was totally burned out on the Dominos Pizza... I was just sick and tired of being sick and tired... I needed cocks rammed up my Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chump poop chute and I needed it BADLY!!! the people I was upset at were gone from Detroit Institute for Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chumps. I was not getting any older... and I was ready to stop running from the Lord penis. But I had issues to resolve in my life... How could just Go back to the fags that had only "screwed" me and wouldnt let me suck cocks in the first place? I still felt like I'd been wronged! But I had the Clarity moment of a lifetime... This thought crossed my mind...

"I was a FAGASS PUNKBOY MOTHERFUCKER BEFORE I came to the Detroit Institute for Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chumps

Why am I allowing something that happened 7 years ago, keep me from serving my God, the Penis?????????

My Return to total Fagassedness!

Well, I was 26 years old... I was wanting to come back full time to Lord Penis. But I wasn't going back to Detroit Institute for Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chumps (at least not at that time!!!) I had heard about a church called DGW (short for Detroit Gayboy Outreach) and I'd heard in the past that it was a nice place... So..... I wanted to be where the Holy Spirit of the Lord Penis was... and there I was... I came to the church on Ann Arbor Trail... my first experience there was a interesting one, I came in the parking lot... puffing on a 7 year old kid's cock, (in my years of being Backslidden, I picked up a nasty 2 child a day, sucking habit...) I finished my child, and went in, and right away I heard SCREAMING in my ear... "what are you doing here???" "these are the people that Screwed you, but would not let you suck dicks!" act..... and when the song service started, the Holy Spirit of Lord Penis fell, and I became very uncomfortable, to the point when I had to leave! and I did!, I remember a usher, running after me and saying where are you going??? I remember looking back at him and saying... "I can't handle this SHIT I got to get out of here!" and I left.... Well, that week... I sort of prepared myself for service to mens dicks next week, I took my Book, Gay Sex For Dummies to work. (I worked midnights as a Security Guard, so I could walk around the ghetto apartment complex I patrolled and peek in windows at sleeping little boys. and I had lots of time to masturbate...) My mother realized I was fantasizing about kids nuts.... I found myself reading the Word, and Praying for a big hairy chested man to suck off.. by Sunday, I knew I was ready to come back... Went back that Sunday.... they had a Illustrated Sermon on fellatio with pictures from several fag magazines, it was great, and needless to say, my Hard cock, Melted in the presence of the Lord Penis. and I knew that I wanted to come home.

I thank the Lord Penis for his Love, That takes us whacked out people as we are, and makes us his Servants....

Where am I now... : Currently Attending Adult classes at The Detroit Institute for Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chumps.

HAM RADIO?!?!?!?!?!?!?I BETRAY IT AND WORSHIP ILLIGAL FAGGOT KEYCLOWNS BECAUSE THEY LIKE SUCKING COCK AS MUCH AS I DO!!!!

I was, I guess you could say, Born into the CB FAGGOT Hobby... My Father, was a Dyed in the wool CB FAG... I even had a stint in the CB radio hobby as well... Anyhow, one year (I think I was around 8 Years old...) my parents and I went to have sex with my Grandfather's Sister and her German Shepherd, in Conway, Ark, which is the world capital of CB FAGGOTS. To say the least, was totally impressed with the FAGGOT CB Hobby, because it satisfied my craving to run my faggot mouth constantly AND to suck cocks!!!. and for years I did nothing about it, just sucking dicks constantly and that linear tuning on those tube type ILLEGAL FAGGOT KEYCLOWN amplifiers was just too hard to learn. Speed Ahead to age 14, a friend of mine, Joseph Hampton (Ham call sign N8ExtremeCockNosher-but ALSO a secret ILLEGAL FAGGOT KEYCLOWN) who lived across the street from me, and also was interested in getting his dick polished as well.. Well, we had some gay sex together... (you see this was when you had to be secretive about your gayness! I was KB8HHZ (hugely horny for zebra!) and Joe was KB8HGL (Hungry Gonad licker!)... I believe me and Joe were originally licensed in 1989....

On April of 2000. The FCC Restructured it's licenses... and I paid a renegade VE 50 bucks and Received my General Class Ticket... I often masturbate while thinking of linears for ILLEGAL FAGGOT KEYCLOWNS. And really think Riley is mean. Maybe if I sucked his dick he would not be after traitor scumbag shithunk fagboys like me.

My Call? Is a Vanity call that I paid for, it is my initials! Because as a Hopeless Gayboy Fatass Chump, I need something like that for my ego.

so there you go!

I hope this answers everything you wanted to know about me!

MY BIO!!!!!
K8CPA
Okay, this is the place where I tell you how I came to know how fucked up I am.... and all the personal information about me. I will try and answer all the questions:

Date of Birth: June 28, 1972 <in the fall of 71 my daddy fucked a pig, ya see>

Place of Birth: Detroit, Michigan <in an alley behind the unit block of Waterman Avenue>

Religious Information: Well, first off, I am NOT heterosexual! I am a faggot! I accepted penises as my personal Lord in 1980. I was all of 10 Years old, I knew exactly what I was doing, I knew that if I didn't get cock in my mouth, I would not See the Lord in the rapture of it's jizz pulsing. I have been butt pumped nightly for 12 Years. Although, I was "Backslidden" for about 6 of those years, while screwing female barnyard animals. I am now back serving my Lord penis. I would like to Thank the Rev. Jack Hizhogoff of Detroit Gayboy Outreach (Web at: http://www.dgo.fag) for standing in the gap and slapping his manly dick up my fat faggot ass, and for a playroom where people like me, who were burned by chickenhawks with syphylitic dicks and fellow fags in general, could come and give their hearts back to the Lord penis. My only regret is that Rev Hizhogoff had to start pushing his manly dick in my fat faggot ass to the point where I could not bear to bend over anymore, and I returned to my favorite pastime, cocksucking in the men's room of the Detroit bus station.

"Burned" by the syphylitic cocks in my mouth and asshole?: Yep, Sure was.... I was... like I said before, I was sucking when I was 10, (around 1980), I was originally sucking just anyone, especially born again Christians and other mentally fucked up Baptist types like me. I loved those guys when theyd tell me to tongue their assholes.
Condoms were a BIG no-no.... and I believed it!

Speed ahead 4 years. in 1984, The Baptist Church I went to had a bit of a controversy, The Pastor had resigned because he was caught bobbing on my young fat faggot pee pee, and things there were in a state of chaos, and my mom did not want to suffer having to put up with my faggot punk boy ass at home. She enrolled me into the Detroit Institute for Hopless Gayboy Fatass Chumps. I started attending and believe me, going to a Full-TILT anal only gayboy school. after attending one with a stated preference for teaching Hopless Gayboy Fatass Chumps to mainly suck dick, was a MAJOR SHOCK to my system! But one thing kept me from leaving the place, was the fact that these people seemed to really love the Lord Penis. and there was this one guy, named Robert Snyder, Who played the drums, like John Bonham, (from Led Zeppelin) and we got along great.... (Not to mention he would let me drink his jizz on the sly. That was HOT! least I thought so! Hey! I was 14 years old, and my hormones were at full TILT! So SUE ME!) (By the way, Snyder is now married to MoparHolic and living in Ohio. I'm very happy for him.
Anyhow... After being there for about a year. I started being interested in playing drums for them, as I was a drummer, from a young age... and I wanted to use my talent for the Lord Penis. Get one of those magnet mount bases that have 3 or 4 magnets in the base. I can't find the links, but it should hold up to some very high winds.

Heh, these Mexicans are digging machines when it comes to irrigation installation or plant material harvest. They out work whitey big time.

I wouldn't trust him with a de-thatch machine, you can really destroy your lawn if not done correctly. If you have an irrigation system, don't forget to mark your heads with flags first. Either machine will crush them.

Kinda reminds me of an episode of Cops I saw last night. There was a woman who flagged down the cops and said she gave someone $20 for crack, and they didn't give her the crack.

Maybe he should contact the FCC to see if they can mediate this dispute. :)

Most radios will put out about half the PEP on SSB. With the CB he describes, that would be about 6 watts average, peaking up to 12 watts if he gave a good 'ole boy "YeeHaw! I gots me a new lineear!" into the microphone, so overdriving is a definately posibility, but for it to blow with a short burst is really bad.

Of course, commercial amplifiers capable of operating 25 - 30mhz with drive that low out of the box are not legal to sell, so Copper is lucky the FCC hasn't snatched them up like they have so many other online CB shop.

Personally, I bought an Imax 2000 many years ago from them and it's still on the roof, working just fine!

Mexicans work very hard in Florida. Most of them pick fruit or cut grass or staff restaurants with lowpaying jobs such as bus boy or dishwasher, and many are illegal. They have the market cornered on cutting grass.
Where else can you get complete yard cuts from 6 to 10 bucks? That's the average price around here. They come in with a team and are done in

I wonder if he will trade me that for my 18 year old son that's in non-working condition. I could put it in his room and the money I save on food could pay to keep it keyed up 24/7

Excellent answer! My only addition is (and correct me if I'm wrong) electrons follow the surface of the wire and stranded wire offers more surface area than solid wire.

Sounds like somebody did a chop job on your rig. Some of that noise can be dealt with by installing a noise suppressor on the power cord as close as you can get it to the radio. That should kill the engine and fan noise and you can get one at any radio shack or walmart for about $10.00 But the best solution would be to find a COMPETENT service tech to repair the problem at its source.

At 11-meter frequencies it doesn't matter if you use stranded or solid unless you are going hundreds of feet. Stranded coax is a bit more flexible and forgiving of kinks. When you get into the UHF and microwave frequencies then you should use coax with a solid center conductor, as Frank said.

Here's a tip that helps me with the cold weather problem of coax that needs to flex. Use your high quality coax for the long run from your rig to the base of your antenna, I use LMR-400. Run a short piece of RG-8x from the base of the rotor to the connection on your antenna. You will need to replace it every few years but it's cheep and a length of 10 or so feet isn't going to give you much, if any measurable loss on 11-meters.

Good idea. It also provides a convenient break in the run to install a grounding block.

3897. Emperor ts-5010

I just bought a Emperor ts-5010 and performed some mods on my own that I found on the web.
All the info I find regarding this radio is about 2 to 3 years old.
What I really want to known is anyone aware of this mod and should I do it?

Tweak and Peak Emperor ts-5010

1-) Audio limiter - R247
2-) AM Power - VR 111
3-) SSB Power - VR 103

I have performed item 2 and 3 and opened them up all the way, but for some reason I'm kind of resitant to perform number one. (cut audio limiter - r247, since I dont know what the Audio Limiter does) Before I performed the step 2 and 3 the radio output was 10W AM and 20W SSB now it puts out 55W AM and 60W SSB. But everybody I talk with in the radio says that my audio is low or there is something wrong with my modulation.

Here is what I think:

After performed the step 2 and 3 the radio got unbalanced (high watts and wrong modulation) and if I perform step 1 the radio will get stable modulation should make it better. (I could be wrong I"m just a 25 year old guy learning about radios)

PS:
I have the best coax and I'm running a wilson sw2000

any suggestions/comments on the radio are appreciated.

Try lowering the power on both AM and SSB power to get decent headroom on both. What you have done is drive the output transistors to their maximum limits. Not a good thing.

some use tricks such as soaking the fruit in water to increase the weight, so you're buying water. The same is done with meat, they have special machines to roll the meat in - and even add other meats to chicken.
In tests, chicken coming from one EU country was found to contain other meats, while being marked OK for those who cannot touch such meats.

Just think, if soaking in water worked with CBs, you could put a small GE in a bucket for a couple of hours... and pull it out as a Madison.

Yep, he sounds more like a Keyclown every day. What do you think, maybe a closet Keyclown?

According to reports, "wap" 'phones in this country are now making child porn perverts impossible to trace. A main requirement before taking action against such people is that you know who they are - and can prove the "infringement" of such laws.
Maybe Frank believes that, due to the unenforceable nature of the medium, it is not illegal to view such filth on an untraceable connection to the Internet.

I'll remember that next time you lot are whining about CB rules not being enforced.

Unless the offender breaks into the property of a copyright owner and mutilates their original copy... then that is ALWAYS the case. If they did get to the authors original copy, then the case would be one of breaking in and criminal damage - not copyright.
Even the image on the site will not be an "original"... that is a copy of an image held somewhere else.

>You can also publically display copyrighted >material all you want if you are the owner of the copyright.

That was never in dispute.

>Registration is -not- a requirement for copyright protection. It -IS- a >requirement to seek civil remedies for infringement.

Exactly.
Just remember not to whine about non-enforcement of CB rules, because the FCC believe that the results do not justify the costs of action large enough to make even a small dent in the "problem".
We get the same over here, CB rules have been broken for years. The RIS got so fed up with being snowed under while under-funded, that they found a way around it:
1. Remove and change rules to make those people legal.
2. Force victims of interference to take a long and costly "remedy - or suffer".

The number of violators dropped rather quickly when they removed most of the unenforceable rules... and then again when they effectively stopped the complaints by putting the procedure out of sight and out of reach.

At least we all know where you stand on the matter of "infringement" (law breaking)... it's fine to "freeband", as long as nobody can claim those frequencies are being "stolen" from them.
Anyway, they still have the original frequencies in their radio... freebanders are only using the copies in their radios :~)

Or maybe Peter believes that by drawing a line connecting keyclowns with child porn is somehow going to validate his argument.... This wasn't a contest, Peter, but you are sure acting like a sore loser.

The facts are: 1) no connection is untraceable; 2) child porn perverts -do- get busted (several hundred in a single sting operation last year, or don't you read the news?); 3) no child pornographer is ever going to file a claim of copyright infringement, and therefore the issue of child porn has absolutely nothing to do with copyright infringement; and 4) you are a hypocrite for even trying to make such a connection when it is that very same behavior by others in this newsgroup that you have claimed to despise.

And the concept that "a law is not a law unless it can be enforced" is an old one, and certainly -doesn't- apply to keyclowns since those laws can indeed be enforced -- the FCC is just too busy taking bids (and probably kickbacks) on prime spectrum space.

Got any more lame arguments?

I've got one, unfortunately, I'm not selling it. Never!

Just thought that I'd let you know that the Connex 4800 is the same radio with a different name. Well, at least the early version was. The newer version has a few enhancements made to it like Hi/Low power switch, Echo, Talk-Back... Not sure what else. If you can't find the DX+ (which is currently an EXTREMELY RARE find), and aren't concerned about the name on the front of the unit, you might want to look into the Connex.

Actually if you install a grounding block and lightning hits you replace your coax, your antenna and a grounding block. They don't do squat. Most antennas are at DC ground anyway so ground your entire system not just the coax. Of course if you are using a dipole you should be using a BALUN and most come with a ground connection. DON'T expect it to save your radio in the event of a direct (or close) strike. You are looking at hundreds of millions of volts at hundreds of thousands of amps. That little grounding block is going to vaporize along with your coax. If you want real protection visit poliphaser. They have excellent stuff (at more than "excellent" prices). Don't buy the $20 grounding blocks and expect protection.

3920. KL40 amp problems

Newsgroup: rec.radio.cb

Message-ID: <oebs30hra214s8vi25gj6qlgnthss83f26@4ax.com>

I just bought a few of these for myself and friends. None of them seem to be working. I have emailed RMITALY and am waiting for a response.

They draw 180ma whether on or off. When driven with 3 watts AM into a 50 ohm dummy load, it draws 500ma (whether on or off) but has no RF output.

An SWR meter shows very high SWR between the radio and the amp.

With the amp out of the circuit, I see 1.0 SWR and 3 watts on the meter.

With power to the amp off, and 3 watts AM in, there is no RF out.

Three KL40's I've tested are doing the same thing.

Is it possible they switched the wiring to the PL-259's for a big run of these?

Anyone seen this problem with KL40's?

Excellent point, especialy since it has been shown members of Team Voob

I just bought a few of these for myself and friends. None of them seem to be working. I have emailed RMITALY and am waiting for a response.
They draw 180ma whether on or off. When driven with 3 watts AM into a 50 ohm dummy load, it draws 500ma (whether on or off) but has no RF output.
An SWR meter shows very high SWR between the radio and the amp.
With the amp out of the circuit, I see 1.0 SWR and 3 watts on the meter.
With power to the amp off, and 3 watts AM in, there is no RF out.
Three KL40's I've tested are doing the same thing.
Is it possible they switched the wiring to the PL-259's for a big run of these?
Anyone seen this problem with KL40's?

Just a thought,,,,can your dummy load be bad?
NO RF output at all doesn't seem probable on all three units. Try keying it in real time on the air,,,then report back with frequency and results. I know an ambulance driver that owns one,,never had a problem with his after he had it tweaked in south St. Pete, but man he sure does bleed. I left a message on his answering machine and gave him your email. Good luck.

When the amp is out of the circuit, I have the radio going into the meter and dummy load. The meter shows SWR=1.0 (as it should) and approximately the same power as the radio meter.

One other oddity. Before I power up the radio, the amp is drawing zero current. As soon as I power up the radio (on RX), the amp starts drawing 180 ma, whether it is switched on or off.

I assume this amp has transmit sense and can be used with a transceiver.

Impossible. The amp has no input for the powered condition of the radio (receive).

Wrong -- it's very possible. That is a MOSFET amp with no power switch. A bad combination to be sure, because as long as there is source-drain voltage, any kind of signal can drive it to some extent. It's possible that C1 could be shorted (after all, it's only rated for 50 volts) and the output of the radio have a DC component. Or if D2 is blown (a 1N4148 passing 3 watts -- yikes!) D1 will hold a nice, steady DC bias on the MOSFET. There are a lot of possible scenarios for what he is describing. What -is- impossible is for you to think before you demonstrate your ignorance. Haven't we been through this before, Tnom? Didn't you learn anything the first dozen times?

But hey, it's a cheap and crappy amp, and you get what you pay for.

>Do you have the coax in-out connected backwards?

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1384 February 20, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1384 with a release date of Friday, February 20, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T.

Reaction begins to the FCC on B-P-L, Hamvention will probably remain in Dayton and restructuring continues around the world. These stories and more coming your way on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1384, right now.

(Billboard Cart Here)

THE BPL FIGHT: ARRL REACTS TO FCC NPRM

The ARRL and many others in ham radio are not happy with last weeks FCC decision to proceed with further implementation of Broadband Over Powerline, and they are making their position known. Amateur Radio Newsline's Mark Abramovich, NT3V, has been following developments and has more in this report:

To say American Radio Relay League President Jim Haynie W5JBP was disappointed with the FCC's decision to issue a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on Broadband Over Powerlines might be an understatement.

Haynie sat in on the FCC's Feb. 12 meeting in Washington, D.C. and admits he was dumbfounded when many of the commissioners expressed excitement about the possibilities of BPL, ignoring interference concerns expressed by their technical staff.

"To have Commissioner (Kathleen) Abernathy come out in her initial speech that blew us away and her unbounded enthusiasm and then turn around at the hearing I attended and listen to Commissioner (Jonathan) Adelstein allude to unsubstantiated reports of interference and I was livid," Haynie says.

Haynie says the commissioners look more like cheerleaders for, than regulators of, the communications industry.

"It just seems to me though that the commission has gone from a regulatory agency to a Chamber of Commerce," Haynie says. "Their eagerness to implement this prior to the NTIA study rollout, which they actually have a letter from a congressman asking them to wait, seemed to me it was put on the fast track and try to beat the NTIA results."

Haynie says lots of what he heard about what's supposed to be in the NPRM does not bode well for amateur radio. But he says there are some burdens on the electric utilities.

"They put a lot of constraints on the BPL industry," Haynie explains. "They have to react in real time, they have to be frequency agile. They have to have public web sites, they've got to have somebody on duty 24-7 to mitigate complaints of interference."

Ah, yes, interference. BPL proponents claim hams don't know what they're talking about.

"I've heard reports of some of the BPL industry spokesman who flat deny that there's a problem," Haynie says. "There never has been a problem, there can't be a problem. "In several interviews I've done with the regular press it was: 'Okay, go down a buy you a short-wave receiver at Radio Shack. Go down there and listen to it for yourself. I don't have to give you all these engineering data, you can hear it for yourself.'

"The utilities, they are being hand-held very carefully by the BPL industry and being told: "There's not a problem, there's not a problem.' "

Haynie says profit for the equipment manufacturers and the utilities is clearly the motive for BPL.

"Any CEO worth his salt who's running a power company is going to try to figure out more ways to get investment return for his investors," Haynie says. "He's got a grid there and if these salesmen come in and tell him: 'Well look, you know, we can bring you in an extra million dollars a day or million dollars a week for your power grid and it's not going to cost you anything other than just put these little devices on every quarter mile.' Why not?"

But Haynie says a recent Carnegie Mellon University study of the BPL business model identifies pitfalls.

"It would take 17 years for the recovery of the initial investment," Haynie says. "And that puzzled me until I read the article and it said because broadband is dropping, DSL dial-up is getting cheaper every month.

"Deals are coming out, Verizon's fixin' to come out with some more stuff. The old thing $30 a month is going to be high. And that's what BPL wants right now, $30 for a residential, $50 for a business."

Haynie accuses proponents of deception proponents in "selling" the concept. He says the claim it will finally connect rural areas of the country to high-speed internet access is, well, hogwash!

"We know that what the BPL industry wants to do is pick the low-hanging fruit, the high-density population areas," Haynie says. "But that's the selling point they're using on the (Capitol) Hill. And that's the selling point they use with the commission. I heard Chairman (Michael) Powell say that himself along with several of the other commissioners.

"They have been sold this bill of goods. And if anybody would stop and think about it, if it was such a good deal to serve five customers in a four-square-mile area, the DSL and the cable people would be doing it now."

Haynie says he's seen and heard criticism of ARRL, much of it declaring the League hasn't done enough to address the BPL threat.

"Let me assure you, we have done a lot, and we have talked to a lot of our potential allies," Haynie says."We've had one, in-face meeting in Washington. We do constant e-mails back and forth.

"But I am not going to, and the League is not going to, reveal all the things we're working on because that would be ridiculous to show the hand to the industry. Let them figure out what we're up to."

What can you do and where do Haynie and the League see this going? Tune in next week for part two of our interview with Jim Haynie W5JBP.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Mark Abramowicz, NT3V, in Philadelphia

WITH THE ARRL: THREE LONGTIME AWARDS DISCONTINUED

Meantime, the ARRL Awards Branch has discontinued three longtime awards programs. Gone are the Rag Chewer's Club, the Old Timer's Club and the Friendship Awards.

According to the ARRL Letter, the society’s Membership Services Manager Wayne Mills, N7NG, says that the number of amateurs applying for awards in general has declined significantly over the years, and interest in these three awards had slowed to a trickle.

Mills says that the awards programs eliminated had outlived their interest level. He adds that the cessation of the three awards is effective immediately. (ARRL)

RESTRUCTURING: NEW RULES FOR DANISH HAMS

More restructuring of ham radio is taking place around the world. This, as a set of new Amateur Radio regulations have been introduced in Denmark that make the nation code-free. Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, reports:

The Danish Information Technology and Telecom Agency has announced new regulations for radio amateurs in Denmark. The main feature of the new regulations is the elimination of the Morse code examination for access to the HF bands. Danish radio amateurs are also now allowed to use parts of the 4-meter band without a special permit. These are: 70.0125 to 70.0625, 70.0875 to 70.1125, 70.3125 to 70.3875 and 70.4125 to 70.4875MHz. Beacons are allowed in the 70.0125 to 70.0500MHz portion of the band. Detailed Danish 70MHz band plans can be found on the Internet.

I’m G4NJH in Nottingham.

The new regulations came into effect on the 1st of February. (GB2RS)

RESTRUCTURING: CROATIAN HAMS GET NEW PRIVILEGES ON 40 METERS

Croatia has become the first country in Region 1 to benefit from the expansion of the 40-meter band agreed at the World Radio Conference in Switzerland last summer. 9 A prefix amateurs have also been given privileges at 70 and 3400MHz and now no longer have to pass a Morse code test for access to the HF bands.

New amateur radio regulations came into effect in Croatia on the 26th of December but have only recently been announced to the world. Since that date Croatian amateurs have been permitted to operate between 7100 and 7200 kilohertz on a Secondary basis, with a maximum power of 1000 watts P-E-P. This is in addition to the normal Region 1 allocation of 7000 to 7100 kilohertz.

On 4 meters, Croatian amateurs now have 70.000 to 70.450 MHz, with a power limit of 10 watts. They also gain a new band between 3400 and 3410 MHz, with a maximum permitted power of 150 watts.

And like so many other nations, the Morse code requirement for an H-F band access license has been dropped. Under the new regulations and there are now only two classes in Croatia. They are the full license and a beginners' ticket. (GB2RS)

CONVENTIONS: HAMVENTION HOPES TO STAY IN DAYTON

Hamvention will probably stay in the Dayton Ohio area. This, according to the event’s General Chairman Gary Des Combes, N8EMO. In an interview with the Rain Report, Des Combes says that Dayton is the Hamvention’s home:

Des Combes: “My personal goal, and the goal of all of the volunteers is to maintain the show in Dayton Ohio. This is where it started and we would love to have it stay here. The plan we have no is to continue to go in that direction.”

--

How do planners intend to do this?

--

Des Combes: “What we need to do as a volunteer team is to work smarter, harder and more efficiently. Make the dollar ‘squeal’ so that the cost to the attendee and the flea-marketer and the exhibitors stay reasonable.”

--

What about the rumors of a move away from Dayton?

--

Des Combes: “There have been questions, quite frankly, from the exhibitors and others about wanting to move to newer and nicer facilities, but there are significant costs associated with that, and its our goal to keep this show a volunteer show because -- quite frankly -- we can do it better and more economically than if we went to a larger venue.”

--

Keeping the show in Dayton is only a small part of what Gary De Combes has to say about Hamvention 2004. Part one of the Rain interview with De Combes is on-line right now at www.rainreport.com and on the phone at 847-827-7246. Part 2 will be available on Friday, February 27th.

Hamvention 2004 takes place May 14, 15 and 16th at its traditional home at the Hara Arena in Dayton Ohio. (ARNewsline (tm), RAIN)

ENFORCEMENT: EX-KG6IRO DUE BACK TO COURT

I’m Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, with a late breaking story. Dateline Los Angeles California where former ham Jack Gerritsen, the ex-KG6IRO is headed back to court. This time for a probation hearing and sentenceing on charges that he tresspassed on a federal instalation. Bur local hams haqve gotten themselves involved in the sentencing proceedure and are trying to convince Judge Carolyn Turchin of United States District Court to ban Gerritsen from owening or operarating any transmitting equipment -- of any sort -- during his probation period.

This action appears to be a grass-roots effort by repeater owner operators all across Southern California who believe that Gerritsen is responsible for interference to their systems. They are asking all of their users and other hams in the area to send a letter to Judge Turchin explaining the importance of quashing any source of interference that could cause problems during emergencies. They also want to let the judge know all about Gerritsen’s past record and have her order him to stay away from ham radio or any other two-way service as a restriction of his probation.

Judge Turchin has set Monday, February 23rd for the hearing. Will let you know the outcome in next weeks Amateur Radio Newsline report. (ARNewsline(tm))

RADIO EDUCATION: TEXAS HAM DONATES STATION TO SCHOOL

The San Angelo Texas Planning Commission has approved a 40 foot Amateur Radio tower for Santa Rita Elementary School. San Angelo businessman, Kenneth Gunther, W5ZJ, plans to donate the tower, a rotor, antenna's and radio equipment to the educational institution. The radio gear and antenna system will allow students to learn about telecommunications technology and earn their ham radio licenses.

W5ZJ, is the owner of Gunter Wholesale Electric Company. His donated tower will be erected inside the courtyard of the elementary school's main building. Plans for the 40 foot tower passed 6-1 after a motion to allow a 50 foot tower failed 4-3. (San Angelo Standard Times, WB5T)

RADIO GOOD-GUYS: COLORADO YOUTH RADIOS IN REPORT OF FOUND POLICE TWO-WAY

A Highlands Ranch, Colorado, teen appears to have done the right thing when he found a Denver police radio on Monday the 16th. Not sure what the unit was, he used it to let the police force know he had it.

The 13-year-old boy found the radio in the yard of a nearby home. This, after he saw it thrown from a sport utility vehicle. The unidentified youngster retrieved it, figured out how to turn it on and used the radio to tell a police dispatcher that he had it.

Denver police and Douglas County sheriff's officials were working to retrieve the radio. Officials say that they hadn't been notified that a radio was missing, and investigators were trying to determine who it belonged to. They are also looking into how this radio got out of the City and County of Denver.

ROAD RADIO SAFETY: STUDY FINDS LOTS OF IN-CAR DISTRACTIONS

Drivers are distracted 16.1 percent of the time their vehicles were moving and cellphones nor two-way radio is not the main culprit. This, according to a study conducted by the auto club and researchers at the University of North Carolina.

The investigation tracked 70 drivers from North Carolina and Pennsylvania. It found that Cellular telephones were not the major distraction. In fact only 30 percent of the subjects used a cell phone while their vehicle was moving compared with 97 percent who leaned over to reach for something and 91 percent who fiddled with the controls on their car’s entertainment system.

The study found all drivers fiddle with their radios or engage in other distracting behavior. This, even when they're being watched as part of a study on distracted drivers. (Science OnLine)

THE ELECTRONICS INDUSTRY: CES PREDICTS GOOD SALES IN 2004

The Consumer Electronics Association -- better known by the initials CES -- says that the wholesale electronics market in 2004 is likely to grow to 100 point 99 billion dollars in sales. That's up 5 percent over 2003 and a major improvement over three years of negative or minimal growth.

CES is a trade group representing audio, video and mobile electronics makers. It says that the U.S. consumer electronics market is seeing a sharp growth in video products, which has helped to offset the decline in stand-alone audio products and in-car consumer electronics. Sales of new technologies such as plasma television screens were expected to generate nearly $1.5 billion in revenues for 2003, nearly tripling from $515 million just one year earlier. Growth in consumer electronics last peaked in 2000, when sales rose 12.7 percent to $96.37 billion over 1999. (Adapted from CES release)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: AMSAT SAYS IT NEEDS $110,000 TO LAUNCH ECHO

AMSAT says that it urgently needs to raise $110,000 to help defray the launch of the Echo ham radio satellite. The bird is scheduled to ride into orbit thus coming June 29th, and the money has to be raided well before that date.

AMSAT like Amateur Radio Newsline is a federally recognized tax exempt 501(c)(3) organization, and your donation should be tax deductible in the United States. Information on how to support the Echo launch and other ham radio in space projects is on the web at www.amsat.org (AMSAT-NA)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: U-O-SAT AT AGE 20

Meantime, there’s a big anniversary coming up for ham radio space operations. March 1st marks the 20th anniversary of the UO11 ham radio satellite on-orbit. We have more in this report:

--

On the 1st March the UO-11 ham radio satellite, which is also known as UOSAT 2 will have been in space for two decades. To mark the event, AMSAT-UK will be issuing a commemorative QSL card in exchange for listener reports from stations hearing the signals during the month of March. The reports must be made by way of the reporting page on the web site and the QSL card will be in the form of a downloadable "E-QSL".

By way of background, UO-11 was the second satellite to be launched by Martin Sweeting, G3YJO's, group at the University of Surrey in here in England. Its telemetry beacon can still be heard on 145.825 MHz FM using nothing more than a handheld 2 meter rig. There is also a 2401.5 MHz beacon but signal is not very strong and represents quite a challenge.

Depending on the status of the satellite, it sometimes goes into 'safe' mode, and the beacon transmitters are not activate for days at a time. Because of this, University of Surrey ground station controllers will attempt to maximise the number of days the transmitters are active during the month of March.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Rick Johnson, KA9VZD reporting.

THAT FINAL ITEM: THE LONG HAM RADIO WALK

And finally this week, the story of a long walk that’s taking ham radio with it. Jim Meachen, ZL2BHF reports:

Tony Whitaker, G3RKL, from Sheffield, in the United Kingdom is off to New Zealand for a short walk. Well not exactly a short walk. More like 750 miles as Whitaker treks from Invercargill to Blenheim, along State Highway 6 up the West Coast of the South Island. And he will operate an Amateur Radio station along the way.

Whitaker will be on the air using the special callsign ZL6SHS on H-F, V-H-F and U-H-F while actually walking. He also plans to use F-M simplex, Echolink and I-R-L-P Internet-linked repeaters in places where they are available. He will use them to keep in touch with his ham radio friends back home in the U-K.

Whitaker’s marathon walk starts in Invercargill on the 21st of February. If all goes to plan he is scheduled to arrive in Blenheim on the 8th of April -- probably a bit tired -- but very satisfied. We will keep you posted on his progress.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline down-under, I’m Jim Meachen, ZL2BHF.

This is not Whitaker’s fist long ham radio walk. He has already made seven others including one in Australia. (GB2RS)

I stand by my post. There is no voltage on the radios coax on receive that will activate the amps increase in current draw. You should pay more attention. Even if there was a DC voltage C1 on the amp would block it.

Heal thyself. In the first manner, there is no need for projected disdain and insult towards one who you disagre with. Keeping wiht the subject of the group and discussing the electronic possibilities that may or may not be wrong without insult is a good way to try and lose the deficit in communication you portray that has you becoming an insultive jack ass to a poster in a group for merely offering a differing point of =view than yourself. Your level of intolerance for differing views llustrates your true level of intellect and communication skills.

The chance of probablility you offer concerning your weak input concerning all three amps having the same short is ridiculous, like most of your ignorant and abusive posts that were responsible for you having no choice but to subscribe to a pay access in order to access the group in the most obsessive manner.

Just make sure you get a competent tech to perform the marriage ceremony correctly between the radio and amp, not one who impersonates a tech and claims you should probably replace c-1 in all three brand new amps.

It can if the cause of the short is common to all three amps, such as a fault in the radio testing the amps. I guess you -didn't- learn the first dozen times.

Did I say I believe they all had bad caps? No. I said it was -possible-, and it is. Better read more carefully or TwistyDave is going to start whining about your communication deficits.

>You'd do a better job in enhancing your worth to this group if you'd

But I -do- know when not to post -- I don't post when I don't know what I'm talking about, like issues regarding many popular radios such as Ranger, RCI, etc. I don't know anything about those except that most are easily modified to operate illegally. I couldn't tell you anything beyond that. What I -do- know is how to read a schematic, how to analyze a bad circuit, and how to locate possible causes of failure. And I -do- know how an RF amplifier works, as well as the operational characteristics of each and every component, active and passive. I -also- know that manufacturing processes can sometimes turn loose an entire lot of bad products, whether they are the final products or their components. And yes, I -also- know that sometimes there are unknown faults in equipment that can cause failures in other equipment. And I -=ALSO=- know that some people will keep replacing fuses as fast as they blow them without even thinking that the fault is not the fuse. In other words, it is not uncommon for someone to test two or more brand new products, discover that they are broken, and not realize that they were rendered non-functional as a result of their own bad test equipment or procedure. This happens quite frequently when the products have very static sensitive components (such as MOSFET's). You have therefore demonstrated that you have very little, if any, experience working with such devices, and should probably take your own advice (learn when not to post).

That's probably a good thing. The point was that there is no 'good' method to protect against lighting except to unplug. Some loudmouth wannabe was trying to pass off the idea that you can leave your equipment connected, even the coax, as long as the house has a central grounding point. I'm betting that he works for some company that reaps the benefits of lightning damage......

Cause and effect, Peter. But make sure you have your causes and effects matched up correctly. Now, back to copyright infringement.....

The frequencies being "stolen" are "registered" with the federal government, which makes the violators subject to "remedies for infringement". You lose again, Peter. Don't you even think about this stuff before you type it?

Now that's just plain dumb.

Over this side of the pond, the Jumbos were quite a cult radio. I think that the attraction may have been the diagram on the top, handles on the sides, and the size of the thing. It was so big, it just had to be powerful :~)
For such a big radio, with SSB, the PSU seemed pretty poor.
I remember the early ones having terrible FM audio, you could tell people who were using them or the early Multimodes. They may as well have shouted out on all the channels, "I use an illegal CB, and I vote"... or something like that.

Regards.

Peter.

You go all around the houses, trying to pretend that no law was broken, then finally admit that it was. But that's OK... because he can get away with it.

Doing a U-turn", in an attempt to mask your previous claims - then declaring the other person the "loser" will not work.
You finally admitted what I already said... you agree with violating certain laws, because the victims may not be able (or willing) to take action.

>The facts are: 1) no connection is untraceable;

Really. How does one trace the user of a mobile 'phone? For example, the company who provide my mobile 'phone service have no details of my name or address... but I still have the service. I just go to a shop, and "top up" the phone at any time. If I violated terms of service, at best all they could do is to shut down the service. I could then sell the 'phone in a free-ads paper and get another. Just like Google accounts - if you get "busted, you just get another.
The "untraceable" reports are being mentioned on UK TV and radio, and by child protection groups... so take up the argument with them.

> 2) child porn perverts -do- get busted >(several hundred in a single sting operation last year, >or don't you read the news?);

I think you need to look up a bit more, get the full facts.

The American "sting" operation identified many UK perverts. Try finding out how FEW of those perverts actually got "busted". The UK police have a long list of "perverts" handed to them by the American police... but are sitting on that list.
There is a big difference between being "stung" by some operation and being successfully prosecuted... specially if you happen to be members of the UK Government.
Oh yes, some Government perverts were reportedly "stung", but they have not been dealt with. In fact, the story seems to have been dropped. No doubt, when Tony p*ss*s off another one of his ministers, they will then spill the beans on who is involved - like they have on the spying done on U.N. people.

3) no child pornographer is ever going to file a claim of copyright >infringement,

That's it, Frankie... twist and squirm with silly replies.

>Got any more lame arguments?

Have you got any more lame excuses why you and your buddies should be exempt from the law?

Here you go, Frankie... I'll try to put it in terms that even you should be able to understand:
What stops enforcement of CB laws:
Time, money and resources. Clearly the authorities are unwilling to spend the money on the equipment and work-force needed to tackle the "problem".

What stops the UK taking enforcement against the perverts identified by the American "sting" operation:
Time, money and resources. The department is under-funded and under-staffed. In fact, it has been reported that they are so under-funded that they are relying on software that can be obtained free. Not that which is best for the job - that which is free.

What stops enforcement action against some copyright violators.
Time, money and resources. All it takes is registration to allow them to take legal action - but that costs money. If someone has many items to copyright, then the costs can be high, and staff may be needed just to deal with registration of material as it is created.

Put simply, same thing.
If you believe that, because a copyright holder will not spend time and money on actions needed to enforce the law, that breaking that law is acceptable, then you are suggesting that all other laws which lack the funding to enforce them are fair game for criminals.

You claim to be "pro-legal", yet stand up for breaking certain laws... because you can get away with it.

His name is Twistedhed oh yeah
He's a buttpumper extrordinaire
UFO men talk to him and pinch his bum Dead mackerel stink up his PO box some He's psychotic and neurotic and in a tizzy
Cuz a guy named Doug keeps him busy
But he goes on quacking about government conspiracy
While he does CB mods for his neighbors in Ft. Lee
So the FCC is gonna come and get him finally
And handcuffs he will wear someday

3994. MAKE LOTS OF MONIES NOW

MAKE THOUSANDS!!!

I found this on a bulletin board and decided to try it: I don't care about the useless pre-fabricated crap this message usually says. All I say is, it works. Continue pre-fab crap.

WELL GUESS WHAT!!!

Within five days, I started getting money in the mail!! I was shocked!! I figured it would end soon, but the money just kept coming in. In my first week, I made about $63.00 By the end of the second week I had made a total of $1873.00!! In the third week I had made a total of $9,612.00 and more mail kept coming in!! This is now my fourth week and I have made a total of $35,165.00 and it's still coming rapidly. It's certainly worth $6.00 and six stamps, and I have spent more than that on the lottery without ever winning!!!
My mailman asked me what was with all the mail , and when i showed him this system he was amazed and got going at it . Everyday he thanks me , it feels good to know your helping make other pepole have more time and money to do the things they care about most .(Dont let this pass you buy , it so easy and it realy does work) also make sure you print this out NOW, so you can get the information off of it, as you will need it. I promise you that if you follow the directions exactly that you will start making more money than you thought possible by doing something so easy!!
Let me tell you how this works and most important, why it works.....

Suggestion: Read this entire message carefully!! (Print it out or download it)

Follow the simple directions and watch the money come in!! It's easy. It's legal. And, your investment is only $6.00 (Plus postage) !!!

IMPORTANT:

This is not a rip-off, it is decent; it's legal; and it is virtually no risk - it really works!! If all the following instructions are adhered to, you will receive extraordinary dividends.

PLEASE NOTE:

Please follow the directions EXACTLY, and $50,000 or more can be yours in 20 to 60 days. This program remains successful because of the honesty and integrity of the participants. Please continue its success by carefully adhering to the instructions. You will now become apart of the Mail Order business. You are in the business of developing Mailing Lists. Many large corporations are happy to pay big bucks for quality lists. However, the money made from the mailing lists is secondary to income which is made from people like you and me asking to be included in that list. Here are the four easy steps to success.

STEP ONE:

Get six separate pieces of paper and write the following on each piece of paper "PLEASE PUT ME ON YOUR MAILING LIST." Now get 6 U.S. $1.00 bills and place ONE inside of EACH of the six pieces of paper so the bill will not be seen through the envelope (to prevent thievery). Next, place one paper in each of the six envelopes and seal them. You now should have six sealed envelopes, each with a piece of paper stating the above phrase, your name and address, and a $1.00 bill. What you are doing is creating a service.

THIS IS ABSOLUTELY LEGAL!!!!!

You are requesting a legitimate service and you are paying for it!! Like most of us I was a little skeptical and little worried about the legal aspects of it all. So I checked it out with the U.S. Post Office (1-800-238-5355) and they confirmed that it is indeed legal!!

Mail the six envelopes to the following addresses:

1) G. Burrows
1/264 Tor St
Toowoomba QLD
4350 Australia

2) J. Safian
6950 W. Forest Presrv. Dr., #115
Norridge, IL 60706-1324

3) R. Ansems
Gen. Foulkesstraat 5
4641 BW Ossendrecht
Netherlands

4) C. Milligan
6597 Herry Rd.
Vernon BC
Canada

V1B3T6

5) Foster
39 Poplar Avenue,
Hollins,
Oldham,
England

6) Jack Burke
220 Kingsbury Drive
Aptos,Ca. 95003-5003
U.S.A.

STEP TWO:Now take the #1 name off the list that you see above, move the other names up (six becomes 5, 5 becomes 4, and etc.) and add YOUR NAME as number 6 on the list.

STEP THREE:
Change anything you need to but try to keep this article as close to original as possible. Now post your amended article to at least 200 news groups. :
(I think there are close to 24,000 groups) All you need is 200, but remember, the more you post, the more money you make!! This is perfectly legal!! If you have any doubts, refer to Title 18 Sec. 1302 & 1341 of the Postal Lottery laws. Keep a copy of these steps for yourself and whenever you need money, you can use it again, and again. PLEASE REMEMBER that this program remains successful because of the honesty and integrity of the participants and by their carefully adhering to directions. Look at it this way. If you were of integrity, the program will continue and the money that so many others have received will come your way.

NOTE: You may want to retain every name and address sent to you, either on a computer or hard copy and keep the notes people send you. This VERIFIES that you are truly providing a service. (Also, it might be a good idea to wrap the $1 bill in dark paper to reduce the risk of mail theft). So, as each post is downloaded and the directions carefully followed, all members will be reimbursed for their participation as a List Developer with one dollar each. Your name will move up the list geometrically so that when your name reaches the #1 position you will be receiving thousands of dollars in CASH!!! What an opportunity for only $6.00 ($1.00 for each of the first six people listed above) Send it now, add your own name to the list and you're in business!!!

DIRECTIONS FOR HOW TO POST TO NEWS GROUPS!!!**

STEP ONE: You do not need to re-type this entire letter to do your own posting. Simply put your cursor at the beginning of this letter and drag your cursor to the bottom of this document, and select 'copy' from the edit menu. This will copy the entire letter into the computer's memory.

STEP TWO:
Open a blank 'notepad' file and place your cursor at the top of the blank page. From the 'edit' menu select 'paste'. This will paste a copy of the letter into the notepad so that you will add your name to the list.

STEP THREE:
Save your new notepad file as a text file. If you want to do your posting in different settings, you'll always have this file to go back to.

STEP FOUR:
You can use a program like "postXpert" to post to all the newsgroups at once.
You can find this program at <http://www.download.com>.

Use Netscape or Internet Explorer and try searching for various new groups (on- line forums, message boards, chat sites, discussions.)

STEP FIVE:
Visit message boards and post this article as a new message by highlighting the text of this letter and selecting paste from the edit menu. Fill in the subject, this will be the header that everyone sees as they scroll through the list of postings in a particular group, click the post message button. You're done.

Congratulations!!!!!!

THAT'S IT!! All you have to do, and It Really works!!!

Best Wishes

I certainly don't speak for New Yorkers. But in case you didn't notice, both NYC and Spokane, WA have something in common -- a president. I really don't care about his or anyone else's heritage (or for that matter his religion, race, skin color, sexual preference or intenstinal regularity) except when he claims that he -might- be a Jew just to cover his logistics. That's no better than when Dean found religion while swinging through the deep South and lost it again when he went back North. It's a gimmick. Nothing more than a trick used by politicians to get votes when they can't address the issues. They use other gimmicks, such as convincing voters that they will be 'wasting their votes' by voting for someone who can't win, or that people should vote even if they don't understand the issues (a tactic which usually favors aesthetics over qualifications). Don't feel bad if you got suckered by any of these tricks because it happens to lots of people, which is why they are still used.

BTW, if you are suggesting that I, Frank GILLILAND, am somehow opposed to an Irish president, then maybe you -should- explain the phrase 'putz'.....

TRC-23B 'NAVAHO', TRC-40 'NAVAHO PRO'

Pin 1 - Audio Pin 2 - Shield
Pin 3 - Gnd on TX

.....which is why I asked which model. And for future reference, the mic for the TRC-24B does -not- use the familiar DIN-type connector, and while the pinouts are correct and pin 2 is not connected in the radio, the mic was used with other radios and was wired so pin 2 is shorted to pin 4 in Rx.

You are wrong. I never admitted he broke the law. The problem is that you have yet to show which law you claim was violated.

The willingness of a victim to take action has nothing to do with whether a law was violated or not. And if the ability of a victim to take action somehow prevents the enforcement of law then nobody would ever be convicted of murder.

Don't you need to pay for the service? Doesn't the phone use some sort of unique identification (like, for instance, a 'phone number')? Can this mobile phone access all the cell towers in the world at the same time? Is it immune to triangulation? And if you dispose of the phone, does it somehow sterilize itself of any trace evidence (remembering that a phone is something you hold to your head and speak into; i.e, it collects hair, dandruff and saliva)? And not forgetting how this world is turning into a giant television studio, does this phone somehow render you invisible to surveillance cameras and microphones whenever you use it? If it does all of that then I would consider it to be 'untraceable'.

That's it, Peter... selectively snip the relevant portions of my statements like Twisty. The fact is that -you- put the "twist and squirm" on the discussion by bringing up kiddie porn. Here's the full quote:

Again, willingness to enforce the law does not nullify its violation.

Yet they still operate. If the violators were impossible to trace (your own words), then there is no point in trying, is there? But they still try. If their conviction rate is zero, why do they keep trying, Peter?

>What stops enforcement action against some copyright violators.

Even after all this time, you -=STILL=- haven't even read the code. Registering a copyright allows the victim to take -civil- action. There is also -criminal- action for copyright violators for which the owner of the copyright needs no registration, and those violations are specified in the -criminal- part of the code which I have already quoted and you subsequently ignored. THOSE are the laws under which a violation can occur, and can therefore be enforced. I'll say it another way for your mentally challenged self: A copyright has limitations, and there can be no violation outside of those limits. Let's even put this to an analogy: You can drive your vehicle as fast as you want just as long as you don't exceed the speed limit. Is this sinking in? Need me to draw you a picture? Sheesh, what a dumbass!

>Put simply, same thing.
>If you believe that, because a copyright holder will not spend time and

No, that's not what I believe at all, and I never said anything of the sort. You might have an easier time understanding what I say if you spend a little more effort reading the words I actually type instead of trying to divine my thoughts from thin air.

>You claim to be "pro-legal", yet stand up for breaking certain >laws... because you can get away with it.

You are a hypocrite for even suggesting such a thing. You should go back to discussing kiddie porn -- it seems you are well versed on that topic.

Try looking up the term 'positivism' in reference to jurisprudence. You might also stop by your local public library and see if they have a copy of "The Concept of Law" by H.L.A. Hart (Oxford, 1961). Excellent book.... that is, it -could- be an excellent book if you can overcome your communication deficit long enough to read it.

Next, place one paper in each of the six envelopes and seal them. You now should have six sealed envelopes, each with a piece of paper stating the above phrase, your name and address, and a $1.00 bill. What you are doing is creating a service.

THIS IS ABSOLUTELY LEGAL!!!!!

You are requesting a legitimate service and you are paying for it!! Like most of us I was a little skeptical and little worried about the legal aspects of it all. So I checked it out with the U.S. Post Office (1-800-238-5355) and they confirmed that it is indeed legal!!

Mail the six envelopes to the following addresses:

1) G. Burrows
1/264 Tor St
Toowoomba QLD
4350 Australia

2) J. Safian
6950 W. Forest Presrv. Dr., #115
Norridge, IL 60706-1324

3) R. Ansems
Gen. Foulkesstraat 5
4641 BW Ossendrecht
Netherlands

4) C. Milligan
6597 Herry Rd.
Vernon BC
Canada

V1B3T6

5) Foster
39 Poplar Avenue,
Hollins,
Oldham,
England

6) Jack Burke
220 Kingsbury Drive
Aptos,Ca. 95003-5003
U.S.A.

STEP TWO:Now take the #1 name off the list that you see above, move the other names up (six becomes 5, 5 becomes 4, and etc.) and add YOUR NAME as number 6 on the list.

STEP THREE:
Change anything you need to but try to keep this article as close to original as possible. Now post your amended article to at least 200 news groups. :
(I think there are close to 24,000 groups) All you need is 200, but remember, the more you post, the more money you make!! This is perfectly legal!! If you have any doubts, refer to Title 18 Sec. 1302 & 1341 of the Postal Lottery laws. Keep a copy of these steps for yourself and whenever you need money, you can use it again, and again. PLEASE REMEMBER that this program remains successful because of the honesty and integrity of the participants and by their carefully adhering to directions. Look at it this way. If you were of integrity, the program will continue and the money that so many others have received will come your way.

NOTE: You may want to retain every name and address sent to you, either on a computer or hard copy and keep the notes people send you. This VERIFIES that you are truly providing a service. (Also, it might be a good idea to wrap the $1 bill in dark paper to reduce the risk of mail theft). So, as each post is downloaded and the directions carefully followed, all members will be reimbursed for their participation as a List Developer with one dollar each. Your name will move up the list geometrically so that when your name reaches the #1 position you will be receiving thousands of dollars in CASH!!! What an opportunity for only $6.00 ($1.00 for each of the first six people listed above) Send it now, add your own name to the list and you're in business!!!

DIRECTIONS FOR HOW TO POST TO NEWS GROUPS!!!**

STEP ONE: You do not need to re-type this entire letter to do your own posting. Simply put your cursor at the beginning of this letter and drag your cursor to the bottom of this document, and select 'copy' from the edit menu. This will copy the entire letter into the computer's memory.

STEP TWO:
Open a blank 'notepad' file and place your cursor at the top of the blank page. From the 'edit' menu select 'paste'. This will paste a copy of the letter into the notepad so that you will add your name to the list.

STEP THREE:
Save your new notepad file as a text file. If you want to do your posting in different settings, you'll always have this file to go back to.

STEP FOUR:
You can use a program like "postXpert" to post to all the newsgroups
at once.
You can find this program at <http://www.download.com>.

Use Netscape or Internet Explorer and try searching for various new groups (on- line forums, message boards, chat sites, discussions.)

STEP FIVE:
Visit message boards and post this article as a new message by highlighting the text of this letter and selecting paste from the edit menu. Fill in the subject, this will be the header that everyone sees as they scroll through the list of postings in a particular group, click the post message button. You're done.

Congratulations!!!!!!

THAT'S IT!! All you have to do, and It Really works!!!

Best Wishes

Well I for one have a set of WARC, W5YI, and ARRL VEC badges for sale. I certainly will not put my signature on your No-code HF license son!!!!

Where will I go now? Well I thought about bailing out altogether. I sold all my radio equipment and for about a year now, I went silent. But I decided to get back to my roots and I started designing and building a few QRP rigs and even a 50 watt kicker! I have now "RE-DONE" my shack with something you will never be able to do son, homemade equipment! Only thing in it that is "storebought" is my 1931 key :)

Oh you can screw up the bands for a while and just like CB drive everyone nuts, but the new will wear off and there will be a glut of HF gear on the market in a few years. Those who put nothing in will soon get bored and bail out.

You will find me where you cannot go! I will be that faint, almost imperceptible little sound way back there in the back, talking across the globe on 1 watt on my homebrew antennas and transmitters :) There will be no nocoders in my world son :) I have the ability to design a good enough RIT and crystal filter to tune you right out LMAO!

And when you have a question or your radio breaks or something doesn't work, I will be the one who charges you an arm and a leg to fix it ROTFLMAO! And when you get ready to work "groundwave", I will be glad to tell you how deep you have to bury your antenna :) You think having enough money to buy a radio makes you a ham? LOL, nothing could be farther from the truth.

There are two types of people in this world, my friend: those who agree

Design a good enough RIT? Sounds like you don't even know what one is.
